MOTOR NOTES AND NEWS.

Automatic Signals for Trams and 'Buses : A Necessity for Traffic Safety.

The serious danger in which the absence of a system of signals on the part of tramcars and 'buses involves present day traffic, is at last receiving the attention of public authorities. Because of the many accidents due to want of such precautions, the Traffic Control Committee of Birmingham has decided to carry out experiments with automatic signalling apparatus on the backs of tramcars and 'buses which operate in the area under their control.

The necessity for similar indicators being fitted to the trams and omnibuses which ply for hire in the Dublin metropolitan area is equally urgent, and some system of signals, if the present-day traffic is not to increase its toll of fatal and other injuries, is absolutely necessary. So far, tramcars and 'buses have no obligation to give traffic signals, and the result is that their neglect to do so is responsible for considerable injury to cars and passengers.

DISREGARD OF SIGNALS.

To-day it is the exception to observe a tram or 'bus conductor giving a signal to stop, and the result is that it is no uncommon thing to find the following car crash into the rear of a tram or 'bus. 'Buses, owing to the competition which exists, when they pull up to take a passenger, not only fail to draw into the left side of the roadway, but suddenly stop in the centre of the highway without giving the least warning of their intention to do so to following traffic. One can never tell when or where a 'bus will suddenly stop, and when one of these unwieldy vehicles, travelling at anything up to forty miles an hour, suddenly comes to a stand-still in the centre of the highway, the danger and dislocation that results to the line of traffic may be easily imagined.

SUDDEN STOPPING IN TRAFFIC LINES.

The sudden stopping of trams without giving any signal of their intention constitutes even a greater danger. Since the coming of the 'bus the trams now stop at whatever point a passenger wishes to join them, so that, as in the case of the 'buses, motorists or other road-users have no idea where they will come to a stand-still. Using the right centre of the roadway, and travelling at a speed of anything up to thirty-five miles an hour, close up traffic is placed in a very dangerous position, with the sudden pulling up of these vehicles, and the consequences are very often serious for the car and its occupants which is nearest to it.

The application of an automatic system of signals to both trams and 'buses, which operate in and around Dublin, is long overdue, and its introduction would be a very important step towards the safety of those using the roads and highways.

EASING CITY TRAFFIC.

While on the subject of trams, there are one or two suggestions which, if carried out, would considerably tend to the easing of the flow of traffic in the city and suburbs. Many of the original stopping places for inward and outward bound tramcars are so arranged that the trams stop almost abreast of one another when they meet on the route. In some instances there is barely room enough for a car to pass between both trams, and if it could be managed so that a greater space would be left between the trams when they are at a standstill, it would be greatly appreciated by motorists, as also would a signal from the driver of the trams indicating that he is about to proceed.

A DANGEROUS JUNCTION.

The junction of Lincoln place and Leinster street, is becoming a regular death-trap owing to the heavy 'bus traffic which runs through from Westland row to Kildare street. The 'bus drivers take little heed of the lines of traffic running along Nassau street in the direction of Merrion square and vice versa; and, no matter how heavy the line of traffic is on this main road, the 'buses cut through it to enter Leinster street. Accidents are of frequent occurrence at this point, and a little supervision on the part of the Guards is at present very necessary.

RUSTING JOINTS.

Adjustments in the several points and connections beneath the chassis are so seldom needed that these particular and important parts of the car are generally neglected. It is, however, well worth while to occasionally scrape the mud and dirt which has collected on these individual connections, owing to their proximity to the ground, and rub with a well oiled rag, so that they will not get rustbound. This precaution may make a great deal of difference in the repair bill when the time comes to carry out an adjustment in the steering gear or the brake system.

SPRING GREASING.

A few weeks ago I mentioned in these notes how necessary it was to occasionally grease the springs of a car, in order to ensure easy and non-squeaking running. There has been recently placed on the market a simple leaf spring greaser, which enables the grease to be forced between each layer of springs. This keeps each spring a free acting unit, sliding and working smoothly. The operation can be carried out without dismantling the springs.

Local Agents Everywhere.

MR. BINCHY, K.C., CONGRATULATED.

In the High Court, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. Michael Binchy, K.C., who was called to the Inner Bar on Wednesday, was congratulated by Mr Justice Hanna. His lordship said that Mr. Binchy was very worthy of the honour conferred upon him, and would uphold the highest traditions, not only of the Inner Bar, but of the Bar as a whole.

Mr. Binchy, K.C., thanked his lordship.

QUAY SUPERINTENDENT RETIRES.

On the occasion of his retirement on pension, after long and faithful service, Mr. W. J. Chalmers, quay superintendent, British and Irish Steam Packet Company, Ltd., who had been identified with the shipping of the port of Dublin for over fifty years, was presented with an inscribed gold-mounted umbrella and a wallet containing a substantial cheque by the management and staff of the company.

Mr. Barry, general manager, in making the presentation, said that Mr. Chalmers had filled the position of quay superintendent with such credit to himself and satisfaction to the company that his services were retained beyond the retiring age limit. He hoped that Mr. Chalmers would enjoy his well-earned rest for many years to come.

Several colleagues on the staff expressed their goodwill in similar terms.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

WOMAN MONEY-LENDER SUMMONED.

"750 PER CENT. INTEREST."

(BEFORE MR. HANNON.)

Inspector T. G. O'Neill summoned Christina McCoy, 1 Hutton's lane, off Summerhill, for, as alleged, having acted as a money-lender without being registered.

Mr. Clarke (State Solicitor's Office), who prosecuted, said there were two summonses, and they were brought under the Moneylenders Act.

The first witness, a woman, stated that she carried on a small business at Hutton's lane, where defendant also carried on a business. In February, 1929, witness borrowed £3 from defendant, and on that amount continued to pay 9s. interest weekly, until the Friday of Christmas week. On that day witness paid £2 14s. in full discharge of the loan. She refused to pay the full amount, £3, as she was of opinion she had paid sufficient already.

Witness further said that on another occasion she borrowed £4 from defendant, and paid interest on it at the rate of 12s. per week for forty weeks, her husband not being working at the time. At the end of that time defendant told her she had got a loan of £10 for her from a loan fund. Defendant kept £4 12s. for the loan and interest for a week, and also £1, which had been deducted as interest for the loan by the loan fund.

Witness added that she repaid the £10 loan through the defendant by weekly payments of 5s. The interest charged by defendant amounted to 750 per cent. per annum. Witness first borrowed from her in 1918.

Another woman, with an address at Hutton's lane, stated in evidence that defendant had lent her money during the past three years. On December 17 last she lent witness £6, and witness repaid her £6 10s. on the Saturday before Christmas. About two years before that witness had borrowed £3 10s. from defendant. On that loan witness paid her interest for three years at the rate of 8s. 6d. per week.

Inspector O'Neill told the Court that in an interview defendant admitted lending money, but denied that she had charged interest.

Mr. Clarke—Have you any reason to believe that she is acting as agent for someone else? Do you believe she is a catspaw?—No, she is not a catspaw. She acts with great profit to herself.

In answer to Mr. Hannon, the inspector said he believed the defendant borrowed the money and lent it at an exorbitant rate of interest.

Defendant, who did not appear, was fined £50.

Later in the day Mr. T. Maguire, solicitor, appeared for the defendant, and raised the point that there was an error in the summons with respect to a date.

Mr. Hannon then adjourned the case for fourteen days.

MILK CONTRACTOR FINED.

Patrick Goodwin, dairyman, with an address in Parnell street, was charged with having, in May last, supplied to the Dublin Union 36 gallons of milk, which, on analysis, revealed a 10 per cent. deficiency of fats.

Mr. Greene, solicitor, appeared for the Union Commissioners.

For the defence it was stated that the milk was delivered as received by the contractor from the owner of the cows.

Mr. Hannon said that in that case the only protection the contractor could have would be a warranty from the person supplying the milk.

Mr. Greene said defendant had been a contractor to the Union for some years, and this was the first complaint that had been made.

A fine of £4 was imposed.

Mr. McGonagle, solicitor, appeared for the defendant.

COAL PROSECUTION.

James Byrne, described as a coal vendor, of Watts square, was fined 10s. and 10s. costs for having on his cart, on May 31st, four bags of coal light in weight.

Mr. Abbot, Inspector for the Borough Commissioners, stated that on having the bags, each of which was supposed to contain 10 stone, weighed, he found them deficient to the extent of five, seven, six and eight pounds, respectively.

The defence was that the bags were wet when being filled, and when drying they lost weight, thereby causing the deficiencies stated.

GIRL UNDER MOTOR CAR.

(BEFORE MR. SULLIVAN.)

Inspector Richard O'Connell and Guard Forde, 147 B, charged Hugh Dunleavy, Coole, Co. Westmeath, a hackney car proprietor, with being drunk while in charge of a motor car in Pearse street on Wednesday night.

Mr. P. F. O'Reilly, solicitor, defended.

Guard 147 B gave evidence of seeing a motor car standing at an angle across portion of Pearse street. There was a girl lying beneath it between the front wheels. With the assistance of Guard 175 B witness got the girl out and had her conveyed to Mercer's Hospital.

Defendant was not in the car at the time witness arrived, but he found him standing behind a taxi some distance away. Witness at once came to the conclusion that defendant was drunk—too drunk to be in charge of a car. The defendant protested that he was not under the influence of drink, but admitted that he had had some drink before the occurrence.

To Mr. O'Reilly—He would not be examined by a doctor, as he declined to pay the fee.

Guard 175 B, John Colville, Peterson's lane, and Inspector O'Connell also gave evidence. The latter said that the injured girl was still in hospital. (Her name did not transpire during the evidence.)

Mr. O'Sullivan remanded the case for a week.

At the annual meeting of the Newcastle-West Town Commissioners Mr. Sean Brouder, M.C.C., was unanimously re-elected Chairman for the tenth year in succession. Mr. William Phelan was re-elected Vice-Chairman, also unanimously.

SOCIOLOGY AND RELIGION.

The Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism. By Max Weber. Translated by Talcott Parsons, Tutor in Econmics, Harvard University. Foreword by R. H. Cawney. London: Allen and Unwin. 10/6 net.

MAX WEBER (1864-1920), the author of these posthumous papers, stands revealed as a typical pre-war German professor of the nobler sort. As the helpful foreword tells us, he was trained as a jurist, became famous as a professor at Freiburg, Heidelberg and Munich, travelled widely and wrote learnedly at an unusual angle, on rural conditions sociology, methodically systematised and, as here, on the sociology of religion. An honoured member of a highly honoured class, he lived to see the close of the war. He took a vigorous part in the negotiations which led to Versailles when few could be found with the vigour, patriotism and training to speak for their stricken Fatherland. He went to Versailles, nor are we surprised to learn that he died in the following year.

It is easy now to criticise a man like Weber, of whom specialists easily could say that he was half-theologian and half-economist, and but second-rate in either category. We maintain that men who can write knowingly of more than one great subject at a time are needed sadly in these days of compulsory over-specialisation. Their power, too, is large: a queen on a chess board is but a rook and a bishop by turns, yet is she more than a match for them both. Therefore, we are free to applaud the courage with which Weber, in a materialistic age, insisted on the power of Faith in the detailed works of Capitalism.

When this has been said we cannot go on to say that our author made here many other very signal contributions to the knowledge of mankind. The book consists of about 150 pages, made up of five magazine articles, to which are appended 100 pages of notes.

The translator naïvely remarks that the volume of footnotes shows how the problem grew up in Weber's own mind, "and that it would be a pity to destroy that for the sake of artistic perfection." It would be more ingenious to own that the author—probably owing to the war—never found time to revise his work, and that the piety of his friends has sufficed to rescue his remains from oblivion, but not to make them easily readable either in German or in English.

Weber's position briefly is as follows:—The beliefs of men have a swift result in the affairs of life, and notably in the case of the early Protestants. Their success in commerce is well known; he attempts to trace the connection between the great emphasis which Luther placed on the Beruf, or Sacred Calling, which Weber supposes to have been hitherto confined to the life of the religious. There are few sciences so needlessly obfuscated with obscure jargon as is that of economics, and an author is not free from the vice of his time, place and peculiar study. So far, however, his message is plain and useful, and excited a lively controversy in which he had the felicity of seeing two of his critics fall heavily on each other. Yet at this point a damp falls upon our author: the light cloak to which Baxter had compared the successful commerce of a Kidderminster puritan may become "an iron cage." In a word, Weber shares the fears of the author of "Metropolis" and of the "Robots." His trumpet gives an uncertain sound, and he ends as a defeatist in economics and, perhaps, in religion.

NATURE RAMBLES.

"Nature Rambles." By Edward Step, F.L.S. London: Frederick Warne. 2/6 net.

MR. EDWARD STEP already is well known to all lovers of Nature through his brightly-written and informative works on English country life and natural history. Now he appears again before the public with a series of four books—"Winter to Spring," "Spring to Summer," and "Autumn to Winter," the new "Come With Me" books. The first volume, "Winter to Spring," now before us, constitutes delightful reading; indeed, there is more than a slight resemblance in Mr. Step's pleasant flowing style to that of Richard Jefferies, and in the same charming manner we are conducted through the various common sights of a spring countryside, so that the birds, flowers, small animals and reptiles take on a new and vivid interest.

Owing to their small size and compact shape these are very "pocketable" books, and the student of Nature will have no difficulty in carrying one or more volumes along during a country ramble. The print is excellent, and numerous coloured illustrations lend additional interest. There is one picture with which we must find fault—namely, the Jackdaw, facing p. 93—though it seems a shame to grumble at one drawing where so much is good.

We heartily recommend this book to all members of nature and field clubs, etc., and, if the remaining three books of the series are up to the same high standard, Mr. Step will have rendered a service to all amateur naturalists and, incidentally, to his publishers as well.

ETHEL MANNIN.

Confessions and Impressions. By Ethel Mannin. London: Jarrolds. 10/6 net.

MISS ETHEL MANNIN, at the age of twenty-nine, has written her autobiography, and it is a sufficient commentary upon her admirers to say that few of them will regard this fact with surprise.

She was born, as she tells us, in Clapham, of an Irish father, who claimed to be a descendant of Brian Boru, but her lineage from the victor of Clontarf does not seem to have impressed her overmuch. Miss Mannin relies solely upon her own genius. She writes of her early schooldays with unusual candour, and she tells us that as an immature girl of sixteen she was factotum of three home journals. Until this age she says that she was "deeply religious," but a perusal of Robert Green Ingersoll and Thomas Paine's "Age of Reason" brought an instant change upon her outlook. Innumerable articles and several novels followed this metamorphosis and gave her a reputation that led, not unnaturally, to a visit to America.

MISS E. MANNIN.

Rather unexpectedly—almost, we might say, ungratefully—she does not appear to have approved of the United States. Although she enjoyed cocktail parties à deux, what we suppose to have been an inherent contrariness impelled her to describe her hosts' country in the following terms:—"Everyone who has only seen New York comes home and generalises about America, but America is probably the one country in the world about which it is safe to generalise. It is the country of iced water, orange juice, cereal breakfasts, steam-heat, mouth washes, beauty parlours, soda-water fountains, spoilt women, mass production ideas, women's clubs, cults, straw hats, and men's rational underwear. It produces wood-alcohol, canned goods, chewing gum, waffles, gold-diggers, sugar daddies, red-hot mommas, Babbitts, hot-dogs, boot-leggers, sweeties, and most of what is bad in modern civilisation. It is the home of advertising, petting parties, revivalism, methodism, purity leagues, rotary clubs, quick-change marriages, speak-easies, cocktails in soup cups, systems, and the Better Spirit in Business. It is the only country in the world which could have produced Aimée McPherson, Henry Ford, Woodrow Wilson, and a squabble in the second decade of the twentieth century over Darwinism versus Genesis. . . .

"It is the country where machines think like human beings and human beings like machines. Time can but increase, and custom emphasise, its infinite vulgarity. It is the country without a soul."

This diatribe, no doubt, was induced by the joint heritage of Clapham and Robert Green Ingersoll. Indeed, any other improbable combination in Miss Mannin's case might have induced the same effect.

She regards Mr. Bertrand Russell as the "greatest living intellect of our age," and in the second half of her book, which is devoted to portraits of "people who have interested her," she accords him a panegyric. At this point we may mention that of the rest who have had the good fortune to interest Miss Mannin, the most outstanding are Mr. Arnold Bennett, Mr. Jacob Epstein, Mr. Hannen Swaffer, Miss Radclyffe Hall, Mr. George Lansbury and Mr. Beverley Nichols.

Those who agree with her enjoy the hyperbole of her esteem; those who disagree with her she condemns from an Olympian height. Mr. Swaffer especially is castigated without mercy, while Mr. George Lansbury receives a modicum of praise. "He is up against middle-class snobbery," says Miss Mannin. . . . "He is the Socialist who kept the faith, and as such I salute him." Approbation from such a quarter, no doubt, will hearten the First Commissioner of Works in his efforts to promote general happiness.

The book is "frank"; it is "clever"; it is little more. Yet, unfortunately, to thousands it will be a compendium of the "philosophy of a modernism." Such as it is, it is written with piquancy; but a Freudian self-analysis by a girl of twenty-nine eo ipso must be a limited effort.

AUCTION BRIDGE.

"Aces and Kings." By Stanley Harris. London: Thornton Butterworth. 3/6 net.

MR. HARRIS refuses resolutely to be quoted as an "authority" on auction bridge. At the most he thinks one can but offer one's views on this popular game, in the full knowledge that the views of another keen player may be totally different. In spite of the modesty of Mr. Harris, this is one of the best books on auction bridge that has come upon the market; and the tyro, who studies it carefully, will become less likely to upset the neat design of his partner by an injudicious bid. Mr. Harris disapproves whole-heartedly of an initial bid of more than one of a suit. On the rare occasions when one wishes for nothing else, the bid ought to be three; never two, in his opinion.

He longs for the day when the dummy hand shall be exposed before the opening lead; and, time after time, he comes back to the supreme importance of drawing the trumps of one's opponents. "There are more people on the Embankment for their failure to do this than for any other cause," he reminds us. This book can be recommended to all who play auction bridge, though some of us may consider that Mr. Harris is inclined to be over-cautious in his calls.

No one will accuse him of recklessness or of "laying down the law" to any player but himself.

"MISFIT."

Misfit. By Captain J. R. White. London: Cape. 10/6 net.

NOBODY expected Captain Jack White, D.S.O., to write an orthodox autobiography, and he certainly has not done so. His title, "Misfit," gives a clue to his whole life and work. At school he always was in revolt against authority, and he invariably was found out. Other boys might be able to defy the powers that were with impunity; but Jack White never got away with it, and, possibly for that reason, was almost as popular with the masters at Winchester as he was with his comrades. On one occasion he did go rather far when he tied a Chinese cracker to the tale of a dominie's gown; but his pranks generally were harmless, and he never escaped the penalty of his boyish misdeeds.

When he went to South Africa he had a series of adventures that only Jack White could have had. He won the D.S.O. for conspicuous gallantry, although he makes very little of this incident in his book, and succeeded in running up against most of the Brass Hats, including the great Kitchener himself. In those days he must have been rather a trial to his father, who was the hero of Ladysmith: for he was always doing the unexpected thing and seemed to have a constitutional inability to submit to the tiresome discipline of army life.

Irishmen, of course, will be interested chiefly in Captain White's decision to settle down in this country and devote his abounding energies to his favourite pastime of upsetting apple carts. There were many apple carts in Ireland in those years; and Jack White had a go at most of them. His description of the founding of the Citizen Army is of particular interest, since it reveals many facts that hitherto have not been made public. It was a strange business. Who would have believed that the force that was born in a certain room in Trinity College would develop later into the backbone of the revolutionary movement of 1916? Captain White's part in the formation and training of the Citizen Army can be told only by himself. He has a vivid and entertaining style, and its interest is enhanced by the fact that he never tries to hide his own shortcomings. Indeed, his book is a remarkable piece of self revelation. He is partly genius, partly malcontent, partly mischief-maker, but wholly likeable. In a word, the book is the man, and, however one may disagree with the author, one cannot but admit that he is among the most interesting persons who have trodden the well-worn boards of Ireland's political stage.

MR. STURGE MOORE.

Mystery and Tragedy: Two Dramatic Poems. By T. Sturge Moore. London: The Cayme Press. 7/6 net.

THE classical continues to entice Mr. Sturge Moore's genius. These two verse plays—for they are more than dramatic poems—are alike in that their subjects are classical, but they differ greatly in spirit and execution. The mystery, "Psyche in Hades," is the finer work of the two; its changes of character are subtler and it shows deeper insight. Both are of the highest value, showing once more that the poet touches little that he does not adorn. The verse-play calls for a peculiar genius lest it falls on the one hand into the vice of excessive rigidity or, on the other, becomes lyrical and forgets that it is a play. Mr. Moore blends the extremes of his craft happily by a strange economy of word that, nevertheless, makes perfect music.

UNLIKE another literary organisation that chooses for its readers the very cream of the huge yield of "thrillers," the Book Guild seems to favour stories to which the adjective "exciting" could not be applied. This conscientious tale of Gerald Imray and of his domestic entanglements is distinguished by a very shrewd observation of character and of detail rather than by spectacular events. The chapter that deals chiefly with the gastronomic discomforts of the trying voyage to Jersey will make the reader feel once more the familiar uneasiness caused by the Irish Sea. To most people the title may be a puzzling one, but reference to the paper jacket will tell them that the hero could deal only with life at "arm's length." Unfortunately, he is forced to come to closer grips with it, because of the truly unpleasant position in which he finds himself. The characters are well portrayed; Mrs. Pound and her daughters are real people.

HERE is one of the refreshing novels that remind the reader that the life of an ordinary person like himself may be interesting.

> "Rejoice, small man, in this small world of mine, > Yea, even in their hens and in their eggs."

Every one of the characters in Mary Forrester's book, in his own way, "follows the Gleam." There are the ex-officer, whose poultry farming is not hampered too seriously by an artificial leg, and the mother who gives up all thought of self in her passionate desire to make life easier for the boy who loses his sight.

The picture of Tristram during his temporary blindness is excellent. One feels that the things stressed by the author as causing him dread really are the things that a recently blinded man most would mind. "It feels like a tarantula," he thought, when a spider crawled across the back of his hand as he sat on the grass.

"The Gleam" is a charming tale of ordinary folk.

ANY book in which an overworked general practitioner figures prominently, has great possibilities of interest. Unhappily this story soon becomes the life history of Jill, the doctor's daughter. At the age of eighteen she writes a masterpiece; then, against the advice of all her friends, she marries a man, who certainly is to be pitied. As soon as Jill finds that domestic duties interfere with her writing, she shelves house and husband, and embarks upon a career that reflects sadly upon her upbringing. During those brisk years her books degenerate sadly, while at home her deserted husband awaits her return. In due time she comes back, only to find that the "trivial round and common task" help her to write a book that is even better than her first attempt. Writers of masterpieces ought to read this book when they feel discontented with their lot; it will prove beneficial.

THE Latin people produce a far greater number of novels of the autobiographical type than the English, and we believe that, on the whole, this species of fiction is not very popular in these islands. The difference is more conventional than real. There is something about our traditional feeling of reserve which makes us cherish the illusion that the characters in a novel are objective creations, and we do not like even in fiction to feel that anyone is being too intimate or self-revealing to us. It is bad form to talk about oneself in this country, though one may talk about other real or hypothetical people as intimately as one likes. Personalities make us shy. The Latin people are less afraid of the "moi," less shy of their emotions, and novels such as Ramon Maria Tenreiro's "The Handmaid of the Lord" are, consequently, better understood and appreciated in the countries of their origin.

THERE is but slight family resemblance in this posthumous child of James Oliver Curwood's brain to its elder brethren that delighted us years ago: "The Country Beyond," "A Gentleman of Courage," and others of that kind.

This volume has been compiled from the notes and manuscripts left uncompleted by Curwood when he died. It is the tale of a gunman with an artistic temperament; and this, we have always been told, is an unhappy combination. The story opens in an American city, where crime flourishes, and it ends in Michigan, in the green timber country. It tells of a criminal who refused to become a member of a gang; and who, through his love for a child, longed for, and attained to, better things.

TYLINE PERRY has written a satisfactory detective story, with an unusual setting. The man who is presumed to have been killed in a mine explosion is found to have been murdered; after that, things really begin to move. The author does not strive too hard to hoodwink his readers; even when matters seem most doubtful he gives them the comfortable feeling that, though they may not know exactly what has happened, it certainly will prove to be something less distressing than the thing that is supposed to have taken place. Placidly, though with an interest that does not flag, one reads on; and one enjoys the book none the less because one is not unduly harrowed in the reading of it.

AT the beginning of this simple, homely and delicately told story, we meet Roger Bliss, a journalist, just achieving success as an author, and his wife Stella, with their eight-year-old twin children, on their way to a picnic to the woods.

The writer recounts the history of their early life and trials. Roger's tragic love affair and the loss of his dearest friends in the war, have left him heart-broken and hopeless. Stella has been disappointed and disillusioned because, after seven months in a convent she is not allowed to take the veil, since the Mother Prioress believes she has no true vocation. Finding that her place in her home has been filled in her absence she goes to London to take a secretarial course, and there meets Roger, sitting in the park, depressed and sad. They become friends and learn to love one another. The characters are drawn with uncommon clearness of vision.

LORANG AGAIN IN COURT.

A FORMAL REMAND.

Francis Lorang, who is charged with the alleged fraudulent conversion of various sums of money, totalling £317,000, in connection with the Blue Bird Oil Companies, appeared at the Guildhall Police Court, London, yesterday, and was formally remanded until to-day.

Dressed in a blue serge suit, a soft white collar and dark tie, he arrived in a taxi-cab, accompanied by a detective. He was unnoticed as he walked briskly across the well of the court to the cells below. He glanced up once as he passed in front of the magistrate's bench and smiled.

Lorang looked very much fitter than when he arrived in England on Monday, and had lost the drawn and pale look he then had. Business men crowded the court when the magistrate, Alderman Sir Alfred Bower, took his seat.

When he was called, Lorang stood stiffly in the dock; he was not there more than two minutes.

Mr. Harry Myers, solicitor for Lorang, asked that the remand should be until to-day to afford Lorang facilities for inspecting the books.

The application was granted, and Lorang then left the dock.

Accompanied by his solicitor and a detective, he went into a room in the Guildhall, and started work on the books of the company which Mr. Myers had brought to the court.

CRIMINAL LAW AMENDMENT COMMITTEE.

The Criminal Law Amendment Committee commenced its second sitting at Government Buildings yesterday at 11 o'clock. Evidence was taken from Mr. Cussen, Senior Justice of the Dublin District Court, and from Miss K. M. Sullivan, Probation Officer.

The Committee will meet at the same place to-day at 11 a.m., when evidence will be taken from Mr. Frank Duff, social welfare worker.

The airship R 101 left her moorings yesterday at Cardington, Bedfordshire, shortly before five o'clock for a trial flight in the vicinity of Bedford. She returned after four hours.

WHAT ABOUT YOURS?

A GREAT HISTORIAN.

DR. A. G. RICHEY'S CENTENARY.

IMPARTIALITY.

(By W. B. D.)

FEW members of the teaching staff of Trinity College, Dublin, or of the Irish Bar remember the distinguished figure of Dr. Alexander George Richey, LL.D., Q.C., one of the most brilliant scholars who passed from Dublin University during the last century; whose great abilities won for him the friendship of men of European reputation, and whose copious stores of knowledge he was always ready to open to those who sought to draw from them. This year brings around the centenary of his birth; and, considering all that he did for his country, as historian and jurist, his splendid services well deserve commemoration. His brilliant career is full of inspiration for the student of to-day, and furnishes striking evidence of how much, even in a comparatively short life, an enthusiastic worker can accomplish in the most difficult departments of historic research. Richey was a man who possessed in a marked degree the philosophic breadth of outlook which was so distinctive of Edmund Burke—judicial, clear-sighted, and tolerant—and hence it is that his most notable work, his "Lectures on the History of Ireland," in two volumes, delivered in 1869 and 1870, still remains unsurpassed as the most impartial and dispassionate contribution which has as yet been made to the history of Ireland.

HIS EARLY CAREER.

He had the natural equipment for the scientific historian, an earnest regard for truth, and presented the evolution of events and the actions of the men concerned in them in their true relations. By predilection and training he was well adapted for the work. In his boyish essays at composition when he chose a subject it was usually some well-known character in Anglo-Norman or Tudor times, whom he would describe with well-chosen words, setting forth his merits and defects with careful discrimination. From early youth his talents showed a decided bent towards the writing of history, and his high connections gave assuring hope that they would develop with good results. He came to Dublin University from Dungannon High School, and took a high scholarship on entering Trinity College, followed by a foundation scholarship, and after securing several minor prizes won the great distinction of first Classical Moderatorship. He set the pace for all the students, and showed powers of application which soon outdistanced the most diligent. Isaac Butt, who knew him well, and admired his zeal for learning, observed of him that his acquisitive powers were astounding. It was the influence of the Irish Liberal leader (as he was in later years to be) that turned young Richey's mind to legal studies, and gave him that keen relish which he always exhibited of tracing the growth of legal ideas in early history.

A WELL-STOCKED MIND.

The year that first knew him at the Four Courts brought him the lasting friendship of many lawyers and judges, and distinguished Irishmen of all political shades of thought, who were quick to realise that the young barrister's mind was furnished with a stock of learning, various and extensive, far beyond that of the average University. Professor Mahaffy, one of his closest friends, has put it on record that "no other man at the Irish Bar understood so thoroughly the value of the comparative method in the study of early jurisprudence, and making known the sources and development of those ideas which are common to the legal codes of primitive peoples." It was the recognition of this quality that obtained for him the work of carrying on the editing of the "Ancient Laws and Institutions of Ireland," published under the authority of the Master of the Rolls. His introductions to the third and fourth volumes of that all-important series of collections of early Irish history at once brought his name into the forefront of Celtic scholarship. The preface to the fourth volume, which is exclusively his own, is a masterly survey of old Irish laws and customs, and, besides proving his wide knowledge of the history of legal procedure in this country in pre-Norman times, shows the keen insight he had into the nature and constitution of old Irish life, and the customs and observances on which it was based. It was while he was engaged upon this labour that Sir Henry Maine, in England, and Lavaleye and other juridical writers in Europe, were occupied in similar studies, that Richey was able to throw valuable light on the parallelisms between Irish and Celtic customs on the Continent from the fifth to the tenth century, and to show that they had a common origin, and were not isolated growths, as hitherto supposed.

THE BREHON LAWS.

Dr. Richey's study of the Brehon laws was a fitting prelude to the work which he was taking in hand in the few remaining years of his life. It gave him that liveliness of perception and certainty of vision that enabled him to trace his steps through the mazes and obscurities of Irish history. It also enabled him to [illegible] more sympathetically the feelings [illegible]tive Irish, and, at the same time, [illegible] faithfully forth the efforts of English administrators, however misdirected or inadequate to deal with the conditions which confronted them. Taking a wide and understanding view of both sides of the problems that presented themselves in those trying times, we can well feel the full significance of Dr. Richey's wise dictum that "the study of Irish history teaches us sympathy with all parties." While he always reveals a calm and judicial mind in his observations, and is keenly sensitive to anything that savours of hardship or tyranny, he never shrinks from assigning blame to those that deserve it. A love of truth, fearless, frank and manly, marks all his writings, and so confers upon them a value which places them on a higher plane than has been attained by any contemporary or later writer on Irish history.

For the collector of a well-chosen library of Irish books, no two volumes are more to be desired than those two which contain his lectures, the first course before the students of Alexandra College in 1869, and the second before students of Trinity College in 1870. Some years later they were edited and slightly rearranged by Dr. Romney Kane, together with two brilliant lectures delivered by Dr. Richey in Edinburgh. This is the work which will be its author's most enduring monument. For the ground it covers, it remains easily the best and fairest record of Ireland and her people up to the time of the Plantation. Lucidity, vigour and directness are its outstanding characteristics. Its fairness and balance of statement have caused it to be cited more than any other historical work as one of the most equitable accounts of the conditions that faced the British Government in Ireland. In preparing his lectures he always sought to be guided by the light of contemporary events in Europe, believing that if he restricted himself to the Irish annals the result would be a one-sided and unreliable picture of the period treated. So fair was his view of the different controversies and contentions which he reviewed that it used to be remarked frequently of him that no one could ever know from his lectures to what religion he professed. Could testimony of an impartial mind go further?

VARIED INTERESTS.

Side by side with his historical studies he maintained his busy practice as a Chancery lawyer, and was also a frequent contributor to several of the leading periodicals, particularly the Athenæum, for which he wrote continuously from 1875 up to a few months before his lamented death in 1883. His wide knowledge not only of Irish, but of European history led the Board of T.C.D. to appoint him Deputy to the Professor of Feudal and English Law, one of the chief posts in the Law School of Dublin University. He discharged the duties which devolved upon him in that capacity with a zeal and assiduity that won him the admiration not only of his big class of students, but many interested ex-students, who had already obtained their silk gowns. Dr. Mahaffy, who knew him and esteemed him more than any fellow-alumnus, used to say of Richey that he was the most selfless man he had ever known. Writing of him a few days after his brief life of fifty-three years had drawn to a close, he said: "He laid little stress upon the artificial graces of life, and there was, perhaps, in his address a certain blunt directness, a want of attention to form in his speaking which might tempt a stranger to underrate him at first sight. But the sterling qualities were there, and came out upon short acquaintance, and the wideness and accuracy of his learning soon made an impression not to be effaced."

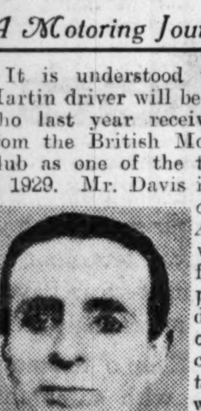
Who Was Trafalgar?

Americans always show a good deal of interest in the public buildings they pass in these islands, although that interest is of an ephemeral nature. Two Americans who were going through Trafalgar square on a 'bus lately said to one another: "Oh, this is Trafalgar square!" "Indeed," replied the second. "Who was Trafalgar, by the way?" "Oh, don't you know—it was he who won the Battle of Waterloo!"

Some Car Race Drivers.

Mr. A. C. Bertelli, whose handling of the Aston-Martin car in last year's Irish International Grand Prix attracted favourable attention, will be in charge of a team of similar cars in this year's races. Mr. Bertelli is the managing director of the Aston-Martin concern. He is an Italian, but he has been resident in England so long that few realise him to be a foreigner. He has a charming personality, being of a quiet, modest nature, even when discussing Aston-Martin cars; and he has a nice sense of humour. Mr. Bertelli has been in the racing game since 1907, though his appearance would not suggest that he was as old as such long experience would necessitate.

A Motoring Journalist.



Mr S. C. H. Davis.

It is understood that another Aston-Martin driver will be Mr. S. C. H. Davis, who last year received a special award from the British Motor Racing Drivers' Club as one of the three leading drivers of 1929. Mr. Davis is a journalist, being on the staff of the Autocar. He has written an article for the Grand Prix programme giving a driver's impressions of the Phœnix Park course. It is hoped that Mr. Davis will not be prevented from competing as a result of the injury he received in the Le Mans Endurance Race on Saturday last. While pursuing Caracciola's Mercedes Mr. Davis was struck by a stone thrown up by the back wheel of the German car. His goggles were smashed and some glass lodged in his eye, but he drove on for three laps before coming into the pits to hand the wheel to another driver.

Captain of the Bentleys.

The team of 4½ litre supercharged Bentleys is to be captained by Mr. H. R. S. Birkin. Mr. Birkin usually takes on the job of making the pace for the Bentleys' rivals, forcing them to drive to destruction, and allowing his "second string" to win. In the Grand Prix last year he chased Mr. T. Thistlethwayte until the latter's Mercedes was forced to retire. At Le Mans last week-end he set the pace for Caracciola, but on that occasion continuous tyre trouble upset Birkin's plans, though, as a matter of fact, the Mercedes also had to retire with battery trouble. The 4½ litre Bentleys had been "tipped" to make a mess of the Grand Prix handicap, but to do that they will have to make a better showing than they did at Le Mans or in the British Double Twelve.

Getting His Own Back.

A correspondent writes:—Your very interesting paragraph about Lieutenant Tipping, R.N., winning the blue riband of the Kingstown Regatta just forty-three years ago, recalls the fact that the late Colonel Saunderson told, with glee, the story of how Lieutenant Tipping, who was a fresh water yachtsman from Lough Erne, asked the Kingstown salt water yachtsmen what the course was. "Just follow us," they told him. Instead of the Lough Erne boat, "The Mischief," following the Kingstown boats, it led them, and won by seven minutes! And to-day both Colonel and Mrs. Richardson, of Rossfad, Lower Lough Erne, are among the best at the helm in the North of Ireland. Lieutenant Tipping was the father of Mrs. Richardson, and he was also the brother of Colonel Richardson's mother.

Folk Lore of the Moon.

The advent of the new moon reminds me that throughout Ireland the belief is fairly general that it is unlucky to look at the new moon for the first time through any medium except that of the atmosphere. I remember when I was a boy being often asked if the new moon was visible through the window, it being assumed that I had already seen it in the orthodox way outside the house. Maids, in drawing down the blinds, would shut their eyes if there was any chance of seeing it through the glass. Curiously enough, though, they would use outside a new silk handkerchief to see the moon through it. If you see the new moon through glass, then glass you will be sure to break before the "argent round" has waned. The epithet "argent" reminds me that it is customary to turn silver in your pocket for luck on first beholding the new moon.

A Royal Funeral.

An interesting centenary which occurs this week is the centenary of George IV.'s death on June 27th, 1830. Surely there never died a king who was less lamented, if we are to trust Greville's comments. In his account of the royal funeral he remarks: "The attendance was not very numerous, and when they had all got together in St. George's Hall a gayer company I never beheld: with the exception of Mount Charles, who was deeply affected, they were all as merry as grigs."

William IV.'s attitude was equally remarkable, and it is recorded that as he walked in the procession up the Royal Chapel he darted up to one friend and shook him by the hand and then went on nodding to right and left.

Holy River.

I am informed that between Midsummer's Day and the end of June tradition has it that the watcher at midnight will discover that the inland stream in Tyrone known as the Holy River exhibits the phenomenon of a tide. I cannot find that this has been scientifically tested, but it is certain that the river banks were until comparatively recently the scene of annual gatherings to "wake the stream." People made pilgrimages there from all the countryside, and with every token of grief mourned at the water side until after the stroke of midnight, when their lamentation, presumably if the river tide duly manifested itself, was converted into jubilation, and the participators in the rite danced the morning in. It was usual, too, much as is even to-day done on the Ganges, for young people to light a candle or dip, fix it into a kind of toy boat, and send it sailing off down stream, their argosy of fortune; but this barque was never put out on its voyage until after midnight. The whole circumstances reveal yet another survival of the ancient veneration in which stream and spring were held in pagan Ireland, a veneration that clings about many a sacred spring and well to this day all over the country, though, while the spells and charms associated with them survive to betray their origin, their tutelar spirit is no longer the old genius loci.

Ireland and the Crypt of St. Paul's.

Westminster Abbey contains the ashes of so many of our distinguished countrymen that we are, perhaps, inclined to forget the fact that in the crypt of St. Paul's Cathedral many famous Irishmen lie interred. That the Duke of Wellington sleeps in one of the vaults there, is of course, well known; but not so generally known, I venture to think, is the fact that the great Irish sculptor, John Henry Foley, who gave Dublin its statues of Goldsmith, Burke, O'Connell and Grattan, is interred in the Crypt of St. Paul's, not far from the grave of the great Sir Christopher Wren himself.

Another celebrated Irish artist and Royal Academician, James Barry, the painter, the son of a poor and almost illiterate Cork tavern-keeper, was laid to rest in the Crypt in 1806 between the graves of two other renowned painters, Sir Joshua Reynolds and Turner. A bust of Barry was placed in a niche in the wall beside his grave by brother-artists and Sir Robert Peel. In another part of the Crypt a brass commemorates five war correspondents of British newspapers who perished in the Soudan in 1883. One of these was Edmond O'Donovan, of the Daily News, son of Dr. John O'Donovan, the great Gaelic scholar, a brilliant journalist, whose early death was the culmination of many exciting adventures in many lands. The sarcophagus of the Iron Duke bears the simple inscription, "Arthur, Duke of Wellington." Tennyson's lines on the occasion of his death are memorable:—

> "Where shall we bury the man we deplore?
> Here in streaming London's central roar.
> Mid the sound of those he wrought for,
> And the feet of those he fought for,
> Echoing round his bones for evermore."

The First Carriage.

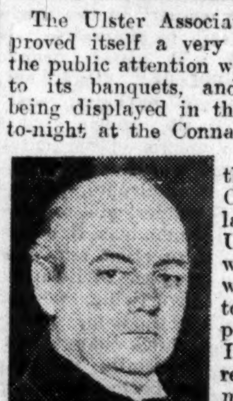
In these days, when to cross the street without keeping a sharp look-out means danger to life or limb, it is interesting to reflect that the four-wheeled vehicle is quite a modern invention; in fact, it was a rarity in Shakespeare's time. The first carriage—apart from chariots used by the ancient Romans—ever seen in England was made by Walter Rippon for the Earl of Rutland in 1555. The same coachbuilder made one for Queen Mary, and Queen Elizabeth had carriages with sliding panels, so that she could show herself to her subjects whenever she desired. The condition of the roads in those days was so bad that the early carriages soon rattled to pieces. Taylor, the "Water-Poet," was of the opinion that this means of transport would never be successful, owing to the determined opposition of the boatmen on the rivers and the owners of sedan chairs. He considered carriages dangerous to the occupants, since the wheels might come off and the vehicle be upset, and also to the general public, who might not be able to get out of the way in time to avoid being trampled upon by furiously driven horses.

An Old Road.

It sometimes is the luck of the turf-digger to happen upon antiquarian finds. A friend tells me of a curious re-discovery that he made while watching work in the bog-land of Derrytrasna, in North Armagh. The spectacle of old tree trunks laid bare by the slaun, or turf spade, is trite enough, but in this case the size of the timber and its regular arrangement as it was revealed to sight recalled to him the manner in which branches are strewn to this day as metalling for bog roads, and it occurred to him that he was watching the exposing of the foundations of some ancient road that must have been buried for centuries; for the turf-bank had been stripped fully twelve sod deep by succeeding generations in pursuit of fuel. After some inquiries he learned that, in fact, a sixteenth-century road had passed that way down to the banks of Lough Neagh, and that its course had not been ignored by those responsible for the Ordnance Survey maps, who had traced it and left their bench marks to guide any subsequent investigators. This is one of those lost roads whose course would be readily detected by aerial photography, and, if its whole length could be mapped out in that way, it is not unlikely that it might throw some new light upon the economic or social history of that area.

The Ulster Banquet.

The Ulster Association in London has proved itself a very flourishing body by the public attention which has been drawn to its banquets, and much interest is being displayed in the dinner to be held to-night at the Connaught Rooms.



Lord Hailsham.

Lord Hailsham, the former Lord Chancellor of England, who has strong Ulster associations, will preside, and he will propose the toast of "The Prosperity of Northern Ireland," to which reference will be made by the principal guest, Lord Craigavon. Lord Carson has also promised to attend, and he will give the toast of "The Empire and Our Guests."

Lord Carson's toast will make reference to the presence at the dinner of several distinguished former officers of the Ulster Division, including General Sir Hubert Gough, G.C.M.G., and Major-General Clifford Coffin, V.C., C.B., D.S.O. The Irish officers had arranged to hold their Thiepval anniversary dinner this evening, and it was a happy thought to combine the two functions

A notable list of guests have been invited to the banquet, and practically every Ulsterman of note in London will be present.

Lisburn.

To be near to greatness is often to become obscured, and the fact that motor, omnibus, and railway have succeeded in converting Lisburn into a kind of suburban appendage to Belfast has tended to make even its inhabitants blind to its beauties. To the stranger it bursts upon the sight with a vivid impression of greenery and freshness. To the left, as he goes south along the Dublin road, rise the tall antique trees in the Castle Park, making a kind of sacred grove, amid which stand the memorials of that "picnic party" in South Africa, and of Europe, spanned by "the bridges of war." Presently, the heart of local pride is revealed in the market square, where John Nicholson stands to claim Lisburn as the home of his race, even if he did see light first in Dublin. The township stretches its fingers out in reaches of woodland, and the stream is revealed which gives it its present name, though those etymologists of the rich old school of conjecture assert that the "burn" refers to an historical conflagration. In fact, I learn, the true name should be Lisgaravagh, the House of the Cardplayers, a title that gives point to the name of Magheralave that occurs there.

An Irish Lecturer.

A friend writes:—I notice that the Board of Trinity College has appointed Mr. F. Stephens as lecturer in Irish and History. Mr. Stephens is one of the few remaining personal friends of Synge. I remember meeting them together, on the roads around Castle Kevin, accompanied by their setter dog, on summer evenings, years ago. Synge, clad in home-spun tweeds, voluble always, with gestures, perhaps, adopted in Paris, never seemed to tire of the companionship of his favourite nephew.

It was, doubtless, in these surroundings that Mr. Stephens acquired that love of the Gaeltacht which was later to lead his footsteps so frequently to the West. He is an expert photographer, many of his camera pictures of Western life having been widely praised. His lectures during last winter, in furtherance of the County Libraries schemes, were attended by thousands, and the lantern slides which interspersed, depicting the Western peasantry, added realism to his themes.

YESTERDAY IN THE SENATE.

FINANCIAL SIDE OF LEGISLATION.

COUNTY CLARE'S GRIEVANCE.

WHY SHANNON WORKS DO NOT PAY RATES.

LAND ANNUITIES QUESTION.

Mr. T. WESTROPP BENNETT presided at the opening of the Free State Senate yesterday.

The Pier and Harbour Provisional Order Confirmation Bill, 1930, was given a second reading.

On the second stage of the Currency (Amendment) Bill, 1930,

Mr. BROWN asked the Minister to postpone the consideration of the measure until next session. It was not wise to take such an important bill at the fag-end of the session. There was no hurry about it, and the bill could well wait until the Senate met again.

The CHAIRMAN agreed.

Mr. DOWDALL said that he thought the matter was fairly urgent. When the original Act (1927) was passed, and Treasury notes were issued, considerable sums of money were transferred to London and invested there. The rates of interest were considerably higher then than they were now. They were now in the period of cheap money, and the rate of interest even for a few months was a consideration for this country. It was worth while to consider this bill, even if the House had to sit for a little longer.

A GOOD PROPOSAL.

Mr. COMYN was of opinion that they should proceed with the bill at once. The proposal in the bill to make investments in securities of the Government of the United States was a good one. He did not think that there was anything in the bill to which he could give serious objection; but he hoped that when the House was discussing it the minutes of the evidence given before the Banking Commission would be placed at the disposal of the Senators, in order that they might deal with the bill intelligently. The amount of currency notes in circulation in this country was at least four millions less than what it ought to be.

Mr. BLYTHE, Minister for Finance, said that he did not think the bill was very controversial. At the same time he was willing that it should be postponed, on the understanding that it would be dealt with at the earliest opportunity next session. He could not promise to give the minutes of the evidence that was taken by the Banking Commission, because portion of it was confidential, and was given on that understanding. Furthermore, the members of the Comission were selected because of their knowledge of the subject, and the publication of the evidence tendered would not give a complete picture of the situation on which the Commission based their conclusions.

Further consideration of the bill was postponed.

FARMERS AND INCOME TAX.

On the Committee stage of the Finance Bill, 1930,

Mr. WILSON asked why the Minister did not take power to invest in foreign securities other than the British—American securities, for instance?

Mr. BLYTHE said that these were short term investments, and that he did not want to put money into securities in which there would be any capital loss. There was no loss on these investments.

Mr. WILSON—How does the Minister know?

Mr. BLYTHE said that within twelve months they would get their money back.

Mr. COUNIHAN said that, as the Minister had given him an assurance that he would accept modified forms of accounts from farmers, he would not move the amendment of which he had given notice, viz.:—"On and from the 6th of April, 1930, the profits derived from the occupation of agricultural land shall not be assessable to income tax."

The Committee stage of the bill was passed. The Report stage will be taken next Wednesday.

LAND ANNUITIES.

On the Committee stage of the Appropriation Bill,

Mr. LINEHAN asked how much of the £1,150,000 referred to in the schedule representing land annuities in respect of the Land Purchase Acts prior to 1891, was included under the payment in respect of the Local Loans Fund.

Mr. BLYTHE said that a calculation could be made showing what proportion of the £600,000 to be remitted in respect of local loans was for advances under the Land Purchase Acts, but he had not got it at the moment.

Mr. GUINNESS—Are annuities under the Land Acts included?

Mr. BLYTHE—Yes: under certain Acts.

Mr. LINEHAN said that the Minister, in reply to a question in the Dáil, had stated that approximately £200,000 a year in land annuities was paid under the financial settlement of 1926. In Article V. of the settlement there was no reference to the land purchase annuities, and unless these advances were made out of the Imperial Local Loans Fund he could not see what connection they had with the Local Loans Fund referred to in the financial settlement.

Mr. BLYTHE—They were.

The Committee stage of the bill was passed.

SCHOOL MEALS IN THE GAELTACHT.

On the second reading of the School Meals (Gaeltacht) Bill,

Mr. LYNCH, Minister for Lands and Fisheries, said that the schedule of the bill did not include the whole Gaeltacht, but only the parts in which conditions were worst. The bill was permissive and not obligatory, and the local authorities were asked to supply half the cost. Under Clause 9 there would be a contribution from State funds of up to £10,000, and assuming that the local authorities only put up an equivalent amount, it would be sufficient to provide each child with a cup of hot cocoa or milk during the school year and a substantial slice of bread and butter or jam.

Colonel MOORE, in supporting the measure, regretted that the bill was not obligatory, and that it did not extend to a larger area of the Gaeltacht.

Miss BROWNE also supported the bill, and said that she hoped it would eventually extend to the whole area of the Free State.

Mr. COMYN said that care should be taken to make clear to the children that this was not the bread of charity, but a service for which their parents were paying.

Mr. WILSON expressed the fear that the ratepayers in the counties concerned would object to the provision of the necessary moneys, and that the result of the bill being permissive would be that it would prove inoperative.

Sir THOMAS ESMONDE hoped that the bill would some day be extended to the whole country. He would support such a measure, because he believed the value received would pay this country, even from an economic point of view.

"AN OPEN-AIR WORKHOUSE."

Dr. GOGARTY said that he regretted the attempt that was being made to establish the Gaeltacht as an open-air workhouse on the western sea-board. The lack of knowledge of proper husbandry displayed by the inhabitants of the Gaeltacht was the greatest handicap of that area. From November to May the children there were fed on stewed tea, and the resultant effect on their nerves could be seen in the mental hospital statistics. The conditions in the Gaeltacht were no compliment to those who were fostering Gaelic culture.

Mr. O'FARRELL said that the fact that the bill was permissive was a weakness. He was afraid that the well-to-do areas would show a disposition not to strike a rate.

Mr. LYNCH, Minister for Fisheries, said that he did not like the tone of Senator Gogarty's speech. There was no question of charity in this measure. He thought that would be perfectly clear to all concerned. One of his reasons in confining the area was to insure that the local authorities would vote the necessary money. He believed that they would.

The bill passed its second reading.

SHANNON WORKS EXEMPTION FROM RATES.

On the report stage of the Electricity (Supply) (Amendment) Bill,

Mr. COMYN moved an amendment to the effect that the Shannon works in Clare should be liable to rates, like any other industrial undertaking. The exemption of these works from rates, he said, was unjust, impolitic and dishonest.

"Has Clare been selected for this treatment," he asked, "because its people have unswervingly supported Mr. de Valera for the past fourteen years?"

Colonel MOORE supported the amendment.

Mr. JOHNSON said that the Shannon scheme was for the general public benefit, and it had no special liability to pay rates to the Clare Co. Council.

Sir THOMAS ESMONDE said that, in the interest of the common or garden ratepayer, he objected to the exemption of the Government from rates on their property, public buildings and others occupied by them.

Mr. COMYN said that the Minister put in the exemption clause for the purpose of depriving the County Clare of the contribution to which it would be entitled in case the Shannon works were regarded as public buildings. The Clare authorities would not accept £400 or £500, they would have their rights or nothing. They would have full rateable value, and that would bring in £40,000 a year. They would not have any little gift or charitable donation from the benignity of Mr. Johnson or the goodwill of the Minister. They would have their rights or nothing. These works were used for commercial purposes, and, as long as the rating laws were in existence, such property was liable to be rated, and they were entitled to have these rates paid, in ease of the ratepayers of the County Clare.

"A WELL-KNOWN REVOLUTIONARY."

Mr. McGILLIGAN, Minister for Industry and Commerce, said that it was interesting to hear so well-known a revolutionary as Senator Comyn praising the laws of the last three hundred years.

Mr. COMYN—I did not praise them.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—You relied on them. Continuing, the Minister said that it was claimed that Clare lost a certain amount on roads, and because certain people who had been injured were treated in the County Home. The contractors re-made all the roads around the area, and they were better than they were before. As regards payment in respect of treatment in the County Home, he was not aware of any bill outstanding in respect of any person who was treated for illness or accident arising out of the Shannon works. The County Clare was not singled out for exceptional treatment. Limerick, Tipperary and Clare might be said to have suffered more than the rest of the country, but all areas suffered alike in respect of new works, in so far as they lost the amounts payable on sites which were formerly agricultural land. Clare lost about £400 per annum, and Mr. Comyn wanted the county to benefit to the extent of £40,000 per annum in place of it.

Mr. COMYN—We will not sell our rights for £400.

Mr. McGILLIGAN said that he had not used the phrase "commercial scheme" which people had attempted to put into his mouth. What he had said was that the scheme was to be run under a system of commercial management on business lines, as contrasted with Civil Service management. This was a national scheme, everybody's money went into it, and if the original intention of the Government had been carried out and the works treated as Government property, Clare would not get a penny extra towards its rates. The suggestion that this clause was put in because the people of Clare supported Mr. de Valera only existed in the Senator's imagination. It was put forward only for the purpose of rhetoric.

Mr. COMYN—I defer to your ruling, Mr. Chairman, but the provocation is terrible. (Laughter.)

REASONS FOR EXEMPTION.

Mr. McGILLIGAN said that he thought it right that some day, but not immediately, the loss of £400 a year which Clare was suffering should be given back to it. Senator Comyn could then vote against the proposal when it was made. The power house under the ordinary local policy would be exempt from the majority of its rates for a number of years. They intended to let the scheme work for a year or two until it paid its way, and then they would see what revision could be made to meet cases like that of the County Clare.

If this amendment were carried, it would put a charge of £130,000 a year on the Electricity Supply Board, in addition to the charge of £50,000 imposed by Section 11. of the bill.

If they were to wipe out that section they would deprive Dublin of £30,000 a year. Clare then would get £40,000 a year, and Dublin would get nothing like that £30,000. That was an outrageous proposition. If they kept both charges of £130,000 and £50,000 the consumers in the end would pay for it.

The amendment was lost.

The Committee stage was passed.

EVICTIONS IN DUBLIN.

On the report stage of the Housing Bill.

Mr. BYRNE complained that people were being evicted from houses in Dublin in order that the ground floors could be made into shops. No alternative accommodation or compensation was being offered to the evicted families.

Mrs. WYSE POWER thought there was a by-law in existence which gave power to the City Commissioners to stop this practice.

Mr. MULCAHY, Minister for Local Government, undertook to look into the matter if Mr. Byrne would furnish him with details.

The Local Government (Dublin) Bill passed through its final stage.

The Senate adjourned until Wednesday next, 2nd July.

IN THE NORTHERN CAPITAL.

Mr. Baldwin's Speech : Visit of British Warships : The White Ulster Pig Again : Agricultural Shows : A Border Difficulty.

From Our Special Correspondent.
BELFAST, Thursday.

THE Northern Unionist leaders are jubilant at the strong stand taken by Mr. Baldwin in his struggle against the Press magnates, who are endeavouring to dictate the policy of the Conservative Party of Great Britain. They believe that his position will be strengthened by his outspoken comments, and this is important to them; for on Mr. Baldwin they depend for the salvation of Northern Ireland. Most people up here are agreed on the value of imperial free trade and the erection of a tariff wall against foreign goods; but they object to anything that would weaken the prestige and influence of the man who has done so much for them in the past.

The threatened cleavage in the Conservative Party will be awkward for one or two of the Northern members who represent the province at Westminster. It will be recalled that one of them declared at a meeting in Belfast last winter that Mr. Baldwin was not the right person to guide the destinies of Great Britain, and praised the policy of Lord Beaverbrook, with the result that many good orthodox Northern Unionists were bewildered.

WARSHIPS IN IRISH WATERS.

Ireland is favoured this week with visits from warships of the Royal Navy. The battle cruiser Renown is at Bangor, and a sister ship, the Repulse, is at Newcastle, both in County Down. The officers and crews have been cordially welcomed, and arrangements have been made to entertain them ashore. The appearance of warships in Northern waters always gives pleasure to the people of the province, as they represent the might of the Empire to which all good Unionists are proud to belong. The imperial connection is, perhaps, Ulster's most treasured possession.

The news that a British warship is also on a visit to Lough Swilly—the first since 1922—will also be welcomed by all patriotic Irishmen. She is to remain until Monday next, and Free State hospitality is being extended to officers and men. At Buncrana a reception is to be given by Free State officers to the officers of the warship, and this proof of good feeling and harmonious relationships should do much to remove many misapprehensions in Ulster as to the attitude of Southern Ireland towards Great Britain, of which this province is "an integral part." It is to be hoped that the visits of warships to Free State waters will become more frequent in future.

A PUZZLING PROBLEM.

Last week the pig industry in the Six Counties was said to be in danger of extinction through the unsuitability of the large white Ulster breed for export purposes. It was stated by cross-Channel buyers that this type of animal—so popular in the North—was flabby and oily, and altogether undesirable for the English market, only "sow prices" being obtainable for it. Such a severe comment naturally had a disturbing influence, as the breeding of pigs is an important asset to farmers. It was difficult to know what to do; for the York was praised and the Ulster was condemned.

Now, however, they are more puzzled than ever; for at a marketing of pork competition at Ballymena this week the judge, Mr. R. N. Boyd, of Belfast, in addressing the farmers on the requirements of the Ulster pork-curing industry, said that, while it was true that the York pig stood shipping and travelling better than the Ulster variety, it was a well-known fact that the farmers in Ulster on an average obtained from 3s. to 5s. per cwt. more for their pigs than the farmers in any other part of Ireland. It was, therefore, essential, he said, that the quality of the Ulster pig, upon which the pork trade of Ulster depended for the sale of rolls in England, and smoked ham in Scotland, should be maintained.

It will be seen then that one authority declares that only the lowest price can be obtained for the Ulster pigs, while another is equally emphatic that they reach the highest figure. There were 218 dead pigs in Ballymena market this week, the price offered being 66s. per cwt., a reduction of 4s. per cwt. on last week's quotations.

IGNORING THE BORDER.

This is the season of agricultural shows throughout the Six Counties, and, judging from their frequency and the high standard of the exhibits in the principal sections, such as horses, cattle and sheep, very few people would imagine that depression lies so heavily on the countryside. There has been quite a series of these fixtures recently, and all have told a story of progress in live-stock and development in the poultry classes and the dairy. It is in crop husbandry that the farming community has been most sorely stricken with low prices, due to abundance in production, accentuated by the "dumping" of foreign produce, and the Northern Government has no power to safeguard the home industry.

Apart altogether from the material advantages to be gained from the holding of shows, they serve a useful purpose in illustrating the futility of the border in certain directions. Exhibitors come from the Free State in large numbers, and many of the Northern trophies go south of the dividing line, while with closer knowledge the people learn to appreciate one another's good qualities. This is particularly noticeable in fixtures along the border counties, where in friendly rivalry the Ulsterman and the Free State citizen strive harmoniously for honours.

SPEEDING-UP OF MAILS.

The English mail service has been accelerated recently in Belfast owing to the representations of local commercial bodies, and now the people of Londonderry are seeking for a similar improvement. At a meeting of the Council of the Derry Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday the subject was discussed, and the Secretary pointed out that the speeding-up in Belfast was due to the use of direct cross-Channel services, and the fact that the Holyhead and Kingstown route was being utilised. This information was supplied to him officially by the Postmaster of Londonderry, and it was further stated that, although that route had always been used for Derry, it was not possible, owing to the geographical position as compared with Belfast, to have the mails delivered so early. In fact, it was not possible to improve upon the existing arrangements.

It was suggested at the meeting that a special mail for business houses might facilitate matters, but it was explained that a proposal to that effect had already been rejected by the Post Office authorities on the ground of expense. The postal service is reserved, and all that the Northern Government can do in the matter is to make representations to Westminster.

A REGRETTABLE DISPUTE.

The Border has been responsible for many regrettable things, and its malign influence has fallen upon Irish sport. Athletes throughout the country will deplore the results of the dispute between the Northern and Southern governing bodies in regard to jurisdiction in athletics over their respective areas. The North of Ireland Association proclaimed a sports meeting which was held at Corrigan Park, Belfast, recently; but, notwithstanding the ban, several well-known athletes, including Dr. P. O'Callaghan, the Olympic hammer champion, took part in it, and were subsequently suspended by the Ulster organisation.

The suspensions were reported to the English Amateur Athletic Association, and at a meeting of that body held this week the decisions were confirmed. This means, it is stated, that Dr. O'Callaghan, Mr. T. Healy (D.M.G.) and Mr. C. O'Connor (D.M.G.) will not be allowed to compete in the A.A.A. championships at Stamford Bridge on Saturday week. According to Sir Henry Barclay, hon. secretary of the A.A.A., there was no other alternative in the circumstances. All lovers of sport will regret that such drastic action was necessary.

NEW CANON OF DERRY CATHEDRAL.

The Right Rev. Dr. Peacocke, Bishop of Derry and Raphoe, has appointed the Rev. John Beckett, M.A., incumbent of Upper Cumber and Learmount, to the vacant canonry of Derry Cathedral, in succession to the late Canon Smith. Canon Beckett is a brother-in-law of Sir John Ross, former Lord Chancellor of Ireland, and uncle of Major Ronald Ross, M.C., M.P.

The Bishop has also appointed Canon Baird, B.D., Strabane, examining chaplain, in room of Canon Smith.

ZION SUMMER FETE.

The Zion Summer Fête, which opens today at 3 p.m., at Danum, Zion road, Rathgar, promises to be more than usually attractive. The opening ceremony will be performed by Mr. Ernest Bewley, who has kindly placed the field at the disposal of the committee. All the parochial organisations will be represented, and the several stalls are replete with articles of an unusually alluring nature—from an "ice-cream to a white elephant."

The fête will be continued to-morrow, and will be opened at 3 p.m. by Mr. Justice Meredith.

THEATRE ROYAL, DUBLIN.

The Theatre Royal, Dublin, will be closed from Monday, 30th June, to 3rd August, when it will reopen with an entirely new style of entertainment, including vaudeville, talkie pictures and revue. The circus film, "Swing High," will be shown for the first time on this side of the Atlantic during Horse Show week, commencing Sunday evening, 3rd August.

THE BOULTER TRUST FUND.

VIEWS OF CHURCH UPHELD.

MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON'S JUDGMENT.

Mr. Justice Johnston, in the High Court, Dublin, yesterday, delivered reserved judgment in the case in which the Representative Body of the Church of Ireland asked the Court to determine a number of questions regarding the trusts of the will of the late Archbishop Hugh Boulter.

THE QUESTIONS.

The questions in effect were:—(1) When any benefice or the maintenance of any clergyman of the Church of Ireland has been augmented out of the Boulter Trust Fund, in pursuance of the provisions of 29 Geo. II., C. 18, and 46 Geo. III., C. 60, is such augmentation liable to be discontinued or diminished if and when the value of such benefice or maintenance, together with such augmentation, exceeds the value of £100 a year? (2) When any benefice or the maintenance of such clergyman has been augmented out of the fund, in pursuance of the provisions of 3 and 4 William IV., Cap. 37, is such augmentation liable to be discontinued or diminished if and when the value of such benefice or maintenance, together with such augmentation, exceeds the value of £200 a year? (3) Is the sum of £19,056 10s., representing the balance of the sum of £140,222 17s., being the amount at which the Boulter Trust Funds in the hands of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners was valued after the passing of the Irish Church Act, 1869, and against which balance no claims were substantiated prior to the 1st July, 1872, in accordance with the provisions of Section 29 of the Act, applicable to such purposes for the benefit of the Church of Ireland as the Representative Body, under the direction of the General Synod, shall think fit, or is the balance subject to the trusts affecting the Boulter Trust Fund under the Statutes 29 Geo. II., C. 18; 46 Geo. III., C. 60, and 3 and 4 William IV., C. 37, or any one or more of these Statutes? (4) If question 1 is answered in the affirmative, does the amount of such augmentation so discontinued, or the amount by which it has been diminished, continue to be subject to the trusts affecting the fund, or is it applicable to such purposes for the benefit of the Church of Ireland as the Representative Body shall think fit? (5) If question 2 is answered in the affirmative, does the amount of such augmentation so discontinued, or the amount by which it has been diminished, continue to be subject to the trusts affecting the Boulter Trust Funds, or is it applicable to such purposes for the benefit of the Church of Ireland as the Representative Body shall think fit? (6) If question 1 is answered in the affirmative, was it competent for the General Synod to relieve grants under the Statutes 29 Geo. II. c. 18 and 46 Geo. III. c. 60 from the liability to be discontinued or diminished imposed on them by these Statutes? (7) If question 2 is answered in the affirmative, was it competent for the General Synod to relieve grants made under the Statute 3 and 4 William IV c. 37 from the liability to be discontinued or diminished imposed on them by the Statute?

THE JUDGMENT.

Mr. Justice Johnston, in his judgment, said that Hugh Boulter, Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of All Ireland from 1724 until his death in 1742, left the residue of his property to his trustees for the augmentation of poor livings in Ireland, and the disposition had been a source of embarrassment and difficulty to the Church of Ireland for more than half a century. The Representative Church Body had now been wise enough to bring the matter before the civil courts for the final settlement of the questions. The Archbishop's will, which was dated November 19, 1729, and was penned on the spot where now stands the library of King's Inns, making suitable provision for various persons and charities, provided that the residue of the property should be employed in augmenting poor livings in Ireland in accordance with the directions of the Trustees of First Fruits, and then the testator added the clause: "For doing the more service with such money my will is that, whatever purchase is made with it of tythes or land, the said tythes or land shall not be made over to any incumbent absolutely till such tythes or land shall have repaid half the purchase money without interest."

It was abundantly clear upon the construction of this document, said Mr. Justice Johnston, that the Primate did not intend to fetter the exercise of discretion of the trustees by any rigid definition of "poor living." It was clear also that the purpose of the gift was the augmentation of poor livings, and not the relief of distressed clergymen: that the method contemplated was the purchase of glebes or tithes, and that the endowment was to be of a permanent and unconditional character. There was nothing in the will suggesting that the payment of annual salaries to clergymen in straitened circumstances was contemplated by the Archbishop.

THE TRUSTEES' POWERS.

It was soon found that the amount available for distribution was something considerable, but that the opportunities of laying out the money in the purchase of tithes or land arose but seldom, and accordingly the legislature was obliged to take the matter up and extend legislatively the trustees' powers in regard to the fund. In 1755 an Act was passed by the Irish Parliament—29 Geo. II., c. 18—empowering the Trustees of First Fruits to invest the whole of the funds in their hands, including the Boulter Fund, in certain authorised securities, and it was provided that the income of the Archbishop's money might be used for the augmentation of benefices which appeared to the trustees to be under the yearly value of £60—subsequently increased to £100—by the payment of annual salaries to the incumbents thereof. This—a novel expedient at the time in regard to the remuneration of parish clergymen—was a sort of statutory application of the doctrine of cy pres, the enactment expressly stating that the charitable intentions of the said testator might be in a great measure answered by the disposal of the fund or portion of it in that way.

The circumstances under which the Trustees of First Fruits came into being were of some materiality in regard to the present controversy. The right to First Fruits, payable since the time of Henry VIII. to the Crown by all the clergy of the Church of Ireland in respect of their first year of office had been surrendered to the Church by letters patent of February 7, 1712, a concession which was stated to have been made by "Queen Anne of blessed memory for the encouragement and increase of piety," but which in reality had been extracted most unwillingly from Her Majesty after two years of persistent lobbying by Dean Swift in London.

DEAN SWIFT'S "SLY HUMOUR."

Dean Swift had been sent there for that purpose by the bishops of the Irish Church, and the whole story of his machinations with Harley, whom he found "exceedingly obliging" was related with much sly humour in his letters to Stella, written from London in those years. The first trusts were granted by the Queen to a body of trustees, which was created for the purpose of holding the fund thereby surrendered and using it for the purposes of the Church. It was upon these trustees that the duty was imposed by the Act of 1755 of administering the Boulter Fund. That Act did not purport, nor was it intended, to cut down or alter the effect of the will or the power of the trustees thereunder. On the contrary, the power to augment the incomes of incumbents by the payment of salaries was entirely supplemental to the terms of the will, and was to continue only "until such purchases of tythes or land can be conveniently had or made."

The Act of 1755 was repealed in its entirety by the Act of 3 and 4 William IV., c. 37, which was a general Act to amend the laws relating to all temporalities of the Church of Ireland.

Having reviewed the objects of this Act and the provisions of its sections, especially the sections referring to the Boulter Fund and other funds vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, Mr. Justice Johnston said that he did not see how it could be argued that an augmentation by means of the purchase of lands or tithes could be other than one of a permanent character. The Act contained no machinery for periodical re-investigations and reconveyances when lands or tithes had been purchased and added to the revenue-producing property of a benefice. The whole Act suggested in the strongest way that augmentations were to be by way of endowment—or something analagous to endowment—and not of temporary assistance, such as was the case in Herbert v. McQuade.

TERRITORIAL REVENUE.

Previously to 1868 the revenue of the Church and of ecclesiastical persons was mainly territorial, and it was not until the passing of the Irish Church Act that much divergence in parochial and diocesan revenues became possible. By the Act of 1869 every scrap of property held by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in trust for the Church was transferred to the Church Temporalities Commissioners. The effect of this was to place the Boulter fund under the control of the new Commissioners, free from all ecclesiastical claims, save the compensation of life interests.

His lordship then referred to the section dealing with the question of the private endowments of the Church, and said that the section provided that, in lieu of any real or personal property becoming vested in the Commissioners by virtue of the Act, which might consist or be the produce of property or moneys given by private persons out of their own resources, the Church was to get a bulk sum of £500,000, a sum which was, he supposed, arrived at by agreement when the bill was before Parliament. That general result was, however, to be "without prejudice to any claim in respect of any particular private endowment," which might be substantiated against the fund within twelve months after the payment to the new body. The whole fund was given to the Representative Body, and it was plain that that body was intended to be the tribunal to receive and adjudicate upon the claims that might be made by persons interested in particular private endowments—that is, endowments which had been created by means of "property or moneys given to the Church by private persons out of their own resources." That would clearly include benefices or livings to which grants had been made out of the Boulter fund previously to the Church Act. The legislature, however, did not intend that the possibility of claims being made against the fund should remain hanging over the Church for ever. A year was given within which such claims should be substantiated. After that the right was gone, and whatever portion of the fund that remained was available for the general purposes of the Church.

TRUE POSITION OF AFFAIRS.

His lordship further said that he thought the whole difficulty had arisen through the failure of those who advised the Representative Body at the time to keep carefully in mind the true position of affairs—namely, that the Boulter fund was gone, having been "forfeited" or "confiscated" as a result of the Irish Church Act; that a large number of ministers or parishes were receiving grants of annuities out of that fund by virtue of the Act of 3 and 4 William IV. at the time it was swept away; that it was recognised that those parishes or clergymen should be compensated for the loss; that a general fund was provided for the purpose of compensation in respect of all private endowments; that claims for compensation should be "substantiated" within a year and should be dealt with by the Representative Body; and that so much of the fund as was not required to meet substantiated claims was to be held by that body, unaffected by any ancient trust, to be used for the general purposes of the Church. That, in his opinion, was the true position of affairs as regards the private endowments of the Church after the passing of the Irish Church Act.

ANSWERS TO THE QUESTIONS.

He proposed to answer in the following way the questions submitted to him:—(1) Yes; until the passing of the Act 3 and 4 William IV., C. 37; (2) the answer is a simple negative; (3) the answer to the first part is in the affirmative, and to the second part in the negative. He did not think it necessary to answer questions 4 or 5; and the answer to question 6 was:—"Such grants were relieved from the liability to be discontinued or diminished as a result of the provisions of the Act 3 and 4, William IV., c. 37." It was unnecessary to answer question 7.

His lordship finally said that it gave him personal satisfaction that he had been able on the construction of the will of the Archbishop and of the legislation that followed to arrive at the conclusion that he had endeavoured to express. That conclusion was in accord with the views that had guided the Church of Ireland in the administration of this fund for the last fifty years, as well as with the opinion of the late Lord Chancellor Ball. The other view which had been placed before him would, if it were established, lead to a periodical dislocation of the finance of the Church, and would not, he thought, carry out the general intention of Archbishop Boulter. The result of the decision was that the welfare of the poorer livings would continue to be in the hands of the General Synod, and he had not the least doubt that the money available for the trust would be administered with the utmost consideration for those who needed it most.

Messrs. Darley, Orpen and Synnott were the solicitors instructing counsel for all parties represented in the case.

Mr. Jellett, K.C., and Mr. M. C. Walker appeared for the Representative Body of the Church of Ireland; Mr. Garrett Walker, K.C., for the Rev. H. C. Cave, of Malahide, and the Rev. G. W. O'C. Millington, of Portadown (representing, respectively, the incumbents of parishes who are in receipt of grants under the provisions of the statutes of George II. and George III., and those who are in receipt of grants under the provisions of the statute of William IV.); Mr. Poole, for the Right Rev. Robert Miller, of Waterford (representing all incumbents who are in receipt of grants out of the £19,056 10s.); and Mr. Overend, K.C., and Mr. Newett, for the Rev. J. M. Cullimore, of Calary, Kilpedder (representing the incumbents of parishes who are not in receipt of grants under any of the Acts mentioned).

BELFAST STEAMER LOST.

CARGO SHIP GOES DOWN OFF PORTRUSH.

The Towy, a small cargo steamer, which had been on the rocks outside Portstewart Harbour since last Friday evening, was refloated yesterday morning, and was being towed to Portrush Harbour when she sank.

Three of the crew of the towing tug (Milewater, Belfast), with Captain S. J. Teggarty and the chief engineer of the Towy, manned the pumps, and, with the sea calm, everything went well until the Towy developed a decided list to the port side.

Pumping operations were hindered and rendered futile, and three men of the Milewater left the doomed vessel in a small boat.

Captain Teggarty and the chief engineer remained on board until the last moment, and when it was seen that there was nothing for it but to sever the towing rope and leave the Towy to her fate, they were taken off by the Portstewart pilot boat, which had stood by throughout.

The Towy filled rapidly, and, after straightening up, she sank very quickly and disappeared in about thirty feet of water, a short distance off Dhu Varren coast and about a mile from Portrush Harbour.

The Towy is a steamer of about 160 tons, and belongs to A. McFaul, Whiteabbey, Belfast.

RACING MOTOR BOAT OVERTURNS.

CAPTAIN BARNATO PICKED UP UNHURT.

While competing at the British International Motor Boat Meeting at the Welsh Harp, Hendon, last night, Captain Woolfe Barnato was thrown into the water when his boat capsized. Speed-boats rushed to the scene, and Captain Barnato was picked up unhurt. The boat sank in forty feet of water. Captain Barnato was endeavouring to avoid another boat as they rounded a buoy, and, he told a Press Association reporter, turned his boat a little too sharply, causing it to turn over. He had every hope that his boat would be raised within twelve hours, and that he would be able to further compete in the races for the Duke of York's International Trophy.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

CAPTAIN REDMOND DISCHARGED.

JURY'S VERDICT OF "NOT GUILTY."

JUDGE'S APPROVAL OF THE DECISION.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

The trial of Captain W. A. Redmond, D.S.O., T.D., concluded yesterday evening, when the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

The announcement of the verdict was received with much hand-clapping in Court.

His lordship, in discharging Captain Redmond, said he completely agreed with the verdict. He did not see how any one of the jurors could have arrived at a different conclusion.

Captain Redmond was indicted for the manslaughter of Thomas Murphy, Priory road, Kimmage, on the Dublin-Bray road on the 16th April last.

Mr. Cecil Lavery, K.C., with Mr. Thomas Finlay, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor), prosecuted.

Mr. Joseph O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Kingsmill-Moore (instructed by Mr. J. H. McLaughlin and Son) appeared for the accused.

Mr. Dermot Fawsitt (instructed by Mr. A. McCracken) represented the next-of-kin.

ADDRESS FOR DEFENCE.

Addressing the jury on behalf of the accused, Mr. Kingsmill Moore said that the case was one that, to use a legal colloquialism "tried itself." In spite of the apparent incompatible features of the evidence, that which was the real version of what happened on the 16th April was very clear. He asked them to approach the case as if they were trying any ordinary person. On two points only were they entitled to take into consideration Captain Redmond's past history: the first was whether they were to believe his testimony on oath; and, secondly, whether he had acted in a callous manner when the accident occurred. Taking into account his long service at Westminster, in the Dail, and on the fields of Flanders, was it likely that that man would go into the witness-chair and indulge in a course of deliberate perjury?

QUESTION OF DRINK.

In connection with the State contention that Captain Redmond was drunk, the jury must consider what drink he actually had on the day in question, what opportunities he had for getting drink; and, thirdly, whether he was drunk at the time of the accident. The only alcoholic drink which there was evidence of his having had at Aughavanagh was a share of the bottle of champagne which was served at lunch in Hunter's Hotel. That was a large quantity of liquid to consume, but not a very large quantity of alcohol. At Lawless's hotel in Aughrim he bought a bottle of whiskey and a bottle of port. Fortunately, it had been shown that the seals of these bottles had not been broken a week afterwards. After leaving Aughavanagh, Captain Redmond travelled over a road very difficult to negotiate. It was almost impossible to assume that he could have successfully done so if he had been intoxicated. Captain Redmond's own description of what happened outside Cabinteely cottages was perfectly correct. His attention was concentrated on the extraordinary gyrations of the motor cyclists on the road, and when he did see the unfortunate cyclist he had only one and a half seconds in which to try to avoid the collision. The skid mark on the road conclusively proved that he had done his utmost to avert it. This mark was thirty-five feet long, and showed that Captain Redmond had applied his brakes on the very instant of his sighting the oncoming cyclist.

Concluding, Mr. Kingsmill-Moore said there was no substantial case against Captain Redmond, proving him to have been so culpably and criminally negligent as to be a felon. There was no clear, cogent and convincing case to prove that he was drunk, and guilty of such gross and criminal negligence as cried aloud for State intervention to punish it as an offence against humanity.

REPLY FOR THE STATE.

Mr. Finlay, K.C., for the prosecution, contended that on the evidence the accused was guilty of the manslaughter of the unfortunate cyclist. With regard to the charge of being drunk, it was not necessary for a person to be absolutely incapable of standing on his feet, or of articulating properly, for him not to be in a fit condition to drive a car. The indisputable facts were that Captain Redmond was driving on his wrong side of the road and in the way of oncoming traffic. The question of intention was entirely out of this case. The jury were not trying whether Captain Redmond had had any intention of injuring the unfortunate cyclist. The onus was placed upon Captain Redmond to satisfy them that it was not any gross or culpable negligence on his part that caused the collision which resulted in the death of Thomas Murphy. Every user of the highway must have regard to the position of every other user of the highway, and the probable position of other users of the highway. Captain Redmond had not taken this into consideration when he went over to the wrong side of the road.

JUDGE'S SUMMING-UP.

Mr. Justice Meredith, summing up, said the first question was whether Captain Redmond had turned into the wrong side of the road because he had taken drink and was not able to drive his car straight. One important feature of the evidence in that connection was that all the evidence to the effect that Captain Redmond was drunk related to a time after the collision, whereas Miss Babs Byrne said that Captain Redmond was perfectly sober when he called at Cunniam's Hotel at Ashford, and went away from there perfectly sober. The jury must then weigh up the evidence of the people at Cabinteely, that Captain Redmond staggered when he got out on the grass margin, that his face was flushed, and his breath smelled of drink; and they must consider the testimony of the two doctors explaining these indications as those resulting from Captain Redmond's physical condition. The medical evidence was that if the theory of his being intoxicated at the time was at all justified, then it would be followed by a state of coma or some such effect.

BENEFIT OF DOUBT.

If they found that the evidence was not such as to justify their saying that the accused was not drunk in charge of the motor, they had the alternative to consider—namely, if there had been any criminal negligence on the part of Captain Redmond. When they were considering this they must judge by the evidence as to what happened at the time of the collision and just prior to it. If the jury had any doubt in the case, they must give the benefit of it to the accused. They must remember that the charge was a serious one. A life had been lost; but, apart from considering the gravity of the charge, they must avoid having regard to what might be called "fatty degeneration of the moral faculties," and, having weighed the testimony carefully in the balance, return an honest verdict.

The jury retired at 4.55 p.m., and were absent for 55 minutes.

DEATH OF COUNTY COUNCIL CHAIRMAN.

It was announced at the annual meeting of the Westmeath County Council for the election of a Chairman and Vice-Chairman, held in Mullingar yesterday, that Mr. George S. Gibson, the outgoing Chairman, had died the previous evening.

All parties at the meeting paid tribute to the loss which the Council and the county had sustained by Mr. Gibson's death.

A resolution of sympathy with the widow and relatives was passed, and the meeting was adjourned without transacting any business.

MESSRS. MILLS, LTD., MERRION ROW.

Messrs. Mills, Ltd., of Merrion Row, Dublin, than whom there are few better-known catering firms in this country, had a particularly varied and busy series of contracts to fulfil ' t week. The range of these during three days alone is well worth recording. On Sunday, for example, they catered for the Belvedere Union at the Slane Castle function; at St. Vincent de Paul Orphanage at Glasnevin, and at the Wolfe Tone Memorial celebration at Bodenstown. Monday was quiet by comparison—viz., various private parties, including weddings and dinners. Then came Tuesday, with a lunch and dinner to be provided for the Maynooth Reunion, and on the same day the Civic Guards' Garden Party at the Phœnix Park. A full list for three days, was it not?—(Advt.)

YESTERDAY'S CASES IN THE COURTS

ASSISTANT TEACHER INJURED.

ACTION SETTLED FOR £1,100.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

An action came on for hearing, in which James O'Mahoney, an assistant teacher, of Upper Cork street, Mitchelstown, claimed damages against Edward Rearden, a merchant, of 26 Great George's street, Cork, for injuries caused by reason of the alleged negligence of the defendant in the driving of a motor car between Cork and Fermoy, on March 21st, 1929, and for injury to a motor cycle, the plaintiff's property. The defence was a denial of negligence, and a plea of contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff.

Mr. Lynch, K.C.; Mr. Binchy, K.C., and Mr Joseph A. McCarthy (instructed by Messrs. James G. Skinner and Son), appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Denning, K.C.; Mr. Rearden, K.C., and Mr. Basil McGuckin (instructed by Messrs. Hoey and Denning) for the defendant.

VIOLINIST AND FEIS JUDGE.

The plaintiff, in evidence, stated that as a result of his injuries he was in the Mercy Hospital, Cork, for a considerable period. As a result he had lost about £50 in engagements as a violinist and judge at Feiseanna. He also lost broadcasting fees. He had played the violin for the Cork and Dublin Wireless Stations. His fee for playing in Cork was £3 3s., and he received £5 5s. for each performance from the Dublin Broadcasting Station, including expenses

Cross-examined by Mr. Denning, he said that some time before the accident he was travelling at the rate of 30 to 35 miles an hour, but it was on a level, straight road.

Dr. Patrick Kiely, Cork, who attended the plaintiff, said that plaintiff had a scalp wound 3½ inches long. His right leg was hanging off, both the bones being badly broken. There was only some muscle and skin keeping the leg there. There was sufficient blood going into the leg to keep it alive. The leg was operated upon, and the main bone was plated, because it could not be kept from wobbling by any other means.

Counsel on both sides paid tribute to the skill of Surgeon Kiely.

JUDGE AND MEDICAL FEES.

Replying to the judge, Dr. Kiely said that his fee for attendance on the plaintiff, including two operations, was £100.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that he was not trying to cut down medical fees, but he would like to get them within medical limits. He asked Dr. Kiely what would he charge the plaintiff as an ordinary private patient, in view of his position and salary of £105 a year.

The witness said that the fee charged was a little high, in view of the plaintiff's position in life. He had, however, attended him over a period of fifteen months.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that there was no doubt that Dr. Kiely had rendered valuable services to the plaintiff.

On resuming after the luncheon adjournment,

Mr. Lynch announced that a settlement had been arrived at, the defendant agreeing to pay £1,100 and costs.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that he was glad the case had been settled. The plaintiff had given his evidence very fairly.

KILLALOE DOCTORS' CASE.

(BEFORE THE CHIEF JUSTICE, MR. JUSTICE FITZGIBBON AND MR. JUSTICE MURNAGHAN.)

In the case of McKeogh v. Holmes, listed to be mentioned,

Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., with whom was Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. Reidy (instructed by Mr. Michael Tynan), on behalf of the defendant, applied to have a consent to settlement made a rule of Court. The action had been brought by Dr. Henry McKeogh, Killaloe, Co. Clare, against the defendant, Dr. J. Holmes, Killaloe, to recover £7,000 damages for alleged libel and malicious prosecution. It was tried before Mr. Justice Hanna and a jury, and resulted in a judgment for the plaintiff.

The consent provided that the judgment, dated 4th November, 1929, be set aside, discharged and vacated on payment by the defendant of £445, together with the costs of the plaintiff in the High Court and the Supreme Court: all allegations whatever made by one party against the other to be withdrawn.

The consent was made a rule of Court, and an order was also made directing that the judgment be discharged and set aside.

Mr. Murnane (instructed by Mr. Curtain) appeared for the plaintiff.

ACTION SETTLED FOR £350.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA.)

A settlement was announced in an action brought by Michael Dooley, farmer, of Streamstown, Birr, and Pauline Dooley, M.D., against John Herbert Gill, farmer, of Castletown, Birr, for damages arising out of a motor accident.

The consent to settlement provided for the payment of £350 by the defendant to the plaintiffs.

Mr. Lupton, K.C.; Mr. Jos. O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Esmonde (instructed by Mr. John J. Kennedy) appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Fitzgerald, K.C.; Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. Callan (instructed by Messrs. W. J. Menton and Co.) for the defendant.

GIRL'S LEG FRACTURED.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN.)

A settlement was announced in an action in which Elizabeth O'Leary, suing by her father, James O'Leary, of Templecarrig, Delgany, Co. Wicklow, claimed damages against William Bradley, V.S., Montpelier, Dublin, for personal injuries.

It appeared that the plaintiff was cycling at Kilmacanogue when the defendant's motor car collided with her, and she suffered severe injuries, including a compound fracture of the right leg. The defendant agreed to pay her £490 and costs.

Mr. Justice Sullivan accepted the settlement, and made it a rule of Court, directing that after the payment of certain sums the balance should be invested and the dividends paid to the plaintiff's father for her benefit.

Mr. E. J. Kelly, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Sheridan and Kenny) appeared for the plaintiff.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

An action for the assessment of damages was heard, in which the plaintiff was Mrs. Nora Mary Buggy, of Fethard; and Richard Maher, John Maher and Cornelius Maher, also of Fethard, Co. Tipperary, were the defendants. The plaintiff's claim was for damages for the occupation of her lands of Knockelly, between the years 1920 and 1925.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne gave judgment for the plaintiff for £1,450.

Mr. Rearden, K.C., and Mr. M. J. Connolly (instructed by Mr. George A. Nolan) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. MacFhionnlaoich (instructed by Messrs. Rutledge and MacFhionnlaoich) for the defendants.

£250 FOR INJURED BOY.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN AND A JURY.)

An action was set down for hearing in which James Falkiner, a minor, suing by his father, of Carrick-on-Suir, Co. Tipperary, claimed damages against William Galvan, merchant, of New street, Carrick-on-Suir, for personal injuries caused by the alleged negligence of the defendant in reversing his motor car out of a garage in Carrick-on-Suir on August 2nd, 1929, whereby the motor car came in contact with the garage gate, which fell on top of the plaintiff.

The defence was a denial of negligence, and a plea of contributory negligence.

Shortly after the case was called,

Mr. O'Connor, K.C., who, with Mr. Lynch, K.C., and Mr. M. J. Connolly (instructed by Messrs. J. J. O'Shee and Co.), appeared for the plaintiff, announced that the action had been settled for a sum of £250 and High Court costs.

Mr. Justice Sullivan directed that the money should be lodged in the Tipperary Circuit Court to the plaintiff's credit and invested in National Loan, plaintiff's father to receive the dividends.

Mr. Wood, K.C.; Mr. Binchy, K.C., and Mr. T. P. McCarthy (instructed by Mr. P. F. Verrington) appeared for the defendant.

CO. WATERFORD FARMER'S WILL.

CHILDREN'S DIFFERENCES ADJUSTED.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN AND A JURY.)

A probate action of Mrs. Lizzie Healy, of Ballycurrane, Clashmore, Co. Waterford, against John Ahearne, of Dromore, Villierstown, Co. Waterford, defendant, was listed for hearing. The plaintiff sought, as residuary legatee of the will of Thomas Ahearne, late of Whitechurch, Co. Waterford, farmer, who died on January 19th last, to have the will established.

When the case was called,

Mr. Lynch, K.C., who, with Mr. M. J. Connolly (instructed by J. F. Williams and Son) appeared for the plaintiff, said that the parties to the action were brother and sister, and they had adjusted their differences by consent. The consent provided that the will dated December 30th last be admitted to probate; that the plaintiff should pay out of the assets of the deceased man his debts and testamentary and funeral expenses and a legacy of £100 bequeathed to Hannah Colbert; that the costs of both parties be paid; and that the assets remaining be divided equally between the plaintiff and defendant

Evidence of the execution of the will having been given,

Mr. Justice Sullian received the consent, and made an order establishing the will in the terms thereof.

Mr. Wood, K.C., and Mr. McEnery (instructed by Mr. M. J. Spears) appeared for the defendant.

MAYO COLLISION.

SETTLEMENT IN APPEAL CASE.

The appeal by the Irish Omnibus Company, in the cases of Feeney v. Irish Omnibus Co., Ltd., A. Higgins v. same and Feeney, and F. Higgins v. same, was not proceeded with, as a settlement had been arrived at between the parties concerned. After some discussion the Court adjourned for an hour to enable the parties to complete the documents relating to the terms of the consent to settlement, which was subsequently accepted, the cases being struck out of the list.

The proceedings arose out of a collision between a motor car, the property of Thomas J. Feeney, and a motor 'bus, the property of the Irish Omnibus Co., Ltd., which occurred on the 9th of April, 1929, at Dooerghiney, Co. Mayo, about three miles from Ballina.

It appeared that Mrs. A. Higgins's husband, who was killed, was in the motor car, along with Francis Higgins, another plaintiff, when the crash took place. The first-named plaintiff and owner of the motor car, Thomas J. Feeney, is a butcher in Market street, Sligo. Mrs. A. Higgins, widow, sued under Lord Campbell's Act on behalf of her three children and herself.

The actions were tried before Mr. Justice O'Byrne and a jury, and resulted in a judgment against the Irish Omnibus Company for £4,650, with costs.

In the settlement the parties agreed to a reduction of that amount to £4,300—Feeney to receive £1,400, Mrs. A. Higgins £2,750, and Francis Higgins £150.

Mr. Price, K.C.; Mr. Fitzgerald, K.C., and Mr. T. P. McCarthy (instructed by Messrs. Fenton and Lyons) appeared for T. J. Feeney; Mr. Carson, K.C., and Mr. Finlay, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Fitzgerald and McCormick) for Mrs. Arbitress Higgins; Mr. Carson, K.C., and Mr. Finlay, K.C. (instructed by Mr. J. Howley) for Francis Higgins; and Mr. Denning, K.C.; Mr. Joseph O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Sainsbury (instructed by Mr. P. J. Mulligan) for the Irish Omnibus Co., Ltd.

"BOMBARDMENT" FROM A QUARRY.

ACTION AGAINST DUBLIN COUNTY COUNCIL.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

The hearing of the motion in the case of the Misses Bankhead, of Fancourt, Balbriggan, against the Dublin County Council was concluded.

Mr. Battersby, K.C., with whom was Mr. Tobias (instructed by Mr. W. L. B. Cochrane), on behalf of the plaintiffs, applied for an order for a commission of sequestration against the defendants for alleged disobedience of an injunction granted against them on the 30th April, 1929, and for an inq as to damages.

The action originally was brought in 192 to restrain the defendants from so working a quarry, three hundred yards to the rear of plaintiffs' premises, which consisted of a row of houses fronting the sea, as to cause damage by explosion to plaintiffs' property.

Counsel said that no personal remedy was asked for against the defendants; it was only against the body, the Dublin County Council.

Mr. Battersby—I ask for sequestration, not to issue so long as they do not bombard us with stones from this quarry. The plaintiffs, who are old ladies, and their tenants, have been suffering for four years from the bombardment of their houses and property. They are in actual danger of their lives. They must find some means of blasting the rocks in this quarry without blasting us at the same time. I do not suggest that they be prohibited from using their quarry.

Counsel then opened affidavits in support of his application.

Miss Adelaide Bankhead, in the course of her affidavit, set out that on Friday morning, June 6, a workman employed at the defendants' quarry called and informed her that the defendants' workmen were about to fire a charge in the quarry. She immediately proceeded to the garden to warn Thomas Levins, who was working there. Just as she was leaving the back door, and before she had time to warn Levins she heard an explosion and saw a large stone flying through the air and landing on the roof of an outhouse in the garden.

STONE THROUGH ROOF.

Francis P. Russell, Westmoreland street, Dublin, architect and civil engineer, in an affidavit, deposed to having inspected the quarry and a bedroom on the upper floor of Mr. Bonar's house in the vicinity on April 2 Mrs. Bonar pointed out a large stone which had fallen through the roof of her house and landed in the bed immediately following blasting operations. The stone weighed about 10½ lb., and was in the bed close to one of the pillows. There was no doubt that, had the bed been occupied at the time of the accident, death would have been certain. He also found stones in the kitchen yard and garden.

Mr. J. F. McMahon, Assistant County Surveyor, Dublin County Council, in the course of an affidavit, said the shot which caused the damage on June 6 was one which misfired on a former occasion.

Mr. Justice Johnston said that he had great sympathy with the plaintiffs, and he thought a great responsibility rested on the shoulders of the County Council with reference to their use of this quarry. He could conceive very heavy damages by way of compensation being recovered against the Council in respect of injury which might take place. The only order he would make was that the defendants should pay £15 compensation for the damage which had been caused. He would make no order for an inquiry as to damages, but would order the defendants to pay the taxed costs of the motion on a solicitor and client basis.

CORK BOROUGH ELECTIONS.

A VERY SMALL POLL.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Thursday.

Apathy marked the polling for the election of seven members for the Borough Council of Cork, which took place here to-day, and it is probable that the number of electors who have exercised the franchise will be the smallest on record.

At mid-day not more than twelve citizens had recorded their votes in some of the booths. This indifference was apparent throughout the entire day, even towards the closing hour, when a much greater activity might have been expected.

As opposed to the lack of interest on the part of the general public, there was the customary activities in the political camps, but it would be impossible to hazard a guess as to their success or otherwise.

There are twenty candidates for the seven vacant seats, and while the Business Party nominees are optimistic, it is evident that, as in recent years, the electors will be influenced largely by the personal appeal of the candidates, ignoring their political views.

While an exceptionally low poll is anticipated, it is not likely that the count, which will be commenced at an early hour to-morrow, will conclude before a late hour in the evening.

Mgr. Doyle, Mgr. Walker, Archdeacon McHale, members of the Central Council, and Mgr. Macken, of Claremorris, for many years General Secretary, died since the last meeting of the Council. A vote of condolence with their respective Bishops was passed.

THE ELECTIONS.

The triennial elections were held. The following were unanimously elected:—Mgr. Keown, P.P., V.G., Carrickmacross, Chairman; Mgr. Connington, P.P., V.F., Swinford, and Mgr. Murphy, P.P., V.G., Maryborough, Treasurers; Mgr. Waters, P.P., V.G., Iona road, Dublin, General Secretary.

Mgr. Connington laid before the meeting a statement on the financial position of the Association. The statement, which was of a satisfactory character, was adopted.

A Standing Committee of the Council was appointed for three years. This Committee is to consist of the Chairman, the Secretary of the Central Council and the four chairmen of the Provincial Councils. Each of these latter has the right to nominate any member of the Association to represent him at particular meetings of the Committee which he cannot personally attend.

The following decisions were come to:—

(a)—That the Standing Committee should carefully study the Vocational Education Bill, and if this bill becomes law they should closely observe its operations, and report to the Council what provisions should be introduced into it for the suitable religious education of the children in the continuation schools, and examine what is the position of clerical managers in the schools under this bill.

(b)—That the resolution of 1911, by which the Association undertakes to defray the legal expenses of any manager against whom an action has been brought under the Workmen's Compensation Acts, in respect of accidents to teachers, should be extended so as to include cases of accidents to children in national schools. This resolution is to remain good till some Court has settled the question as to whether manager has any responsibility in either case.

(c)—That when a vexatious legal action is brought by a teacher against a manager the Association shall support the manager and pay his expenses, provided the Standing Committee has examined the ground of action, and is satisfied that the action is brought merely to annoy and not to vindicate any claim in justice.

(d)—That we express our sympathy with our Northern brethren at the failure of the Six-County Government to do justice to the Catholic claims on the school question in contrast with the acknowledged generosity of the Free State Government to Protestant schools in the Irish Free State.

Delegates to previous Imperial Press Conferences and those attending the present Conference will meet at a dinner in honour of Viscount and Viscountess Burnham at the Kit-Kat Restaurant, London, next Sunday. Lord Burnham has been closely associated with Imperial Press Conferences for a great many years.

THE BOULTER TRUST FUND.

VIEWS OF CHURCH UPHELD.

MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON'S JUDGMENT.

Mr. Justice Johnston, in the High Court, Dublin, yesterday, delivered reserved judgment in the case in which the Representative Body of the Church of Ireland asked the Court to determine a number of questions regarding the trusts of the will of the late Archbishop Hugh Boulter.

THE QUESTIONS.

The questions in effect were:—(1) When any benefice or the maintenance of any clergyman of the Church of Ireland has been augmented out of the Boulter Trust Fund, in pursuance of the provisions of 29 Geo. II., C. 18, and 46 Geo. III., C. 60, is such augmentation liable to be discontinued or diminished if and when the value of such benefice or maintenance, together with such augmentation, exceeds the value of £100 a year? (2) When any benefice or the maintenance of such clergyman has been augmented out of the fund, in pursuance of the provisions of 3 and 4 William IV., Cap. 37, is such augmentation liable to be discontinued or diminished if and when the value of such benefice or maintenance, together with such augmentation, exceeds the value of £200 a year? (3) Is the sum of £19,056 10s., representing the balance of the sum of £140,222 17s., being the amount at which the Boulter Trust Funds in the hands of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners was valued after the passing of the Irish Church Act, 1869, and against which balance no claims were substantiated prior to the 1st July, 1872, in accordance with the provisions of Section 29 of the Act, applicable to such purposes for the benefit of the Church of Ireland as the Representative Body, under the direction of the General Synod, shall think fit, or is the balance subject to the trusts affecting the Boulter Trust Fund under the Statutes 29 Geo. II., C. 18; 46 Geo. III., C. 60, and 3 and 4 William IV., C. 37, or any one or more of these Statutes? (4) If question 1 is answered in the affirmative, does the amount of such augmentation so discontinued, or the amount by which it has been diminished, continue to be subject to the trusts affecting the fund, or is it applicable to such purposes for the benefit of the Church of Ireland as the Representative Body shall think fit? (5) If question 2 is answered in the affirmative, does the amount of such augmentation so discontinued, or the amount by which it has been diminished, continue to be subject to the trusts affecting the Boulter Trust Funds, or is it applicable to such purposes for the benefit of the Church of Ireland as the Representative Body shall think fit? (6) If question 1 is answered in the affirmative, was it competent for the General Synod to relieve grants under the Statutes 29 Geo. II. c. 18 and 46 Geo. III. c. 60 from the liability to be discontinued or diminished imposed on them by these Statutes? (7) If question 2 is answered in the affirmative, was it competent for the General Synod to relieve grants made under the Statute 3 and 4 William IV c. 37 from the liability to be discontinued or diminished imposed on them by the Statute?

THE JUDGMENT.

Mr. Justice Johnston, in his judgment, said that Hugh Boulter, Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of All Ireland from 1724 until his death in 1742, left the residue of his property to his trustees for the augmentation of poor livings in Ireland, and the disposition had been a source of embarrassment and difficulty to the Church of Ireland for more than half a century. The Representative Church Body had now been wise enough to bring the matter before the civil courts for the final settlement of the questions. The Archbishop's will, which was dated November 19, 1729, and was penned on the spot where now stands the library of King's Inns, making suitable provision for various persons and charities, provided that the residue of the property should be employed in augmenting poor livings in Ireland in accordance with the directions of the Trustees of First Fruits, and then the testator added the clause: "For doing the more service with such money my will is that, whatever purchase is made with it of tythes or land, the said tythes or land shall not be made over to any incumbent absolutely till such tythes or land shall have repaid half the purchase money without interest."

It was abundantly clear upon the construction of this document, said Mr. Justice Johnston, that the Primate did not intend to fetter the exercise of discretion of the trustees by any rigid definition of "poor living." It was clear also that the purpose of the gift was the augmentation of poor livings, and not the relief of distressed clergymen: that the method contemplated was the purchase of glebes or tithes, and that the endowment was to be of a permanent and unconditional character. There was nothing in the will suggesting that the payment of annual salaries to clergymen in straitened circumstances was contemplated by the Archbishop.

THE TRUSTEES' POWERS.

It was soon found that the amount available for distribution was something considerable, but that the opportunities of laying out the money in the purchase of tithes or land arose but seldom, and accordingly the legislature was obliged to take the matter up and extend legislatively the trustees' powers in regard to the fund. In 1755 an Act was passed by the Irish Parliament—29 Geo. II., c. 18—empowering the Trustees of First Fruits to invest the whole of the funds in their hands, including the Boulter Fund, in certain authorised securities, and it was provided that the income of the Archbishop's money might be used for the augmentation of benefices which appeared to the trustees to be under the yearly value of £60—subsequently increased to £100—by the payment of annual salaries to the incumbents thereof. This—a novel expedient at the time in regard to the remuneration of parish clergymen—was a sort of statutory application of the doctrine of cy pres, the enactment expressly stating that the charitable intentions of the said testator might be in a great measure answered by the disposal of the fund or portion of it in that way.

The circumstances under which the Trustees of First Fruits came into being were of some materiality in regard to the present controversy. The right to First Fruits, payable since the time of Henry VIII. to the Crown by all the clergy of the Church of Ireland in respect of their first year of office had been surrendered to the Church by letters patent of February 7, 1712, a concession which was stated to have been made by "Queen Anne of blessed memory for the encouragement and increase of piety," but which in reality had been extracted most unwillingly from Her Majesty after two years of persistent lobbying by Dean Swift in London.

DEAN SWIFT'S "SLY HUMOUR."

Dean Swift had been sent there for that purpose by the bishops of the Irish Church, and the whole story of his machinations with Harley, whom he found "exceedingly obliging" was related with much sly humour in his letters to Stella, written from London in those years. The first trusts were granted by the Queen to a body of trustees, which was created for the purpose of holding the fund thereby surrendered and using it for the purposes of the Church. It was upon these trustees that the duty was imposed by the Act of 1755 of administering the Boulter Fund. That Act did not purport, nor was it intended, to cut down or alter the effect of the will or the power of the trustees thereunder. On the contrary, the power to augment the incomes of incumbents by the payment of salaries was entirely supplemental to the terms of the will, and was to continue only "until such purchases of tythes or land can be conveniently had or made."

The Act of 1755 was repealed in its entirety by the Act of 3 and 4 William IV., c. 37, which was a general Act to amend the laws relating to all temporalities of the Church of Ireland.

Having reviewed the objects of this Act and the provisions of its sections, especially the sections referring to the Boulter Fund and other funds vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, Mr. Justice Johnston said that he did not see how it could be argued that an augmentation by means of the purchase of lands or tithes could be other than one of a permanent character. The Act contained no machinery for periodical re-investigations and reconveyances when lands or tithes had been purchased and added to the revenue-producing property of a benefice. The whole Act suggested in the strongest way that augmentations were to be by way of endowment—or something analagous to endowment—and not of temporary assistance, such as was the case in Herbert v. McQuade.

TERRITORIAL REVENUE.

Previously to 1868 the revenue of the Church and of ecclesiastical persons was mainly territorial, and it was not until the passing of the Irish Church Act that much divergence in parochial and diocesan revenues became possible. By the Act of 1869 every scrap of property held by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in trust for the Church was transferred to the Church Temporalities Commissioners. The effect of this was to place the Boulter fund under the control of the new Commissioners, free from all ecclesiastical claims, save the compensation of life interests.

His lordship then referred to the section dealing with the question of the private endowments of the Church, and said that the section provided that, in lieu of any real or personal property becoming vested in the Commissioners by virtue of the Act, which might consist or be the produce of property or moneys given by private persons out of their own resources, the Church was to get a bulk sum of £500,000, a sum which was, he supposed, arrived at by agreement when the bill was before Parliament. That general result was, however, to be "without prejudice to any claim in respect of any particular private endowment," which might be substantiated against the fund within twelve months after the payment to the new body. The whole fund was given to the Representative Body, and it was plain that that body was intended to be the tribunal to receive and adjudicate upon the claims that might be made by persons interested in particular private endowments—that is, endowments which had been created by means of "property or moneys given to the Church by private persons out of their own resources." That would clearly include benefices or livings to which grants had been made out of the Boulter fund previously to the Church Act. The legislature, however, did not intend that the possibility of claims being made against the fund should remain hanging over the Church for ever. A year was given within which such claims should be substantiated. After that the right was gone, and whatever portion of the fund that remained was available for the general purposes of the Church.

TRUE POSITION OF AFFAIRS.

His lordship further said that he thought the whole difficulty had arisen through the failure of those who advised the Representative Body at the time to keep carefully in mind the true position of affairs—namely, that the Boulter fund was gone, having been "forfeited" or "confiscated" as a result of the Irish Church Act; that a large number of ministers or parishes were receiving grants of annuities out of that fund by virtue of the Act of 3 and 4 William IV. at the time it was swept away; that it was recognised that those parishes or clergymen should be compensated for the loss; that a general fund was provided for the purpose of compensation in respect of all private endowments; that claims for compensation should be "substantiated" within a year and should be dealt with by the Representative Body; and that so much of the fund as was not required to meet substantiated claims was to be held by that body, unaffected by any ancient trust, to be used for the general purposes of the Church. That, in his opinion, was the true position of affairs as regards the private endowments of the Church after the passing of the Irish Church Act.

ANSWERS TO THE QUESTIONS.

He proposed to answer in the following way the questions submitted to him:—(1) Yes; until the passing of the Act 3 and 4 William IV., C. 37; (2) the answer is a simple negative; (3) the answer to the first part is in the affirmative, and to the second part in the negative. He did not think it necessary to answer questions 4 or 5; and the answer to question 6 was:—"Such grants were relieved from the liability to be discontinued or diminished as a result of the provisions of the Act 3 and 4, William IV., c. 37." It was unnecessary to answer question 7.

His lordship finally said that it gave him personal satisfaction that he had been able on the construction of the will of the Archbishop and of the legislation that followed to arrive at the conclusion that he had endeavoured to express. That conclusion was in accord with the views that had guided the Church of Ireland in the administration of this fund for the last fifty years, as well as with the opinion of the late Lord Chancellor Ball. The other view which had been placed before him would, if it were established, lead to a periodical dislocation of the finance of the Church, and would not, he thought, carry out the general intention of Archbishop Boulter. The result of the decision was that the welfare of the poorer livings would continue to be in the hands of the General Synod, and he had not the least doubt that the money available for the trust would be administered with the utmost consideration for those who needed it most.

Messrs. Darley, Orpen and Synnott were the solicitors instructing counsel for all parties represented in the case.

Mr. Jellett, K.C., and Mr. M. C. Walker appeared for the Representative Body of the Church of Ireland; Mr. Garrett Walker, K.C., for the Rev. H. C. Cave, of Malahide, and the Rev. G. W. O'C. Millington, of Portadown (representing, respectively, the incumbents of parishes who are in receipt of grants under the provisions of the statutes of George II. and George III., and those who are in receipt of grants under the provisions of the statute of William IV.); Mr. Poole, for the Right Rev. Robert Miller, of Waterford (representing all incumbents who are in receipt of grants out of the £19,056 10s.); and Mr. Overend, K.C., and Mr. Newett, for the Rev. J. M. Cullimore, of Calary, Kilpedder (representing the incumbents of parishes who are not in receipt of grants under any of the Acts mentioned).

BELFAST STEAMER LOST.

CARGO SHIP GOES DOWN OFF PORTRUSH.

The Towy, a small cargo steamer, which had been on the rocks outside Portstewart Harbour since last Friday evening, was refloated yesterday morning, and was being towed to Portrush Harbour when she sank.

Three of the crew of the towing tug (Milewater, Belfast), with Captain S. J. Teggarty and the chief engineer of the Towy, manned the pumps, and, with the sea calm, everything went well until the Towy developed a decided list to the port side.

Pumping operations were hindered and rendered futile, and three men of the Milewater left the doomed vessel in a small boat.

Captain Teggarty and the chief engineer remained on board until the last moment, and when it was seen that there was nothing for it but to sever the towing rope and leave the Towy to her fate, they were taken off by the Portstewart pilot boat, which had stood by throughout.

The Towy filled rapidly, and, after straightening up, she sank very quickly and disappeared in about thirty feet of water, a short distance off Dhu Varren coast and about a mile from Portrush Harbour.

The Towy is a steamer of about 160 tons, and belongs to A. McFaul, Whiteabbey, Belfast.

RACING MOTOR BOAT OVERTURNS.

CAPTAIN BARNATO PICKED UP UNHURT.

While competing at the British International Motor Boat Meeting at the Welsh Harp, Hendon, last night, Captain Woolfe Barnato was thrown into the water when his boat capsized. Speed-boats rushed to the scene, and Captain Barnato was picked up unhurt. The boat sank in forty feet of water. Captain Barnato was endeavouring to avoid another boat as they rounded a buoy, and, he told a Press Association reporter, turned his boat a little too sharply, causing it to turn over. He had every hope that his boat would be raised within twelve hours, and that he would be able to further compete in the races for the Duke of York's International Trophy.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

CAPTAIN REDMOND DISCHARGED.

JURY'S VERDICT OF "NOT GUILTY."

JUDGE'S APPROVAL OF THE DECISION.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

The trial of Captain W. A. Redmond, D.S.O., T.D., concluded yesterday evening, when the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

The announcement of the verdict was received with much hand-clapping in Court.

His lordship, in discharging Captain Redmond, said he completely agreed with the verdict. He did not see how any one of the jurors could have arrived at a different conclusion.

Captain Redmond was indicted for the manslaughter of Thomas Murphy, Priory road, Kimmage, on the Dublin-Bray road on the 16th April last.

Mr. Cecil Lavery, K.C., with Mr. Thomas Finlay, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor), prosecuted.

Mr. Joseph O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Kingsmill-Moore (instructed by Mr. J. H. McLaughlin and Son) appeared for the accused.

Mr. Dermot Fawsitt (instructed by Mr. A. McCracken) represented the next-of-kin.

ADDRESS FOR DEFENCE.

Addressing the jury on behalf of the accused, Mr. Kingsmill Moore said that the case was one that, to use a legal colloquialism "tried itself." In spite of the apparent incompatible features of the evidence, that which was the real version of what happened on the 16th April was very clear. He asked them to approach the case as if they were trying any ordinary person. On two points only were they entitled to take into consideration Captain Redmond's past history: the first was whether they were to believe his testimony on oath; and, secondly, whether he had acted in a callous manner when the accident occurred. Taking into account his long service at Westminster, in the Dail, and on the fields of Flanders, was it likely that that man would go into the witness-chair and indulge in a course of deliberate perjury?

QUESTION OF DRINK.

In connection with the State contention that Captain Redmond was drunk, the jury must consider what drink he actually had on the day in question, what opportunities he had for getting drink; and, thirdly, whether he was drunk at the time of the accident. The only alcoholic drink which there was evidence of his having had at Aughavanagh was a share of the bottle of champagne which was served at lunch in Hunter's Hotel. That was a large quantity of liquid to consume, but not a very large quantity of alcohol. At Lawless's hotel in Aughrim he bought a bottle of whiskey and a bottle of port. Fortunately, it had been shown that the seals of these bottles had not been broken a week afterwards. After leaving Aughavanagh, Captain Redmond travelled over a road very difficult to negotiate. It was almost impossible to assume that he could have successfully done so if he had been intoxicated. Captain Redmond's own description of what happened outside Cabinteely cottages was perfectly correct. His attention was concentrated on the extraordinary gyrations of the motor cyclists on the road, and when he did see the unfortunate cyclist he had only one and a half seconds in which to try to avoid the collision. The skid mark on the road conclusively proved that he had done his utmost to avert it. This mark was thirty-five feet long, and showed that Captain Redmond had applied his brakes on the very instant of his sighting the oncoming cyclist.

Concluding, Mr. Kingsmill-Moore said there was no substantial case against Captain Redmond, proving him to have been so culpably and criminally negligent as to be a felon. There was no clear, cogent and convincing case to prove that he was drunk, and guilty of such gross and criminal negligence as cried aloud for State intervention to punish it as an offence against humanity.

REPLY FOR THE STATE.

Mr. Finlay, K.C., for the prosecution, contended that on the evidence the accused was guilty of the manslaughter of the unfortunate cyclist. With regard to the charge of being drunk, it was not necessary for a person to be absolutely incapable of standing on his feet, or of articulating properly, for him not to be in a fit condition to drive a car. The indisputable facts were that Captain Redmond was driving on his wrong side of the road and in the way of oncoming traffic. The question of intention was entirely out of this case. The jury were not trying whether Captain Redmond had had any intention of injuring the unfortunate cyclist. The onus was placed upon Captain Redmond to satisfy them that it was not any gross or culpable negligence on his part that caused the collision which resulted in the death of Thomas Murphy. Every user of the highway must have regard to the position of every other user of the highway, and the probable position of other users of the highway. Captain Redmond had not taken this into consideration when he went over to the wrong side of the road.

JUDGE'S SUMMING-UP.

Mr. Justice Meredith, summing up, said the first question was whether Captain Redmond had turned into the wrong side of the road because he had taken drink and was not able to drive his car straight. One important feature of the evidence in that connection was that all the evidence to the effect that Captain Redmond was drunk related to a time after the collision, whereas Miss Babs Byrne said that Captain Redmond was perfectly sober when he called at Cunniam's Hotel at Ashford, and went away from there perfectly sober. The jury must then weigh up the evidence of the people at Cabinteely, that Captain Redmond staggered when he got out on the grass margin, that his face was flushed, and his breath smelled of drink; and they must consider the testimony of the two doctors explaining these indications as those resulting from Captain Redmond's physical condition. The medical evidence was that if the theory of his being intoxicated at the time was at all justified, then it would be followed by a state of coma or some such effect.

BENEFIT OF DOUBT.

If they found that the evidence was not such as to justify their saying that the accused was not drunk in charge of the motor, they had the alternative to consider—namely, if there had been any criminal negligence on the part of Captain Redmond. When they were considering this they must judge by the evidence as to what happened at the time of the collision and just prior to it. If the jury had any doubt in the case, they must give the benefit of it to the accused. They must remember that the charge was a serious one. A life had been lost; but, apart from considering the gravity of the charge, they must avoid having regard to what might be called "fatty degeneration of the moral faculties," and, having weighed the testimony carefully in the balance, return an honest verdict.

The jury retired at 4.55 p.m., and were absent for 55 minutes.

DEATH OF COUNTY COUNCIL CHAIRMAN.

It was announced at the annual meeting of the Westmeath County Council for the election of a Chairman and Vice-Chairman, held in Mullingar yesterday, that Mr. George S. Gibson, the outgoing Chairman, had died the previous evening.

All parties at the meeting paid tribute to the loss which the Council and the county had sustained by Mr. Gibson's death.

A resolution of sympathy with the widow and relatives was passed, and the meeting was adjourned without transacting any business.

MESSRS. MILLS, LTD., MERRION ROW.

Messrs. Mills, Ltd., of Merrion Row, Dublin, than whom there are few better-known catering firms in this country, had a particularly varied and busy series of contracts to fulfil last week. The range of these during three days alone is well worth recording. On Sunday, for example, they catered for the Belvedere Union at the Slane Castle function; at St. Vincent de Paul Orphanage at Glasnevin, and at the Wolfe Tone Memorial celebration at Bodenstown. Monday was quiet by comparison—viz., various private parties, including weddings and dinners. Then came Tuesday, with a lunch and dinner to be provided for the Maynooth Reunion, and on the same day the Civic Guards' Garden Party at the Phœnix Park. A full list for three days, was it not?—(Advt.)

ASSISTANT TEACHER INJURED.

ACTION SETTLED FOR £1,100.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

An action came on for hearing, in which James O'Mahoney, an assistant teacher, of Upper Cork street, Mitchelstown, claimed damages against Edward Rearden, a merchant, of 26 Great George's street, Cork, for injuries caused by reason of the alleged negligence of the defendant in the driving of a motor car between Cork and Fermoy, on March 21st, 1929, and for injury to a motor cycle, the plaintiff's property. The defence was a denial of negligence, and a plea of contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff.

Mr. Lynch, K.C.; Mr. Binchy, K.C., and Mr Joseph A. McCarthy (instructed by Messrs. James G. Skinner and Son), appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Denning, K.C.; Mr. Rearden, K.C., and Mr. Basil McGuckin (instructed by Messrs. Hoey and Denning) for the defendant.

VIOLINIST AND FEIS JUDGE.

The plaintiff, in evidence, stated that as a result of his injuries he was in the Mercy Hospital, Cork, for a considerable period. As a result he had lost about £50 in engagements as a violinist and judge at Feiseanna. He also lost broadcasting fees. He had played the violin for the Cork and Dublin Wireless Stations. His fee for playing in Cork was £3 3s., and he received £5 5s. for each performance from the Dublin Broadcasting Station, including expenses.

Cross-examined by Mr. Denning, he said that some time before the accident he was travelling at the rate of 30 to 35 miles an hour, but it was on a level, straight road.

Dr. Patrick Kiely, Cork, who attended the plaintiff, said that plaintiff had a scalp wound 3½ inches long. His right leg was hanging off, both the bones being badly broken. There was only some muscle and skin keeping the leg there. There was sufficient blood going into the leg to keep it alive. The leg was operated upon, and the main bone was plated, because it could not be kept from wobbling by any other means.

Counsel on both sides paid tribute to the skill of Surgeon Kiely.

JUDGE AND MEDICAL FEES.

Replying to the judge, Dr. Kiely said that his fee for attendance on the plaintiff, including two operations, was £100.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that he was not trying to cut down medical fees, but he would like to get them within medical limits. He asked Dr. Kiely what would he charge the plaintiff as an ordinary private patient, in view of his position and salary of £105 a year.

The witness said that the fee charged was a little high, in view of the plaintiff's position in life. He had, however, attended him over a period of fifteen months.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that there was no doubt that Dr. Kiely had rendered valuable services to the plaintiff.

On resuming after the luncheon adjournment,

Mr. Lynch announced that a settlement had been arrived at, the defendant agreeing to pay £1,100 and costs.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that he was glad the case had been settled. The plaintiff had given his evidence very fairly.

KILLALOE DOCTORS' CASE.

(BEFORE THE CHIEF JUSTICE, MR. JUSTICE FITZGIBBON AND MR. JUSTICE MURNAGHAN.)

In the case of McKeogh v. Holmes, listed to be mentioned,

Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., with whom was Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. Reidy (instructed by Mr. Michael Tynan), on behalf of the defendant, applied to have a consent to settlement made a rule of Court. The action had been brought by Dr. Henry McKeogh, Killaloe, Co. Clare, against the defendant, Dr. J. Holmes, Killaloe, to recover £7,000 damages for alleged libel and malicious prosecution. It was tried before Mr. Justice Hanna and a jury, and resulted in a judgment for the plaintiff.

The consent provided that the judgment, dated 4th November, 1929, be set aside, discharged and vacated on payment by the defendant of £445, together with the costs of the plaintiff in the High Court and the Supreme Court: all allegations whatever made by one party against the other to be withdrawn.

The consent was made a rule of Court, and an order was also made directing that the judgment be discharged and set aside.

Mr. Murnane (instructed by Mr. Curtain) appeared for the plaintiff.

ACTION SETTLED FOR £350.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA.)

A settlement was announced in an action brought by Michael Dooley, farmer, of Streamstown, Birr, and Pauline Dooley, M.D., against John Herbert Gill, farmer, of Castletown, Birr, for damages arising out of a motor accident.

The consent to settlement provided for the payment of £350 by the defendant to the plaintiffs.

Mr. Lupton, K.C.; Mr. Jos. O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Esmonde (instructed by Mr. John J. Kennedy) appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Fitzgerald, K.C.; Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. Callan (instructed by Messrs. W. J. Menton and Co.) for the defendant.

GIRL'S LEG FRACTURED.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN.)

A settlement was announced in an action in which Elizabeth O'Leary, suing by her father, James O'Leary, of Templecarrig, Delgany, Co. Wicklow, claimed damages against William Bradley, V.S., Montpelier, Dublin, for personal injuries.

It appeared that the plaintiff was cycling at Kilmacanogue when the defendant's motor car collided with her, and she suffered severe injuries, including a compound fracture of the right leg. The defendant agreed to pay her £490 and costs.

Mr. Justice Sullivan accepted the settlement, and made it a rule of Court, directing that after the payment of certain sums the balance should be invested and the dividends paid to the plaintiff's father for her benefit.

Mr. E. J. Kelly, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Sheridan and Kenny) appeared for the plaintiff.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

An action for the assessment of damages was heard, in which the plaintiff was Mrs. Nora Mary Buggy, of Fethard; and Richard Maher, John Maher and Cornelius Maher, also of Fethard, Co. Tipperary, were the defendants. The plaintiff's claim was for damages for the occupation of her lands of Knockelly, between the years 1920 and 1925.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne gave judgment for the plaintiff for £1,450.

Mr. Rearden, K.C., and Mr. M. J. Connolly (instructed by Mr. George A. Nolan) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. MacFhionnlaoich (instructed by Messrs. Rutledge and MacFhionnlaoich) for the defendants.

£250 FOR INJURED BOY.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN AND A JURY.)

An action was set down for hearing in which James Falkiner, a minor, suing by his father, of Carrick-on-Suir, Co. Tipperary, claimed damages against William Galvan, merchant, of New street, Carrick-on-Suir, for personal injuries caused by the alleged negligence of the defendant in reversing his motor car out of a garage in Carrick-on-Suir on August 2nd, 1929, whereby the motor car came in contact with the garage gate, which fell on top of the plaintiff.

The defence was a denial of negligence, and a plea of contributory negligence.

Shortly after the case was called,

Mr. O'Connor, K.C., who, with Mr. Lynch, K.C., and Mr. M. J. Connolly (instructed by Messrs. J. J. O'Shee and Co.), appeared for the plaintiff, announced that the action had been settled for a sum of £250 and High Court costs.

Mr. Justice Sullivan directed that the money should be lodged in the Tipperary Circuit Court to the plaintiff's credit and invested in National Loan, plaintiff's father to receive the dividends.

Mr. Wood, K.C.; Mr. Binchy, K.C., and Mr. T. P. McCarthy (instructed by Mr. P. F. Verrington) appeared for the defendant.

CO. WATERFORD FARMER'S WILL.

CHILDREN'S DIFFERENCES ADJUSTED.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN AND A JURY.)

A probate action of Mrs. Lizzie Healy, of Ballycurrane, Clashmore, Co. Waterford, against John Ahearne, of Dromore, Villierstown, Co. Waterford, defendant, was listed for hearing. The plaintiff sought, as residuary legatee of the will of Thomas Ahearne, late of Whitechurch, Co. Waterford, farmer, who died on January 19th last, to have the will established.

When the case was called,

Mr. Lynch, K.C., who, with Mr. M. J. Connolly (instructed by J. F. Williams and Son) appeared for the plaintiff, said that the parties to the action were brother and sister, and they had adjusted their differences by consent. The consent provided that the will dated December 30th last be admitted to probate; that the plaintiff should pay out of the assets of the deceased man his debts and testamentary and funeral expenses and a legacy of £100 bequeathed to Hannah Colbert; that the costs of both parties be paid; and that the assets remaining be divided equally between the plaintiff and defendant.

Evidence of the execution of the will having been given,

Mr. Justice Sullian received the consent, and made an order establishing the will in the terms thereof.

Mr. Wood, K.C., and Mr. McEnery (instructed by Mr. M. J. Spears) appeared for the defendant.

The appeal by the Irish Omnibus Company, in the cases of Feeney v. Irish Omnibus Co., Ltd., A. Higgins v. same and Feeney, and F. Higgins v. same, was not proceeded with, as a settlement had been arrived at between the parties concerned. After some discussion the Court adjourned for an hour to enable the parties to complete the documents relating to the terms of the consent to settlement, which was subsequently accepted, the cases being struck out of the list.

The proceedings arose out of a collision between a motor car, the property of Thomas J. Feeney, and a motor 'bus, the property of the Irish Omnibus Co., Ltd., which occurred on the 9th of April, 1929, at Dooerghiney, Co. Mayo, about three miles from Ballina.

It appeared that Mrs. A. Higgins's husband, who was killed, was in the motor car, along with Francis Higgins, another plaintiff, when the crash took place. The first-named plaintiff and owner of the motor car, Thomas J. Feeney, is a butcher in Market street, Sligo. Mrs. A. Higgins, widow, sued under Lord Campbell's Act on behalf of her three children and herself.

The actions were tried before Mr. Justice O'Byrne and a jury, and resulted in a judgment against the Irish Omnibus Company for £4,650, with costs.

In the settlement the parties agreed to a reduction of that amount to £4,300—Feeney to receive £1,400, Mrs. A. Higgins £2,750, and Francis Higgins £150.

Mr. Price, K.C.; Mr. Fitzgerald, K.C., and Mr. T. P. McCarthy (instructed by Messrs. Fenton and Lyons) appeared for T. J. Feeney; Mr. Carson, K.C., and Mr. Finlay, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Fitzgerald and McCormick) for Mrs. Arbitress Higgins; Mr. Carson, K.C., and Mr. Finlay, K.C. (instructed by Mr. J. Howley) for Francis Higgins; and Mr. Denning, K.C.; Mr. Joseph O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Sainsbury (instructed by Mr. P. J. Mulligan) for the Irish Omnibus Co., Ltd.

"BOMBARDMENT" FROM A QUARRY.

ACTION AGAINST DUBLIN COUNTY COUNCIL.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

The hearing of the motion in the case of the Misses Bankhead, of Fancourt, Balbriggan, against the Dublin County Council was concluded.

Mr. Battersby, K.C., with whom was Mr. Tobias (instructed by Mr. W. L. B. Cochrane), on behalf of the plaintiffs, applied for an order for a commission of sequestration against the defendants for alleged disobedience of an injunction granted against them on the 30th April, 1929, and for an inquiry as to damages.

The action originally was brought in 1929 to restrain the defendants from so working a quarry, three hundred yards to the rear of plaintiffs' premises, which consisted of a row of houses fronting the sea, as to cause damage by explosion to plaintiffs' property.

Counsel said that no personal remedy was asked for against the defendants; it was only against the body, the Dublin County Council.

Mr. Battersby—I ask for sequestration, not to issue so long as they do not bombard us with stones from this quarry. The plaintiffs, who are old ladies, and their tenants, have been suffering for four years from the bombardment of their houses and property. They are in actual danger of their lives. They must find some means of blasting the rocks in this quarry without blasting us at the same time. I do not suggest that they be prohibited from using their quarry.

Counsel then opened affidavits in support of his application.

Miss Adelaide Bankhead, in the course of her affidavit, set out that on Friday morning, June 6, a workman employed at the defendants' quarry called and informed her that the defendants' workmen were about to fire a charge in the quarry. She immediately proceeded to the garden to warn Thomas Levins, who was working there. Just as she was leaving the back door, and before she had time to warn Levins she heard an explosion and saw a large stone flying through the air and landing on the roof of an outhouse in the garden.

STONE THROUGH ROOF.

Francis P. Russell, Westmoreland street, Dublin, architect and civil engineer, in an affidavit, deposed to having inspected the quarry and a bedroom on the upper floor of Mr. Bonar's house in the vicinity on April 2 Mrs. Bonar pointed out a large stone which had fallen through the roof of her house and landed in the bed immediately following blasting operations. The stone weighed about 10½ lb., and was in the bed close to one of the pillows. There was no doubt that, had the bed been occupied at the time of the accident, death would have been certain. He also found stones in the kitchen yard and garden.

Mr. J. F. McMahon, Assistant County Surveyor, Dublin County Council, in the course of an affidavit, said the shot which caused the damage on June 6 was one which misfired on a former occasion.

Mr. Justice Johnston said that he had great sympathy with the plaintiffs, and he thought a great responsibility rested on the shoulders of the County Council with reference to their use of this quarry. He could conceive very heavy damages by way of compensation being recovered against the Council in respect of injury which might take place. The only order he would make was that the defendants should pay £15 compensation for the damage which had been caused. He would make no order for an inquiry as to damages, but would order the defendants to pay the taxed costs of the motion on a solicitor and client basis.

CORK BOROUGH ELECTIONS.

A VERY SMALL POLL.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Thursday.

Apathy marked the polling for the election of seven members for the Borough Council of Cork, which took place here to-day, and it is probable that the number of electors who have exercised the franchise will be the smallest on record.

At mid-day not more than twelve citizens had recorded their votes in some of the booths. This indifference was apparent throughout the entire day, even towards the closing hour, when a much greater activity might have been expected.

As opposed to the lack of interest on the part of the general public, there was the customary activities in the political camps, but it would be impossible to hazard a guess as to their success or otherwise.

There are twenty candidates for the seven vacant seats, and while the Business Party nominees are optimistic, it is evident that, as in recent years, the electors will be influenced largely by the personal appeal of the candidates, ignoring their political views.

While an exceptionally low poll is anticipated, it is not likely that the count, which will be commenced at an early hour to-morrow, will conclude before a late hour in the evening.

CATHOLIC CLERICAL SCHOOL MANAGERS.

CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING.

A meeting of the Central Council of the Clerical Managers of National Schools was held in Dublin on Tuesday last.

There were present:—Armagh—The Very Rev. Canon Lyons, P.P., V.F., Ardee; Meath—The Right Rev. Mgr. Flynn, P.P., V.G., Kells; Clogher—The Right Rev. Mgr. Keown, P.P., V.G., Carrickmacross; Raphoe—The Right Rev. Mgr. McGinley, P.P., Ballyshannon; Provincial Secretary—The Right Rev. Mgr. Tierney, P.P., V.G., Enniskillen; Dublin—The Right Rev. Mgr. Waters, P.P., V.G.; Ferns—The Very Rev. Canon Dunne, Castlebridge; Ossory—The Very Rev. Canon MacNamara, Castlecomer; Cloyne—The Very Rev. Canon Barry, P.P., Blarney; Cork—The Right Rev. Mgr. Sexton, P.P., V.G.; Kerry—The Right Rev. Mgr. O'Leary, P.P., V.G., Tralee; Killaloe—The Very Rev. Canon Clancy, P.P.; Limerick—The Very Rev. Canon O'Dwyer, P.P.; Ross—The Right Rev. Mgr. Hill, P.P., V.G., Clonakilty; Waterford—The Right Rev. Mgr. Walsh, P.P., V.G., Clonmel; Provincial Secretary—The Right Rev. Mgr. Cotter, P.P., V.G., Tipperary; Tuam—The Venerable Archdeacon Fallon, P.P., Castlebar; Achonry—The Right Rev. Mgr. Connington, D.D., P.P., V.G., Swinford; Clonfert—The Right Rev. Mgr. Joyce, P.P., V.G., Portumna; Elphin—The Right Rev. Mgr. Harte, P.P., V.G., Castlerea; Galway—The Venerable Archdeacon Cassidy, P.P., Gort; Killala—The Very Rev. Canon Hegarty, P.P., V.F., Belmullet; Provincial Secretary—The Right Rev. Mgr. D'Alton, P.P., V.G., Claremorris.

Letters of apology were received from the Right Rev. Mgr. Ryan, P.P., V.F., Cashel; the Right Rev. Mgr. Langan, Moate; the Right Rev. Mgr. Soden, Manorhamilton, and the Very Rev. Canon Hegarty, P.P.

Mgr. Doyle, Mgr. Walker, Archdeacon McHale, members of the Central Council, and Mgr. Macken, of Claremorris, for many years General Secretary, died since the last meeting of the Council. A vote of condolence with their respective Bishops was passed.

THE ELECTIONS.

The triennial elections were held. The following were unanimously elected:—Mgr. Keown, P.P., V.G., Carrickmacross, Chairman; Mgr. Connington, P.P., V.F., Swinford, and Mgr. Murphy, P.P., V.G., Maryborough, Treasurers; Mgr. Waters, P.P., V.G., Iona road, Dublin, General Secretary.

Mgr. Connington laid before the meeting a statement on the financial position of the Association. The statement, which was of a satisfactory character, was adopted.

A Standing Committee of the Council was appointed for three years. This Committee is to consist of the Chairman, the Secretary of the Central Council and the four chairmen of the Provincial Councils. Each of these latter has the right to nominate any member of the Association to represent him at particular meetings of the Committee which he cannot personally attend.

The following decisions were come to:—

(a)—That the Standing Committee should carefully study the Vocational Education Bill, and if this bill becomes law they should closely observe its operations, and report to the Council what provisions should be introduced into it for the suitable religious education of the children in the continuation schools, and examine what is the position of clerical managers in the schools under this bill.

(b)—That the resolution of 1911, by which the Association undertakes to defray the legal expenses of any manager against whom an action has been brought under the Workmen's Compensation Acts, in respect of accidents to teachers, should be extended so as to include cases of accidents to children in national schools. This resolution is to remain good till some Court has settled the question as to whether manager has any responsibility in either case.

(c)—That when a vexatious legal action is brought by a teacher against a manager the Association shall support the manager and pay his expenses, provided the Standing Committee has examined the ground of action, and is satisfied that the action is brought merely to annoy and not to vindicate any claim in justice.

(d)—That we express our sympathy with our Northern brethren at the failure of the Six-County Government to do justice to the Catholic claims on the school question in contrast with the acknowledged generosity of the Free State Government to Protestant schools in the Irish Free State.

Delegates to previous Imperial Press Conferences and those attending the present Conference will meet at a dinner in honour of Viscount and Viscountess Burnham at the Kit-Kat Restaurant, London, next Sunday. Lord Burnham has been closely associated with Imperial Press Conferences for a great many years.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

Very little public interest was taken in the Cork Borough Council elections yesterday, and the poll was unusually small.—(Page 5.)

The "Greater Dublin" Bill was passed in the Free State Senate yesterday.—(Page 4.)

Mr. Justice Johnston, in the High Court, Dublin, yesterday, delivered reserved judgment in the Boulter Trust Fund case.—(Page 5.)

The trial of Captain Redmond concluded in Dublin yesterday, when he was found not guilty and discharged.—(Page 5.)

The Governor-General, who presided at the meeting of the Meath Hospital, Dublin, yesterday, appealed for a larger support for the institution.—(Page 8.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

The King-in-Council at Buckingham Palace yesterday morning signed an Order suspending the Constitution in Malta. (Page 7.)

The House of Commons last night on the Dominions Office vote discussed the development of Empire trade.—(Page 8.)

The Prince of Wales was present at the four hundredth anniversary celebrations of the death of Cardinal Wolsey at Ipswich yesterday.—(Page 6.)

Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan arrived in London yesterday, and were the guests of honour at a State dinner given by the King in Buckingham Palace last night.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

The Bolivian Army has overthrown the Government, and the President has fled.—(Page 7.)

The situation in Seville is becoming normal, the general strike having failed.—(Page 7.)

Fourteen Indians were wounded, one fatally, when police fired on demonstrators in Madras Presidency.—(Page 7.)

The Southern Cross landed at New York last night, having completed her journey from Portmarnock in approximately forty-two hours flying time.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING

At the Curragh yesterday Ado won the Tyros' Stakes, Bristol Rocket the Summer Plate, Ballintoy the Waterford Testimonial Stakes, Redglow the Curragh Plate, Swift Bird the Harristown Plate, and Royal Bazaar the Welter Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Newbury Paul Caret won the Newbury Summer Cup.—(Page 10.)

At Newcastle Pot-Pourri won the Seaton Delaval Plate.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were firmer. British Funds advanced, but business was not brisk. Pay day passed without any trouble developing.—(Page 12.)

Loan and discount rates remained easy, and advances into July were made at 3 to 3¼ per cent.—(Page 12.)

Dublin Market was small. Guinness advanced sharply. Courtaulds were very weak.—(Page 12.)

The German Reich.

Within the next few days the last foreign soldier will have left the Rhineland, and the Allied occupation of German soil will have come to an end. Not only Germans, but men of good-will of all nations, will rejoice at the closing of this painful chapter in Europe's history; for it will mark the opening of a new era, in which former enemies will be able to work together for the common good. The occupation of the Rhenish provinces was an unhappy necessity. Some form of guarantee was essential to ensure the observance of her Treaty obligations by Germany, and the presence of Allied troops on the Rhine, galling as it undoubtedly was to German pride, may have been, at least, partly responsible for the fact that Bolshevism never secured a grip in the Fatherland. From the British point of view the occupation was most successful. No better ambassador could have been appointed than the British "Tommy," whose conduct on the Rhine was exemplary, and it is safe to say that the growing rapprochement between Britain and Germany is due in no small measure to the feelings of mutual respect and confidence that were established between British soldiers and German civilians. When the French leave next week the only remaining territory in the West in foreign hands will be the Saar Valley. Under the Versailles Treaty a plébiscite must be taken in 1935 to decide whether the Saar Valley will remain German, become French, or enjoy an independent status. There is not the slightest doubt that the people of the Saar desire to remain German. They are intensely patriotic, and the plébiscite will be purely a matter of form.

When her provinces have been restored to her Germany will take her place again among the free nations of the world. Although she has been a member of the League of Nations for some years, with a permanent seat on its Council, the presence of foreign troops on her territory has been regarded as a limitation of her sovereignty, and, consequently, she has not exercised in the affairs of Europe that measure of influence to which her population and her prosperity entitle her. Now her attitude in this respect will change radically. Her independence has been restored, and henceforward the voices of her spokesmen are likely to be heard more frequently, and more confidently, than during the last few years. One of the first problems to be tackled will be that of Germany's Eastern frontiers. Most sensible Germans have resigned themselves to the loss of Alsace-Lorraine. Of course, in Germany, as in every other country, there are irreconcilables who cheerfully would go to war with France again to-morrow; but the vast majority of the population is composed of peace-loving folk who recognise that Alsace-Lorraine has gone finally, and approve of the Locarno Pact, by virtue of which Germany has guaranteed the integrity of France's Eastern frontiers. A very different attitude of mind, however, prevails in regard to the territory that Germany was forced to cede to Poland. At Locarno M. Briand made a strong effort to persuade the late Dr. Stresemann to guarantee Poland's frontiers; but Germany's Foreign Secretary refused resolutely to bind himself to anything. He was supported by Germans of every shade of political thought.

Germany is labouring under a sense of grievance in respect of the Polish "corridor." The "corridor," which is a wedge of Polish territory thrust through the heart of Prussia to give Warsaw access to the sea at Danzig and Gdynia, is a product of the fertile, if not always practical, mind of Mr. Lloyd George. It separates completely East Prussia—the cradle of Junkerdom, and the most passionately patriotic portion of Germany—from the remainder of the Reich, and has created a condition of affairs which contains all the elements of future strife. In a speech two days ago Herr Curtius, the new Foreign Secretary, made significant references to Germany's policy towards Soviet Russia. He made it fairly clear that friendly relations will be encouraged between Moscow and Berlin, and, as both Germany and Russia have an intense dislike for the Poles, the position of the latter is not likely to be enviable. So long as the German-Polish problem remains unsettled, Europe's peace always will be threatened. For this reason, what the Germans term an Auseinandsetzung—which may be translated by the American phrase, a "showdown"—between Germany and Poland is not only desirable, but inevitable. Every week there are "incidents" on the German-Polish frontier. Feelings on both sides are embittered, and progress is being hampered by a general atmosphere of uncertainty. The problem is exceedingly difficult, but if it is not solved peacefully soon, it will be solved in the bad, old way at some future date. All Europe—indeed, the whole world—has a direct interest in the discovery of some formula that will establish a modus vivendi on Germany's eastern frontiers. Few people seem to realise the dangers of the situation concerning the "corridor"; yet they are very real.

Iron and Steel.

The delegation appointed by the Economic Advisory Council "to consider and report upon the present condition and prospects of the iron and steel industries" declared its findings to the British Government in May, and now these findings have been published in the form of a White Paper. In pursuit of their evidence the delegates spared no pains and have drawn interesting comparisons from the position of the industries in France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany and Czecho-Slovakia. No statistics are given of British wage rates, but the National Federation of Iron and Steel Manufacturers, basing its figures, as we presume, upon the White Paper, has announced that, when allowance for differences in hours of labour is made, the wages paid in these countries range from 67 per cent. in the case of Germany to 42 per cent. in the case of Czecho-Slovakia, of those paid by its own members. Not only do British manufacturers labour under obligations to pay higher wages than their foreign competitors, but none of the countries explored by the delegation, with the exception of Germany, shows the same trade union organisation as Great Britain. In these islands a wide disparity, often unjustified, exists between the salaries payable to the skilled and unskilled workers. Indeed, the words "skilled" and "unskilled" frequently are no more than technical differentiations between one grade of employé and another. It is especially remarkable that in Czecho-Slovakia, where wages are lowest for unskilled workers, the feeling between masters and men is the most cordial. In every country that they visited the delegates found plant and organisation to be developed upon the most modern lines. More important still, however, was the universal keenness of everybody connected with the industries to achieve success. While her competitors are able to ensure the mobility of labour from one department to another as occasion may demand, Britain is hampered at every step by the rigid and suspicious laws of the trade unions. In some respects Luxembourg enjoys unusual advantages. During the War the Germans, for their own purposes, kept her blast furnaces and foundries at the highest pitch of efficiency, with the result that she had little leeway to retrieve. France has been helped by the acquisition of the rich ore-fields in Alsace and Lorraine, while Germany in this matter has suffered a corresponding handicap. Yet, the fact remains that the chief troubles of British manufacturers may be found in the unhappy relations that still survive between employer and employed. Truly, modern owners are paying a heavy price for the greed of their Victorian predecessors, who cut "piece-rates" lest an individual "hand" might "earn too much."

The Air Arm.

The July issue of "The Royal Air Force Quarterly"—an excellently edited and produced periodical—is likely to appeal to many Irishmen outside the circle of the Royal Air Force itself. A very large proportion of that body is drawn from Ireland, and many of our countrymen have attained high command in the air. The magazine, apart from the general interest of its non-technical articles, contains much matter relating to the newest developments in various branches of aviation, and we note with some pride that an important prize essay on the civilising influence of aircraft is signed with a conspicuously Irish name. On the other hand, it is a matter for regret that, while a committee of liaison officers assists the editor to keep in touch with the Air Forces of Australia, Canada, New Zealand and South Africa, there is no mention of the activities of the Irish Free State's arm. This omission ought to be repaired. The domestic Air Force has no need to hide its light under a bushel. Its smallness has not proved a bar to its general efficiency, and at present no Dominion force, however greater in strength, is its superior in discipline and personnel; the fact that one of its officers was deemed worthy to travel on the first successful flight from Europe to America is in itself a high tribute. Yet the Free State airmen can learn much from their experienced comrades across the Channel, and, no doubt, will make use of their opportunity next Friday, when they will see many Irishmen excel in the Royal Air Force display at Hendon. Perhaps, the "Air Force Quarterly" in its next issue will print the report of an Irish liaison officer. Britain would welcome the gesture, and Saorstát Eireann's airmen would not regret it.

Claret.

All Irishmen who cherish the genial traditions of their country will mourn the passing of the great clarets. When Grattan's Parliament sat in College Green the wit and eloquence of its members waxed sharp and sonorous beneath the influence of fine Bordeaux, of which so great a quantity was drunk that the name of claret was linked indissolubly with that of Ireland. Even as late as thirty years ago it was said that the world's finest claret was housed in Irish bins. Now the bottles that remain of the great pre-phylloxeran vintages are few and will be fewer; and since 1878 no vintage has arisen to take the place of those pre-eminent crops. It seems that the vine-growers of Bordeaux are anxious about the future. The public taste has changed, and the present exports of claret are dwindling rapidly. Whereas in 1913 Bordeaux exported 700,000 hectolitres, last year it exported no more than 450,000. Without doubt the loss of the American market explains the lamentable falling-off to some extent, but the United States is not the only country to blame. Even in France itself the public taste seems to have veered, in spite of strenuous efforts made by the Ministry of Agriculture to restore the people to a sense of their advantage. The threnody of a splendid wine is being sung, and some day the world will regret that it has forsaken its former allegiance. Mr. Blythe, in his last Budget, lessened the duty on French wines. It was a truly national gesture of gratitude for the part played by claret in the history of Ireland—a gesture, too, by which Saorstát Eireann has shown an example to the nations.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

Yesterday the King held a meeting of the Privy Council at Buckingham Palace, and later gave audience to Sir Francis Lindley, K.C.M.G., British Ambassador to Portugal. In the afternoon Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan arrived at the Palace on a visit to Their Majesties. The Duke of Gloucester met Their Imperial Highnesses at Dover, and travelled with them to London, where they were welcomed at Victoria Station by the Duke of York and Princess Mary and a number of Government officials in levée dress. The Prince and Princess, with the Duke of York and the Duke of Gloucester, occupied the first carriage in the procession to Buckingham Palace, where a State banquet was given in honour of the Imperial visitors last night.

To-day the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress will entertain Prince and Princess Takamatsu at luncheon at the Mansion House, where they will be received by a guard of honour, and to-night the Prince will be the guest of the Prime Minister at a dinner party at the Foreign Office.

The Prince of Wales flew to Ipswich yesterday and fulfilled several engagements, and spent some time in Christ Church Park, where a very fine pageant commemorating Cardinal Wolsey's association with the town, is being held this week. His Royal Highness was entertained at luncheon by the Mayor, and afterwards visited the Oakhill Journalists' Home, the Orwell Works, and the Naval barracks at Shotley.

King Feisal left Bagdad last Monday by aeroplane for Alexandria, and after a brief stay intended to start for Marseilles the end of this week. His Majesty will remain in Europe for two or three months, and will undergo a course of thermal treatment.

To-day the baptism of the infant daughter of the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Norway will take place at Skaugum, near Oslo. The Duke of York and Princess Victoria will be sponsors, and the child will receive the names Ragnhild Alexandra.

The Duke of Devonshire arrived at 2 Carlton Gardens yesterday from Chatsworth. The Earl of Dunraven has left Adare Manor, and is now in residence at 5 Seymour street, W. Lady Winefride Elwes has returned to London from a visit to Malta. The Hon. Sir John and Lady Ward have returned to Dudley House, Park Lane, from the country.

Sir Mathew Wilson, whose horse, Rock Star, won the Irish Derby, was the guest of Sir Harry and Lady Greer at Curragh Grange for the races.

To-morrow a tennis tournament and garden party, in aid of the Central Catholic Library, will be opened at The Elms, Blackrock, by kind permission of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. O'Conor. On Saturday, July 5th, a fête in aid of the British Legion Fund, will be held by invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Westby, at Roebuck Castle, Dundrum. The Band of the British Legion will attend, and the amusements programme includes an American tennis tournament, a bridge tournament and various competitions.

A marriage has been arranged, and will take place at SS. Mary and Peter's R.C. Church, Arklow, on Saturday, July the 5th, between William A. FitzGerald, Customs and Excise, second son of David P. and Mrs. FitzGerald, St. Ronan's, Sandford road, Ranelagh, Dublin, and Doreen Mary Chambers, only daughter of the late Henry J. Chambers, Manager of the Provincial Bank, Wexford.

The marriage has been arranged, and will shortly take place, between Patrick J. O'Grady, Bank of Ireland, Cobh, only son of the late Anthony O'Grady and the late Mrs. O'Grady, Rathgar, and Edith, elder daughter of the late Captain John O'Neill, J.P., Killowen, Newry, and Mrs. O'Neill, Spelya, St. Alban's Park, Sydney Parade, Dublin.

Dr S. Friel has left 3 Fitzwilliam place for a month.

Dr. Chas. E. Boyce has left 20 Herbert street for a week.

Dr. G. E. Pepper has left 26 Lower Baggot street for three weeks.

Doctor F. W. Kennedy has left 3 Pery square, Limerick, until the middle of July.

French School, Bray.—Garden Party, Saturday, July 12th, 3.30 p.m. to 6.30 p.m. Old girls R.S.V.P. to Miss Robinson before 8th July.

Summertime is dangertime for Furs. During the warm weather it is wise to place them in Cold Storage at Switzers, Grafton street, where a freezing temperature preserves their natural beauty and lustre. The charges for storage are very moderate. This is also an excellent time to have one's Furs Repaired and Remodelled to the new Autumn shapes. Work of this kind is being executed at specially reduced Summer prices at Switzers just now.

WOLSEY HONOURED AT IPSWICH.

PRINCE OF WALES SEES "MERRIE ENGLAND."

The Prince of Wales flew to Ipswich yesterday, and saw the "Merrie England" pageant with which the town is celebrating the four hundredth anniversary of the death of Cardinal Wolsey, her most distinguished son.

The pageant was staged in the park in front of Christ Church Mansion, whose red-brick walls have been mellowed by the touch of time since Wolsey's days. Here the Prince saw Morris dancers, abbots, priests and nuns, knights and beefeaters, and the boy Wolsey being given into the care of a priest.

In addition to all this, the Prince witnessed an old guild miracle play. Above on the stone balcony of the mansion was the Angel of the Nativity blessing the players. Cameras clicked all around, and loud-speakers conveyed the voices of the players to the crowds. Nothing, however, could quite destroy the illusion. "Merrie England" lived again.

The Prince of Wales, on behalf of the town, accepted deeds of gift which preserved for the borough the Wolsey Gate, the last crumbling remnant of the college which the Cardinal founded in his birthplace.

On his arrival in the town the Prince formally declared open the new municipal aerodrome, and congratulated Ipswich on having "what every city and town in Great Britain will surely have in no very distant future."

A QUICK CHANGE.

From the romantic setting of fifteenth and sixteenth century England the Prince passed as if by magic to the noise and heat and stress and wonder of great modern engineering works. He visited the works of Messrs. Ransome, Sims and Jeffries, Limited, and saw how agricultural machinery is made. He observed every stage from that of the metal at white heat to the finished product. He examined a score of types of plough, tried personally half-a-dozen lawn-mowers, and accepted a furrow plough for his Canadian ranch, and a miniature plough-share wrought in solid gold. Among the employés to whom he spoke were George Southgate, who has been with Messrs. Ransome for fifty-eight years, Sergeant Saunders, V.C., and George Smith, a ploughman, who stood beside a pair of Suffolk punches—the county breed of plough horse.

Through cheering crowds the Prince then passed to the Oakhill Home of Rest for Journalists, a handsome mansion, overlooking wooded slopes. Here he unveiled a portrait of Mr. T. R. Parkington, the donor of the premises, asked Mr. H. A. Guynne, President of the Institute of Journalists, to show him all the quarters.

At luncheon at the Town Hall the Mayor (Mr. A. L. Clouting) said that Ipswich had feared for the Prince's safety in Africa, and they were delighted that now they had got him instead of some wild beast.

"It is a great pleasure to have emerged from those dangers," replied the Prince. He added with a smile: "I may take it as a compliment that your interest in that respect is entirely selfish."

Before he left the town the Prince paid an informal visit to the Royal Naval Training Dépôt at Shotley, inspected the local British Legion quarters, the Police Boys' Club, and the Y.M.C.A., and laid a wreath on the Cenotaph.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY.

THE RADIUM FUND APPEAL.

A meeting of the Council of the Royal Dublin Society was held in the Council Chamber, Ballsbridge, yesterday—The President, Professor John Joly, F.R.S., F.T.C.D., in the chair.

Paul A. Murphy, Sc.D., B.A., A.R.C.Sc.I., was unanimously appointed a member of the Science Section of the Council, and John Andrews, B.Sc., F.I.C., and T. A. Bennet-Clark, M.A., were unanimously appointed members of the Committee of Science and Its Industrial Applications.

The President announced that the responses to the Radium Fund appeal had been extremely encouraging, and included a guarantee of £1,000 from Colonel Walter Guinness. The amount subscribed had enabled the Radium Committee, as a matter of extreme urgency, to secure £6,000 worth of radium, which was fortunately available in Belgium. This had since been installed in the Society's laboratories, and emanation was now actually being obtained from this further supply, so urgent are the needs of Irish hospitals.

Dr. Joly expressed the hope that the fund, now in the vicinity of £9,000, would receive generous consideration from those who had not yet subscribed, in order to enable the further £6,000 worth necessary to be shortly obtained.

SEATS AT THE HORSE SHOW.

Arising from a complaint made by a member on his inability to secure seats on the Grand Stand at the coming Horse Show, the Director explained that the extraordinary popularity of the Show in recent years had resulted in a demand for Grand Stand seats greatly in excess of the number available, and to ensure that applications from the countryside should receive equal consideration with those from the city, it had been the custom to consider all requests received through the post at the opening of the box office, and whilst this course was popular when dealing with the Society as a whole the large number of applications received later in the day had to be regretfully refused, the stand being completely booked out within two hours of the opening of the box office.

The Council unanimously approved of the system in operation, and decided to appoint a small committee to consider this problem in all its bearings for future shows.

It was also reported that fifty per cent. of the 5,000 seats available on the Anglesea Stand had already been applied for.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A trough of low pressure off Western Ireland is moving East, and a depression over France North-East. Weather will be unsettled generally, with some rain or showers in most districts, and a tendency for local thunderstorms in the South.

North-West, North-East, South-East and South-West Ireland.—Moderate southerly to south-westerly winds, veering; cloudy, with bright intervals, but some showers; moderate temperature.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Moderate southerly to south-westerly winds, tending to veer; cloudy; some rain or showers; sea moderate.

LONDON LETTER.

THE MALTESE CONSTITUTION.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
THURSDAY NIGHT.

The King in Council at Buckingham Palace this morning signed the Order suspending the Constitution in Malta. In the House of Commons this afternoon Mr. Snowden informed Mr. Foot, who asked whether it was intended that the measure should receive the sanction of the British Parliament, that owing to the urgency of the matter it was necessary to act without delay. It is assumed that the Governor of Malta now will take complete control of the Executive machine, and that Lord Strickland will become adviser to His Excellency. Lord Strickland intends to take a holiday at his country house, however, before he returns to Malta.

A Royal Visit.

Victoria Station was gay this afternoon with the scarlet and white of Japan, and the Union Jack and Rising Sun were displayed on every possible vantage point. The covered courtyard of the station was lined with Guardsmen, whose scarlet uniforms matched the flags, and a squadron of Life Guards was ready to escort the Royal carriages to Buckingham Palace. An interesting programme for the imperial visitors includes a visit to the City of London to-morrow, and a dinner in the evening at the Foreign Office, given by the Prime Minister.

Party Prospects.

The possibility of a general election in November, following upon the remarks of the Prime Minister last night, was much discussed in political circles to-day. The idea hitherto has been that the Government would introduce a really Socialistic Budget next spring and would go to the country upon it; but it appears that a change in the opinions of the leading members of the Labour Party has taken place. One concludes that this change is due to the extremely awkward position of the Conservative Party, whose dissensions and quarrels seem likely to become accentuated rather than diminished. Bitter attacks are made upon Mr. Baldwin in journals owned by his opponents, and these are watched by the Labour Party with considerable interest. It is thought that they are certain to have some effect upon the Conservative working-man elector.

Mr. Macdonald's Difficulties.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald may have another reason, however, for an appeal to the country before it has been expected; for he has submitted so many measures to Parliament that they cannot be passed in less than three or four sessions. The fact that he has had to declare his intention to abandon measures which the party values most highly is significant, and it may be expected that these bills will be in the forefront of the Labour programme during the next election. Notable among such is the Trades Disputes Bill, which has no possible chance in the present Parliament—a fact of which the Labour leader will make the utmost use. Again, the unemployment situation must influence the Prime Minister in any decision that he may reach about a general election; for, while there may be a slight decrease in the numbers of unemployed during the summer and early autumn months, there is sure to be a further increase as the winter approaches. A few months ago the idea that the registered unemployed could number two millions was scouted, but to-day it is admitted that a total of two and a quarter millions by Christmas is by no means an impossibility.

The Conferences and Their Effect.

The great political conferences that must be held during the Autumn—the Imperial Conference will meet as well as the Indian Round-Table Conference—both take place early in that season, and ought to be well out of the way by mid-November. The question of a register will not disturb Mr. Macdonald in any decision that he may make, because the new register will come into operation in mid-October. In the Conservative Party there is a disinclination to believe that there will be an appeal to the country so soon, although only a few days ago the ex-Minister of Labour was warning his constituents that it was much nearer than people supposed. It is probable, however, that the Conservatives will pull themselves together and get to work at the earliest moment. Their situation, if all differences are not arranged quickly, is parlous indeed.

Colonial Appointments.

Intending candidates for colonial appointments are not unanimous in their welcome of the suggestions for the creation of a special personnel branch of the Colonial Office, which would be responsible for all appointments, both to the Colonial Office itself and to the colonial services as a whole. The theory of a unified service is receiving support in some quarters, but in view of the criticism directed against the proposal it is by no means certain that the sub-committee to which the question has been referred by the Colonial Office Conference will recommend the adoption of the scheme without some modification.

London's Traffic.

The outline of a bold scheme for the relief of London traffic, which was revealed in the morning papers, proposes that the face of London shall be changed by the removal of a bend from the River Thames, which will make it run in a straight line from Vauxhall to the Tower Bridge, and by the use of the river's old bed as a boulevard for vehicular and pedestrian traffic. The scheme is that of Mr. E. T. Williams, who has had great experience in engineering work, and it is claimed that it would provide work for thirty thousand people for five years, and would pay for itself out of the revenue obtainable from the new river and boulevard frontages. The idea has not been received with any great favour in official circles; for, being asked to-day for an opinion, an official of the Ministry of Transport, while declining to make a statement, said the matter sounded too fantastic to discuss. A somewhat similar reply was given at the London County Council office.

The Test Match.

The enthusiastic cricketers of London are looking forward to the opening of a great match at Lord's to-morrow. The gates will be opened at 9 a.m., but the motto is "the spoils to the victor"; for only those who reach the gates at a very early hour are likely to secure the best seats. The wicket was described this afternoon as "just perfect," and, though the weather forecast is not altogether favourable, it is hoped that there will be nothing to interfere with the game. There are strong hopes that England may win again, but records show that we have not been able to beat Australia at Lord's since 1896. The last Test Match there ended in a draw, and a good many cricketers incline to the view that the result will be the same on the present occasion.

"Song of My Heart."

"Song of My Heart," the Irish picture in which Count John McCormack sings will conclude its season at the Prince Edward Theatre next week, and arrangements have been made for its visit to Dublin, where it will open on August 2nd. Many of the scenes were taken near Dublin, and a number of members of the cast are Dublin-born.

DEATH.

CORMACK—June 26, 1930, at Templetuohy, Dr. T. P. Cormack, R.I.P. Office and High Mass in Templetuohy Church at 11.30 o'clock (summer time) to-morrow (Saturday) morning. Funeral to Loughmore afterwards.

SOUTHERN CROSS LANDS AT NEW YORK

THE FOUR FLYERS.

The crew of the Southern Cross, the giant Fokker silver-winged monoplane, which landed at New York last night, having made the journey from Dublin in 42 hours. Left to right: Major C. Kingsford-Smith, the Australian, who is first pilot and leader of the crew; Captain P. Saul, the Irish navigator; Mr. W. Stannage, the wireless operator, and Mr. E. Van Dyk, "the flying Dutchman," who acted as second pilot.

MILLIONS GREET THE ATLANTIC AIRMEN.

MAJOR KINGSFORD-SMITH GIVES SPECTACULAR EXHIBITION.

TOTAL FLYING TIME: 42 HOURS.

THE VALUE OF DIRECTION-FINDING BY WIRELESS.

THE Southern Cross, with Major Kingsford-Smith, Mr. Evert Van Dyk, Captain Saul and Mr. J. S. W. Stannage, completed her flight from Portmarnock to New York at 7.30 last night, her air time for the journey being approximately 42 hours.

It was on Tuesday morning that the Southern Cross left Velvet Strand, and, passing over Galway, crossed the Atlantic. When approaching Newfoundland the airmen encountered dense fog and had trouble with the compasses, being compelled to change their plans and come down at Harbour Grace air-port on Wednesday.

After re-fuelling, the Southern Cross resumed her journey yesterday morning, crossing over Nova Scotia and Boston to New York, where she was welcomed by millions of people. Before landing Major Kingsford-Smith gave a spectacular exhibition of vertical flying.

THE START.

FOG IN EARLY STAGES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

HARBOUR GRACE, Thursday.

The Southern Cross left here for New York at 5.35 a.m. local time (10.35 a.m. British summer time).

The crew seemed eager to get away. Major Kingsford-Smith anticipates that the 'plane, barring mishaps, will end its 1,100 mile hop to Roosevelt Field late this afternoon.

Estimating the average flying speed at 90 miles an hour, the 'plane should cross from British to United States territory in five hours. The weather is good for flying.

The Chatham Wireless Station reports that at 1 p.m. British time the Southern Cross was getting compass bearings from the liner America at sea.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

HALIFAX (NOVA SCOTIA), Thursday.

The Southern Cross has asked for her bearings, which have been given by the Government wireless station at Canso, at the easterly tip of the island, at 11.47 British time this morning as follows:—

"Bearing true from Canso, 62½ deg.

"Poor flying weather as far as Eastport, Maine, with clear weather after that to New York," was the forecast for the Southern Cross's route, made by the New York Weather Bureau from conditions late last night

According to intelligence picked up by the wireless station at Gloucester, Mass., the Southern Cross was at 1.10 p.m. passing over a dense fog.

OVER NOVA SCOTIA

AFTER FIVE HOURS' FLYING.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA, Thursday.

After five hours' flying towards New York the Southern Cross was observed over Scatari Island, Nova Scotia, this morning 325 miles from Newfoundland.

Passing over Country Harbour, Nova Scotia, the Southern Cross, according to a Gloucester (Massachusetts) despatch, wirelessed that she had descended to 1,000 feet altitude, was experiencing good weather, and was heading straight for Lynn, Massachusetts.

The flyers added that they would circle that city once, "just to say cheerio to Balchen and Melville." The reference is to Mr. Bert Balchen and Captain F. Melville, members of the Byrd Expedition, both of whom are staying at Lynn.

Thousands of excited watchers at Halifax, Nova Scotia, plainly discerned the markings on the fuselage as the Southern Cross passed over that town.

LEAVING NOVA SCOTIA.

WEATHER GOOD: ALL WELL.

HALIFAX, N.S., Thursday.

At two o'clock Eastern standard time, or 7 p.m. British summer time, the Southern Cross was nearing the western tip of Nova Scotia at a speed of 95 miles an hour, flying at an altitude of 1,000 feet. The weather was fine, and the crew reported that everything was going well.

CANADIAN GREETINGS.

The Prime Minister, Mr. MacKenzie King, sent the following congratulatory telegram this afternoon to Major Kingsford-Smith, which is to be delivered to him on his arrival in New York:—"All Canadians are delighted to learn of your successful flight across the Atlantic. On their behalf I send you and your companions in t[illegible] brave enterprise sincere congratulations and best wishes."

HEADING FOR MASSACHUSETTS.

FAVOURABLE CONDITIONS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

HALIFAX, Thursday.

The Southern Cross reported at 4. p.m. (Eastern standard time) that she was leaving the coast of Nova Scotia and heading for Lynn, Massachusetts, under favourable flying conditions. Her arrival at New York, however, would probably be an hour or so later than the airmen had originally estimated—namely, 6 p.m. (Eastern summer time).

AT MASSACHUSETTS COAST.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GLOUCESTER, MASS., Thursday.

The Southern Cross flew over the town at a height of about 1,000 feet. The name of the 'plane and its details were plainly visible through glasses. Hundreds of citizens in the streets waved and cheered the machine on.

PASSES BOSTON.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BOSTON, MASS., Thursday.

The Southern Cross has passed over the city, escorted by a bevy of 'planes.

NEARING NEW YORK.

MILLIONS AWAITING HER ARRIVAL.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Thursday.

Millions of persons are waiting, eager with expectation, the arrival here this evening of Major Kingsford-Smith and his companions in the Southern Cross. The newspapers are selling swiftly and are being scanned for every detail of the progress of the machine, as it wends its way doggedly and eats up the distance separating the airmen from their goal.

After flying blindly in fog, guided only by their compasses, as far as Country Harbour, Nova Scotia, during which time their speed was cut down to 60 miles per hour. The flyers encountered favourable weather as the fog lifted and with it their spirits—if it could ever be said that they were other than most cheerful. The Southern Cross then swept forward at 100 miles per hour in an endeavour to reach here between six and seven o'clock (local time) this evening. Citizens and villagers of every town and hamlet on the coast strained their eyes and ears for the first sight or sound of the conquerors of the Atlantic.

A multitude of welcomers, among whom are many officials and other British citizens, has gathered on the Roosevelt Field Aerodrome ready to roar a welcome expressive of the feelings of the whole world to the only men who have flown across the Atlantic from East to West and landed on American soil in the 'plane in which they started their flight.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR AT AERODROME.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, NEW YORK, Thursday.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador in Washington, has landed here, having flown from Washington to welcome Major Kingsford-Smith and his companions in the Southern Cross on their arrival. Wing-Commander the Hon. E. J. E. Twisleton-Wykeham-Fiennes accompanied Sir Ronald.

THE LANDING.

A SPECTACULAR EXHIBITION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT

NEW YORK, Thursday.

The Southern Cross passed over the heart of the city at 7.13 p.m., and landed at Roosevelt Field Airport at 7.30 p.m. (12.30 a.m. British Summer Time).

Although he had flown 1,100 miles from Newfoundland, Major Kingsford-Smith treated the crowd waiting to acclaim him to a spectacular exhibition of vertical flying before bringing his 'plane to a perfect landing.

Clouds of dust hid the 'plane for a moment as she taxied around the spot, where photographers and sound reel men were ranged three deep on the ground and on top of any cars that happened to be handy. Then the flyers threw up the windows of their cabin and waved cheery greetings to the crowd as it rushed to hail them.

THE FIRST MAN OUT.

The first man out was the Dutchman, Van Dyk, grimy with dust and streaming with perspiration. He practically fell into the arms of the crowd. Then he looked round in a bewildered fashion, and exclaimed: "Phoff! This is terrible." The other three airmen followed him, and the quartette was immediately seized by the representatives of two national broadcasting systems.

Command of the situation was soon taken by the police, however, and the airmen then stepped back into the Southern Cross for the formal examination by Customs and immigration officers.

This formality over, the airmen were escorted to the Roosevelt Field Administration Building between solid lines of policemen with linked arms. Here each of them spoke a few words into the radio microphones, and were then whisked off to their hotel for the night.

COMPLETING THE CIRCLE.

SAN FRANCISCO NEXT.

Though failing to achieve their complete aim of an entirely non-stop Dublin-New York flight, Major Kingsford-Smith and his three companions are the first flyers to crown the East to West uninterrupted flight across the North Atlantic by continuing in their own machine to New York.

Within two years Major Kingsford-Smith has successively flown across the Pacific from America to Australia in two hops of 2,408 and 3,144 miles respectively, crossed and re-crossed the Tasman Sea between Australia and New Zealand, flown across Australia, Asia and Europe to England, now crossed the Northern Atlantic East to West. It only remains for him, as is his intention in a few days' time, to continue his flight across the North American continent to San Francisco—his starting point on the trans-Pacific flight—for him literally to have circled the globe by air and in the same machine.

The airmen had expected to accomplish the Dublin-New York flight non-stop in 34 or 35 hours; actually they only landed at Harbour Grace, Newfoundland, yesterday morning after covering the 1,900 miles from Dublin in 31½ hours and after a life-and-death struggle with fog and all the perils of many hours blind flying by compass and wireless. So great, indeed, were the fog and other difficulties encountered, that the airmen almost certainly owe their lives to the 'plane's wireless equipment.

Setting off again at dawn this morning, they have flown the intervening 1,100 miles without mishap.

The most elaborate preparations had been made in New York to welcome them, these including a trip up the harbour in a city launch and a triumphal procession up Broadway, along the route traversed by Colonel Lindbergh, Admiral Byrd, Mr. Chamberlin and other heroes of the air, and also a long round of luncheons, dinners and entertainments to be given by various civic organisations.

The southern Cross is a Dutch-designed Fokker, propelled by three American Wright engines.

A TRIBUTE TO HIS COLLEAGUES.

WORKED TOGETHER IN PERFECT HARMONY.

In a message from St. John's, Newfoundland, yesterday, The Times Correspondent says:—Major Kingsford-Smith relied upon the direction-finding apparatus as the earth conductor compass was faulty.

Before leaving, Major Kingsford-Smith disclosed the fact that direction-finding by wireless saved them in their flight through thick fog on the previous day. They had calculated they were over Cape Race, but found they were actually 300 miles east of that point. But for the failure of the compass, Major Kingsford-Smith said they could have made a non-stop flight to New York.

He stated that his flight across the Atlantic was less arduous than his flight across the Pacific. There was less nerve strain, thanks to wireless direction-finding, although there was far more "blind" flying. He was reticent with regard to his observations and the hazards of the flight. The members of the crew, he said, worked together in perfect harmony, and each spoke highly of the efforts of the others to make the venture a success.

LORD TYRRELL ENTERTAINS FRENCH PRESIDENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Thursday.

Lord Tyrell gave a dinner this evening at the Embassy in honour of the President of the Republic. Several French Ministers, Marshal Lyautey, General Weygant and Count O'Kelly, Irish Free State Minister, were present.

TRADE GROUPING OF NATIONS.

REPORT OF LABOUR COMMITTEE.

BRITISH COMMONWEALTH FAVOURED.

The much-discussed report of the Economic Committee of the Trades Union Congress General Council, on the question of the formation of economic groups, was issued yesterday by the Publicity Department of the Trade Union Council. The Committee had considered three such groups—a United States of Europe, a British Commonwealth group, and an Anglo-American alliance.

"The propaganda for so-called Empire free trade has neither occasioned nor influenced the discussions of the Committee," adds the appendix.

With regard to the European bloc the report states: "The factors against are the racial and language difficulties, the fact that all are, or soon will be, predominantly manufacturing countries, and, therefore, very far from being self-contained, and that largely because of this fact their economic interests tend to clash rather than coincide."

BRITISH GROUP FAVOURED.

Dealing with the British Commonwealth group, the report says: "The factors in favour are that the bloc already exists in a tentative kind of way; that there are, undoubtedly, ties of sentiment that count still in the economic sphere; that supplies of raw materials and of manufactured goods could be balanced, the group being rich in raw materials and, in fact, almost self-contained, that there is, to a large extent, a common language, and that there is abundant opportunity for movement of population within the group.

"It has further to be remembered that there is already to some extent a tariff bond within the Commonwealth in the form of preferences and other commercial discriminations applying to both the Dominions and the Colonies."

The factors in favour of the Anglo-American bloc are that such a group would be self-contained, would be powerful enough to ensure the peace of the world, and that there is to a large extent a common language and race. But the factors against were that their economic interests tended to clash rather than coincide.

"If the policy of forming economic blocs is pursued by the nations the most practicable group, from our point of view, would appear to be consolidation of the British Commonwealth," states the report.

"As far as the Imperial Conference is concerned, therefore, it would be in the interests of our own people and of the Dominions to press for as full a development as possible of the economic relations between the constituent parts of the British Commonwealth.

"As a first step it is suggested that regular economic conferences should be held every three or four years, at which representatives of Britain and the Dominions and Colonies could discuss and consult upon the economic affairs of the Commonwealth."

THE SECOND TEST MATCH.

PROBLEMS TO BE FACED AT LORD'S TO-DAY.

J. C. WHITE.

This morning the second Test match will begin at Lord's, and England will take the field with less confidence than she did at Trent Bridge. An injured thumb has robbed her of Herbert Sutcliffe, one of her most reliable batsmen, and Harold Larwood is a doubtful starter. Moreover, George Geary, owing to a rheumatic shoulder, has been forced to decline the invitation to be present.

The final team will not be selected until shortly before the game is due to begin, and the selectors will have two problems to decide. In the first place, a partner must be found for Hobbs to open the innings, and the choice will lie between Sandham and Woolley. Of the two Sandham, perhaps, is to be preferred. His agility in the outfield will be invaluable during a long day. The bowling offers a more difficult question. If it is assumed that Larwood has recovered fully, the only changes available when he and Tate need a rest are Robins, White and Allen.

At Nottingham Chapman was handicapped more than once by a periodic inability on the part of Robins and Tyldesley to keep a length. Here Jack White is supreme. He can bowl all day—as he showed in Australia—and offer no "cheap fours" to the opposition. Moreover, England now is a match in hand, and the necessity to force a decision at all costs will not exist On the other hand, as was proved by Warwick Armstrong's Australian team of 1921, the presence of two fast bowlers can be a potent combination. Whatever the final choice may be, the thousands who will be present to-day will be disappointed if Duleepsinhji is not included in the eleven. He has earned his place, and his fielding in the slips is second to none.

IRISH OFFICER WINS AT OLYMPIA.

FREE STATE TEAM'S BAD LUCK.

CAPT. HUME DUDGEON.

The jumping competition for the Connaught Gold Challenge Trophy took place at the International Horse Show at Olympia yesterday. Captain D. Corry, of the Irish Free State team, who, on Slievenamon, won the trophy last year, again rode Slievenamon, but was unlucky enough to score four faults at the first fence. All four members of the Irish team entered, and rode between them ten horses. Eighty competitors had entered altogether.

The Irishmen's luck seemed to be right out, and they did not jump up to their previous form. Capt. O'Dwyer, on An Craobh Ruadh, made the best round of the Irish team, scoring only two half faults. Three British officers had, however, made faultless rounds beforehand, and after a jump off the trophy went to Major J. Hume Dudgeon, of the Royal Scots Greys, on Forty-Six.

The evening competition was for foreign officers and officers of the Overseas Dominions. Of the Irish team Capt. Finlay, on Moonstruck, made the best round. He cleared every obstacle but two, and these he only just touched, to score half a fault at each. He was one of the five riders to be placed equal thirds. All ten of the Irish horses took part in the contest, which was won by the Frenchman, Lieut. Bizard.

ROYAL VISITORS TO LONDON.

JAPANESE PRINCE AND PRINCESS.

KING'S SPEECH AT STATE DINNER.

The booming of guns from saluting batteries on the heights of Dover heralded the arrival at Dover yesterday of Their Imperial Highnesses Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan.

They were welcomed by the Duke of Gloucester, who accompanied them by special train to Victoria Station, where they were met by the Duke of York, Princess Mary, Prince Arthur of Connaught, Prince George and the Earl of Harewood.

Crowds lined the route to Buckingham Palace, where the Japanese visitors were received by the King and Queen.

Later Prince Takamatsu placed a wreath on the Cenotaph in Whitehall and another on the Unknown Warrior's grave in Westminster Abbey.

THE KING'S DINNER PARTY.

HIS MAJESTY'S SPEECH.

For the first time since his illness in 1928 the King gave a State dinner party at Buckingham Palace last night, when the guests of honour were Prince and Princess Takamatsu.

The King, wearing the uniform of an Admiral of the Fleet, sat next to the Princess at the head of the long table. Opposite sat the Japanese Prince, in naval uniform, by the side of the Queen, who was in a marvellous gown of pale gold embroidered lamé.

One hundred and fourteen guests, including the Prime Minister, the Japanese Ambassador and members of the Government, attended.

THE KING.

The King, proposing the health of the Prince and Princess, said—Your Imperial Highness, it gives the Queen and myself the greatest pleasure to welcome you and Princess Takamatsu to our home in London, and we sincerely trust that your stay in our country may be a happy experience at the commencement of your married life. Your Imperial Highness's visit is one further token of the solid ties of affection and sympathy uniting our two island Empires, so much alike not only geographically, but also in national ideals and traditions.

I myself cherish lasting and pleasant memories of my visit to your beautiful country many years ago, and all the members of my family who have visited Japan have left it with feelings of gratitude for the wonderful hospitality so characteristic of the Japanese nation.

FIELD-MARSHAL'S BATON FOR EMPEROR.

With these recollections in mind, it is a pleasure to entrust Your Imperial Highness with the mission of conveying to your august Sovereign the baton of a Field-Marshal in my Army. The mission of my third son to Japan last year was to confer on the Emperor the Order of the Garter and to bear a message of good-will from myself and my people.

May His Imperial Majesty accept the baton in the same spirit in which he received the Order of the Garter, and may it be regarded as a renewed symbol of our esteem and friendship and of the cordial relations between the two countries.

THE NAVAL CONFERENCE.

As an indication of the strength of these ties, I need only refer to the recent London Naval Conference, throughout which the frankest and most friendly relations existed between the Japanese and British delegations. It is not too much to say that without the helpful co-operation of Monsieur Wakatsuki and his colleagues it would have been impossible to reach the agreement, which I am confident will remove all prospect of naval competition between the British Empire, Japan and the United States.

I cannot allow this occasion to pass without paying a tribute of sincere admiration to the statesmen in Japan who are responsible for the directing of affairs. In particular, I would mention the name of Baron Shidehara, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, whose personality is well known to us in this country, and we recall his sterling services at the Washington Conference.

THE SPIRIT OF FRIENDSHIP.

As a result of the conclusion of Treaties, of which both Japan and Great Britain, as well as other countries, are signatories, the alliance between Japan and Great Britain concluded at the beginning of this century has now been terminated. But the old spirit of friendship between our two countries abides, and I see no possibility of circumstances arising to estrange us.

In raising my glass to drink to the happiness and prosperity of our distinguished guest and his bride, I would ask him to take back to his exalted Sovereign and brother an expression of our thanks for sending him on his present mission, and to bear to His Imperial Majesty the assurance of our unchanging affection and regard.

THE PRINCE'S REPLY.

Prince Takamatsu, in reply, expressed the appreciation of the honour which King George had done him by conferring upon the Emperor the Order of the Garter, and sending the Duke of Gloucester to Japan to invest him with the insignia of the Order.

The Prince added: "It is, indeed, most gratifying to recall that our two nations, which had been faithful allies in the past, were again joined together in the recent momentous Naval Conference in London, and co-operated so closely and wholeheartedly for the cause of peace and human progress.

A RARE PRIVILEGE.

"To-day Your Majesty has done the Emperor of Japan another honour by presenting him with the baton of a Field Marshal in the British Army, whose men and officers enjoy an enviable reputation of valour and gallantry. I shall be happy to carry back to my Sovereign this fresh earnest of Your Majesty's fraternal regard, which will be received with both pride and gratitude."

Thanking the King and Queen for their hospitality, the Prince concluded: "It is a rare privilege and an infinite pleasure for us to be in England."

THE NAVAL TREATY.

HOW JAPAN WELCOMES IT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CHICAGO, Thursday.

Acclaiming the London Treaty as "a remarkable contribution to disarmament and the peace of the world," Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, President of the House of Peers of the Japanese Parliament, speaking at the Rotary Convention, said: "Japan's foremost aspiration is to cultivate the arts of peace. Japan needs a navy adequate to defend her own corner of the Pacific. Her sole thoughts are to put financial and economic life on firmer foundations by curtailing expenditure and seeking overseas markets for her products, which she will only attain by peace, goodwill and friendliness.

"A life of liberty and peace demands eternal vigilance. To peace there can be no short cuts. It is in this light that Japan welcomes the Naval Treaty."

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

MR. MACDONALD'S GOVERNMENT.

THE NEW PROGRAMME.

In a leading article The Times of today observes:—The very mixed reception given by the House of Commons on Wednesday to the Government decision to massacre all their more contentious bills, except the Coal Mines Bill and the Finance Bill, probably reflects pretty accurately the feelings of the public. The tone of the Prime Minister's announcement made it clear that every effort will be made to avoid a clash, even upon the issue which he has sometimes seemed inclined to think electorally favourable, of the conflicting attitude of the two Houses towards the Coal Mines Bill. Nor does his promise to carry a School Age Bill before the end of the calendar year lend colour to the inference that he is contemplating an appeal to the country when Parliament reassembles. Such a course, however welcome to fanatical partisans, whether Unionist or Socialist, would clearly be pusillanimous in an Administration which has been so expected and encouraged to face great responsibilities. Nothing has occurred to shake the belief that the national unity which is essential to the successful treatment of the problem of India is far more likely to be maintained when a Government of the Left is in power in this country, and that is a consideration of overwhelming and permanent importance.

There are also probably some advantages from the same long-distance view in the prospect that a Government of this complexion will conduct the forthcoming conferences with the Dominions. There is, for example, a certain negative value to those in all parts of the Empire who pursue, each in his own way, the ideal of Imperial economic co-operation to learn the least which they can expect from any British Government, and there are certain signs, such as the transference of Mr. Thomas to the Dominions Office and the adoption by the Trades Union Congress of the striking report of its Economic Committee on Imperial Policy, that the least will be something very different from the depreciation of the importance of Dominion trade, of which Mr. Snowden was guilty last year.

UNEMPLOYMENT.

The truth is that, although the Government admit unemployment to be by far their greatest problem, they have not even given priority to legislation by which, according to their own claims, it might have been favourably and permanently affected. Thus the Road Traffic Bill may be an excellent measure, but it can make little difference to unemployment whether there is a speed limit for private motors or not. Much time, both legislative and administrative, has been spent on furthering the so-called short term programme of relief works but these works are admittedly palliatives, often useless, and, in proportion as they mortgage resources which could be better employed elsewhere, actually harmful.

But there has been no corresponding insistence upon legislation of a more permanent and certain value, nor even upon legislation inspired by the Government's own conception of the legislation which is possible in support of a long term programme. Their efforts in this direction have been mainly confined to the creation and demolition of central brains, all so far singularly unfertile. Their efforts in the other directions towards sapping the confidence of industry and increasing the burdens on the taxpayer, have been continuous. The jettisoning of so large a part of the sessional programme is due entirely to the confusion of the pilots. They overloaded their electoral ship with promises. They have been forced to overload their legislative ship with measures. They have found that a mixed cargo of political shoddy and constructive materials cannot be brought into port.

REVOLUTION IN BOLIVIA.

ARMY OVERTHROWS GOVERNMENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LA PAZ, Thursday.

The Army has overthrown the Government, and President Siles has left the country.

BUENOS AIRES, Thursday.

According to reports received by the newspapers, the insurrection has spread to Oruro. Potosi and Santa Cruz are reported to be in the hands of the rebels. General Kundt, the Comander-in-Chief of the Army, is concentrating his forces.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Thursday.

The Buenos Aires newspaper, Critica, states that very serious clashes have occurred at La Paz, Bolivia, between the insurgents and the authorities and the former President, Dr. Siles, has taken refuge in the American Legation.

A thousand demonstrators are said to have stormed the police headquarters in Murillo square, bombarding the building with stones and other missiles.

NOTE.—The Constitution of the Republic of Bolivia (so named in 1825) bears date October 28th, 1880. By its provisions the executive power is vested in a President, elected for a term of four years by direct popular vote, and not eligible for re-election, as well as two Vice-Presidents similarly elected. There is a Congress of two Chambers, called the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies, which sits at La Paz. The suffrage is possessed by all males over 21 years of age who can read and write. Dr. Hernando Siles assumed office as President on January 1st, 1926, and should have retired on January 1st of this year.

SEVILLE BECOMING NORMAL.

FAILURE OF THE GENERAL STRIKE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MADRID, Thursday.

Reports from Seville state that the situation there is steadily becoming normal, the general strike having failed and most of the strikers having returned to work.

The municipal authorities have received many messages of congratulation on the firm manner in which they have dealt with the strike. An official denial has been issued to the rumour that the local police were obliged to fire on the strikers.

The Minister of the Interior made a statement to newspaper men on the strike situation in Seville to-day. He said the city had resumed its normal aspect and that traffic had been resumed, though the trams were still running with police protection.

Several individuals had been arrested for inciting workmen to come out. The Governor had proclaimed that the organisers of the strike would be rigorously prosecuted, and employers were authorised to dismiss employés who had not returned to work by to-morrow.

Delegations of workmen had waited on the Governor to ask for the release of their comrades who had been arrested. The number of persons in custody was very large, and included the executives of the Chauffeurs', Masons' and Bakers' Unions.

The Minister of Justice had appointed a special judge to conduct the prosecutions. The Minister added that workmen in Malaga had left work out of sympathy with the Seville movement.

THE CRISIS IN MALTA.

REPLY TO COURT'S DECISION.

PRIVY COUNCIL TAKES ACTION.

DISCUSSION IN THE COMMONS.

Mr. Snowden, in the House of Commons yesterday, informed Mr. Foot (Liberal, Bodmin) that owing to the urgency of the situation it was necessary to act in the matter of the suspension of the Maltese Constitution without delay. The requisite legislation was enacted by the King in Council that morning, and it would become operative to-day on Proclamation by the Governor in Malta.

In reply to Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy, Mr. Snowden said that it was not possible at present to give any forecast of how long the suspension of the Constitution of Malta would be necessary.

On the Colonial Office vote, in Committee of Supply, Mr. Foot returned to the subject of Malta. He said that after reading and re-reading the Blue Book he maintained that there had been deliberate prevarication by representatives of the Vatican. There were instances of rather slippery diplomacy, and there was a very unfortunate economy so far as the truth was concerned. He was of the opinion that what had happened in Malta deserved the words used in the House of Lords on Wednesday—that the Vatican had behaved on more than one occasion with insolence. He paid a warm tribute to the attitude taken up by Mr. Arthur Henderson, the Foreign Secretary, and severely criticised the actions of the Roman Catholic priests in connection with the Maltese elections. We are faced with a deadlock, he added, and I think the Government have taken the only course, and the right course, in dealing with it.

He recalled attacks made upon Lord Strickland's character, and said:—I believe that Lord Strickland has behaved uprightly throughout in this matter, and I think his personal character cannot in any sense be impugned. (Cheers.) He maintained that there should be no weakening on the part of the Government. The Vatican knows the terms on which the negotiations can open, he added. It is useless for the Pope of this day to act like the Pope of an earlier day, and expect that there is to be a return to Canossa in this business. (Cheers.)

A PROTEST.

Mr. Foot's speech drew a strong protest from Sir J. Reynolds, Conservative member for the Exchange Division of Liverpool, who claimed personal friendship with Lord Strickland. He suggested that this unfortunate and unsatisfactory situation would come right very soon if people would refrain from making a great bonfire of a small matter which had got alight. The situation had arisen from misunderstandings and the clash of personalities, and, if the House acted with the courtesy due from one Power to another, the matter would be very soon put right.

Colonel Wedgwood (Labour, Ashton-under-Lyme) expressed some fear that the suspension of the Constitution and the elimination of Lord Strickland was precisely what the Vatican wanted. It would be deplorable if the Clerical Party were to acclaim the action taken by the Government as evidence that England had failed Malta, which in future must turn to Italy for help. It must be made clear that Lord Strickland was the person who had the confidence of the British Government and the Maltese people.

Mr. Amery said that this interference of the Vatican in the political affairs of Malta had not arisen out of any religious issue. No legislation had been introduced, and no administrative action taken that could be described as of an anti-clerical character. The only difficulty that had arisen was that the majority of the Maltese clergy had thrown themselves very violently on one side of an issue which did not directly affect religion at all.

THE VATICAN'S CLAIM.

The Vatican claimed that no ecclesiastic should be brought into a court without the sanction of his ecclesiastical superior. That claim was not admitted in any Catholic country he knew of. It was disposed of in this country under the Constitutions of Clarendon seven hundred years ago, and was disposed of in Malta some hundred years ago—a few years after the British occupation. It was now being revived on the ground that it was accepted under protest.

I associate myself with the decision that the Government have felt obliged to take, said Mr. Amery. While I entirely support their action, I hope they may find a way out of this difficulty which will enable the Constitution of Malta to come into operation at the earliest possible moment.

Captain Balfour (Conservative, Isle of Thanet) said that the position in Malta must be dealt with with firmness, but we should not forget to exercise tolerance.

Dr. Shiels, Under-Secretary for the Colonies, repeated that the action taken by the Government had been taken with great reluctance, and in the hope that the suspension of the Maltese Constitution would not last for a period of long duration. The suspension would give an opportunity for all parties to reconsider the position, and so bring about an atmosphere likely to bring harmony. The position created by the decision of the High Court, making certain Ordinances invalid, had been remedied in the Order in Council which had received approval that day.

It was the wish of the Government that the Maltese people should have the opportunity to work out their own destiny in their own way, but they had been compelled to interfere by the intervention of an outside authority. He urged that the real issue was not a religious one, but was to some extent a domestic controversy, and that the Government had intervened only in the interests of self-government. Not only the reasons, but the purpose, of the action of the British Government should be made clear to the Maltese people.

"We may hope," he concluded, "that

NATIONALISTS AND THE VATICAN.

ATTITUDE TO LORD PASSFIELD'S SPEECH.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MALTA, Thursday.

A deputation from the Nationalist Party, on learning of Lord Passfield's statement in the House of Lords yesterday, waited on the Archbishop, and informed him, on behalf of the whole Nationalist Party, that they were ready to do anything, and the Archbishop might rely on their doing everything necessary in defence of the faith. They would always obey him as head of the Malta Diocese, and the Pope as head of the Church. The Archbishop thanked them for their sentiments.

The deputation then informed the Archbishop that they were writing to the Vatican as follows:—"At this moment, when Malta is sacrificing her constitutional liberties to defend her faith and traditions, the Nationalist Party, interpreting the sentiments of true Maltese, renews its unalterable devotion to the Vatican, and gives an assurance that it will always defend at any cost and any sacrifice, religious and civil rights, which nobody can deny them. The party asks for an Apostolic blessing."

LORD PASSFIELD'S STATEMENT.

Lord Passfield, in his speed in the House of Lords on Wednesday night, said: "I think we have found a solution which combines the practical necessity for carrying on the Government with the regrettable position of not being able to have the elections, and yet we are in no sense giving way to the demands of the Vatican that Lord Strickland and his colleagues should be removed, and we have no intention of doing so."

BISHOP AND PRACTICAL PATRIOTISM.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A NEW IRISH LEADER.

Speaking at the formal opening of the Slaney Valley Co-Operative Creamery at Tullow (Co. Carlow) yesterday, Bishop Cullen said:—

"We never tire of boasting of the fact that we are a very patriotic people. Well, perhaps we are, but I am afraid our patriotism does not always take a practical turn. I could never recognise as patriotic a person who passes by his own market and supplies his wants from a foreign market. I think if the Irish people pledged themselves not to use any foreign products of any kind whatever, provided they could supply their wants on equal, or nearly equal, terms in the home market, it would bring a great change in the prosperity of our country. We have our own country producing materials that can compete with any material in the world. We have, for instance, our own woollen mills producing a cloth which is appreciated and sought after in Paris and other places abroad, and still people here at home buy foreign stuff. I fail to see any trace of patriotism there.

"I wish some great leader woul spring up in this country, who would persuade the people of the country to use only home-grown products whenever it is possible. I think if a campaign of that kind were adopted and put into practice, the prosperity of this country would be assured in a short time, and the population would increase, and we would hear very little of the unemployment problem."

DAIRY SHORTHORN BREEDERS.

MEETING IN CORK.

At the quarterly meeting of the Irish Dairy Shorthorn Breeders' Society held in the Victoria Hotel, Cork, yesterday, the Rev. R. M. Boyd, M.A., B.D., presiding, a letter was read from the Department of Industry and Commerce pointing out in connection with a resolution passed regarding the marketing of margarine and butter, "that under the law at present in force in Saorstat Eireann there is no power to compel vendors to indicate the country of origin on goods at the time of sale or exposure for sale.

"The amendment of the law in this respect has been under the consideration of the Minister for some time, and a bill is in course of preparation which will make provision for the marking of the name of the country of origin of any class of goods when offered for sale."

DUBLIN SHOW CATALOGUES.

A resolution was passed asking the Royal Dublin Society to include in all future show and sale catalogues extended pedigrees of all animals offered for sale.

Mr. P. J. Halliden, hon. secretary, announced that the New Zealand farmers' tour of Europe would include a visit to Ireland from 23rd to 30th July next.

THE LADY DESART CUP.

The hon. secretary also announced that the Lady Desart Cup for the best shorthorn heifer of recognised progeny, in the Free State, in the lactation period from 1st September, 1928, to 1st March, 1930, had been won by Mr. William Gleeson, Smithfield, Nenagh. The winner was Bachelor's Daisy, which yielded 884 gallons of milk in her first lactation period of 45 weeks, with an average of 4 per cent. butter fat. She had calved at 2½ years old, and produced a live calf again in thirteen months, being registered this year. Mr. Denis Day, Doonmoon, Knocklong, was reserve with Ballyscaddane Dairy Maid.

Mr. Quinlan, Mitchelstown, said that he considered that the time had arrived when the Society should focus attention on the staying powers of their dairy cattle—that was, for the cow, for example, which yielded the greatest quantity of milk over a period of three or four years, and which produced a live calf each year, or, at least, within a period of fourteen months.

Several speakers having testified to the soundness of the proposal, the Chairman intimated his intention to present a prize for such a scheme.

It was resolved to ask the Department to accept particulars of the second calving of registered progeny, where such heifers are entered, or are awaiting inspection with a view to registration.

DUBLIN HORSE SHOW.

Intending exhibitors are reminded that the entries for the Royal Dublin Society's Horse Show close on the 1st July. Applications for entry forms, etc., should be addressed to the Director, Royal Dublin Society, Ballsbridge, Dublin.

LIMERICK ANNUAL SYNOD.

DR. WHITE ON LAMBETH CONFERENCE.

CARE OF CHURCHES AND GRAVEYARDS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LIMERICK, Thursday.

The annual Synod of the Diocese of Limerick was held to-day in the Diocesan Hall, Pery street, the Bishop, the Right Rev. Dr. White, presiding.

His lordship prefaced his address with a warm tribute to the late Bishop Orpen, and referred also to the loss sustained by the death of the Diocesan Chancellor, Mr. Henry Cole Bowen, who would be succeeded in office by Mr. Morgan Jellett, K.C. Having alluded to the beautiful memorial to Dean Hackett, which had been erected in St. Mary's Cathedral, the Bishop went on to express pleasure at finding Churchmen ready to spend large sums on such a historic House of God as St. Mary's Cathedral. The same spirit, however, shows itself in many parts of the diocese. Their clergy and people were alive to their duty in this matter. Quite recently, for example, two of their small country churches—Springfield and Ballingarry—had been thoroughly renovated.

"In this connection," said Dr. White, "I note that at last the public conscience of the Irish people is becoming awake to the national disgrace implied in the widespread neglect of graveyards. A better spirit is abroad. Let us encourage it not only by words but by deeds. Let us all, to use a homely phrase, sweep before our own doors when sweeping is needed, and then we may hope ere long to be unable to find any burial place in the country like a rubbish heap, but each a 'God's acre,' worthy of that touching name."

Proceeding, he invited their interest in, and their prayers for, that great gathering at Lambeth which would assemble within the next few days, and at which their archbishops and bishops would find themselves taking counsel with over three hundred members of the Anglican Episcopate from all quarters of the globe

THE LAMBETH CONFERENCE.

"At Lambeth our Church will, in the persons of its bishops, take its place with Churches from all parts of the world, each cherishing its independence. The right which we exercise of framing our own forms of worship is exercised by our sister Churches, and as they tolerate our methods we tolerate theirs. Toleration means putting up with customs and phrases not always wholly agreeable to us; and it is by that spirit that peace is reached. One of the gravest questions that ever perplexed Christ's Church arose in its earliest days when St. Paul and St. Peter seemed to be in danger of differing from each other about the true method of treating the Old Law. By patience, by mutual forbearance, they held together, and so the Catholic Church was put on a firm foundation of liberty.

"We have to-day differing outlooks, various methods, characteristic of the many provinces and dioceses represented at Lambeth. We shall have joining together in prayer and discussion men who in the old-fashioned phrases would be styled high, low and broad Churchmen. This is a strength, not a weakness; for when honest men, who love God, meet and talk and pray together they are more and more led to dwell on the deepest matters of the Christian life, and as they take into consideration how best to deal with their fellow-men who reject or are ignorant of the Gospel message they find how much more vital are their points of agreement than the points about which they cannot see eye-to-eye.

"If anyone yearns for a more definite note of authority in the conclusions arrived at, I ask him to remember that it seems to be God's plan to lead His children to fresh knowledge by these gradual, tentative, open-minded searches after truth."

CHRISTIAN REUNION.

"What particular steps towards reunion the Lambeth Conference of 1930 can take remains to be seen," added his Lordship. "The whole question will, please God, be treated with the gravity becoming its importance, with the spirit of adventure which befits leaders of the Church of the living Christ, and with the statesmanlike outlook and firmness which will not sacrifice the union which at present exists between the Churches of our communion, even for the sake of hastening a union with brothers now separated from us, much as our hearts and hopes are engaged in that enterprise."

CHURCH SCHOOLS.

In proposing the adoption of the report of the Diocesan Board of Education, the Rev. Treasurer Abbott pointed out that its work was religious and secular. There were not many Church schools in the diocese; most of them were small schools, and some of them had great difficulty in remaining in existence at all. The Free State Government had done a great deal to help them, but there was a great deal their people could do to help themselves. In this connection he pointed out that the Board had provided in some cases for the transit of children to neighbouring schools, and he asked for more help to carry out this important work. Only nineteen subscriptions from the entire diocese had been sent in for that purpose.

The President emphasised the importance of the work, and asked the clergy and laity of the Synod to tell their people how they stood. They could easily spend a couple of hundred a year more to great advantage.

The report was adopted.

Temperance, missions, and other reports were discussed and adopted.

THE ELECTIONS.

The elections took place as follows:—

SPECIAL MEETING TO BE SUMMONED.

At the meeting of the Dublin County Council yesterday, at which Mr. P. Nugent presided, a letter was read from Mr. P. Belton calling attention to the action of the De-Rating Commission in refusing to take the evidence of their representatives when they went before it. He suggested that the Council call a meeting of representatives of the Council, the Committee of Agriculture, and all local bodies in the county to consider the matter.

It was decided to convene the suggested meeting on Thursday next to discuss the matter.

The marriage took place yesterday of Henry Francis Anderson, Glenmore, Co. Longford, and Margaret Lucenda Fee (née Twaddle), of Garrycam, Co. Longford. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Anderson, M.A., assisted by the Rev. T. Anderson, M.A., and the Rev. H. G. Fferda, M.A., at St. George's Parish Church, Dublin. A reception was held afterwards at 4 Mountjoy square, and the bride and bridegroom left for England.

BEAVERBROOK DEMAND.

MR. BALDWIN'S REPLY TO LORD ELIBANK.

Mr. Baldwin's repudiation of the claims of Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Rothermere to dictate Conservative Party policy and practice continues to excite attention. Mr. Baldwin yesterday addressed the following letter to Lord Elibank:—

"House of Commons,
"June 26th, 1930.

"DEAR LORD ELIBANK,—On my return home last night, shortly before midnight, I found your letter, which you informed me you were sending to the Press. I have looked at the peccant passage to which you refer, and if you drew from it the impression that I thought you personally would deny your own words, I can assure you that nothing was further from my thoughts.

"But you raise a further point that is not without interest. The phrase you used when you saw me was: 'Lord Beaverbrook will expect that you will consult him in the appointment of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the President of the Board of Trade, and the Secretaryships of State to the Dominions and Colonies.' So explicit a request suggested to my mind that you were conveying a message, or at any rate, the impression left on your mind as the result of conversations which had taken place between you and Lord Beaverbrook.

"I am afraid that I used less classical language than you are good enough to credit me with. I said: 'You can wash that right out at once,' and proceeded to give you my views on the constitutional position of the Prime Minister at some length.

"Of course I accept your statement that you did not come to me as an emissary of Lord Beaverbrook. On the other hand, I cannot help observing from your letter that after the interview you went to Lord Beaverbrook and reported our conversation fully to him, and were, indeed, rebuked by him for raising the subject at the interview. This, perhaps, served to show that Lord Beaverbrook had a shrewder appreciation of my character than either yourself or Lord Rothermere.

"Yours sincerely,
(Signed), "STANLEY BALDWIN."

A LIBERAL TRIBUTE.

SIR JOHN SIMON AND MR. BALDWIN.

Sir John Simon referred to Mr. Baldwin's reply to the demands of Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Rothermere at the annual meeting of the Spen Valley Women's Liberal Association at Liversedge yesterday.

The Conservative Party had been having a lively time, he said. Nothing was more significant than the reception that Mr. Baldwin got, not only from the Conservative Party, but from the House of Commons, after he had explained the terms to which he was invited to subscribe, at the behest of those distinguished Peers of the Press, Lords Beaverbrook and Rothermere.

Nothing, he added, had amused him more than to read in the Daily Mail the explanation given about Mr. Baldwin's surprising disclosure. The defence was that, in the United States of America the President had to submit the names of some of his colleagues for the approval of the Senate. This seemed to suggest that someone had appointed Lord Rothermere to be the Senate of Great Britain. The Senate of the United States was a representative body, duly elected, with functions and duties according to the Constitution, and it was not yet any part of the Constitution of the United Kingdom that an eminent proprietor of a great newspaper should be given any corresponding functions.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

DOMINION AFFAIRS.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF EMPIRE TRADE.

(FROM OUR PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT.)
WESTMINSTER, Thursday.

The vote for the Dominions Office, which was considered in Committee of Supply, afforded Mr. J. H. Thomas an opportunity of making what may be considered his first public appearance as Secretary of State for the Dominions.

Sir Herbert Samuel (Liberal, Darwen), in opening the debate, congratulated Mr. Thomas on his new appointment. He rather regretted that the rules of the House did not permit him on this vote to discuss what had been strangely named Empire Free Trade. Probably there would be some future opportunity, for it was most necessary that the views of the House on this topic should be expressed. So far, the Empire Free Traders had shown no great eagerness to bring this matter on to the floor of the House. Empire trade had, in fact, enormously expanded. The exports of the Crown Colonies had increased from 100 millions in 1913-14 to 236 millions in the last completed year, and that without any adventitious aid.

In the same year Canadian exports had doubled, and the exports of New Zealand had increased by fifty per cent. The trade of the Empire now reached the enormous total of three thousand million pounds a year, or 29 per cent. of the whole trade of the world. Speaking of the work of the Empire Marketing Board, he expressed some doubt whether the money spent on publicity was fully warranted. The question was—whether we got an adequate economic return for the expenditure. Turning to more general topics, he urged the Government to view the various problems connected with the Empire, such as marketing, cotton-growing, migration, communications, etc., as a whole, and to try to evolve a practical and non-controversial policy of Imperial unification and development. It was quite a mistake to imagine that there could be no Empire policy which was not a tariff policy.

Mr. Amery also congratulated Mr. Thomas on his appointment, and expressed his pleasure at the policy of the Government in separating the Dominions and Colonial Offices. On the subject of Empire trade, he said that the Unionist Party wished to approach it from every possible angle. They were not wedded to one remedy and one remedy only. They did not make a fetish of duties. There were other methods, and in the discussion that would take place at the forthcoming Imperial Conference he appealed to Mr. Thomas to preserve an absolutely open mind, and not to tie himself down to any party prepossession.

Mr. Thomas said that the Government would enter the Imperial Conference with a single-minded desire to do all that was possible in the interests of this country and the Empire. It would, however, be a profound mistake to imagine that out of the Conference would emerge an absolute solution for the unemployment problem. They did hope that the Conference would contribute something towards a solution. So far as he could see, the only thing likely to be excluded from the Conference was the referendum. As to the suggestion which had been made for the setting up of some permanent body to consider the economic side of the Empire, he thought it would be a good thing. The danger, however, was that the Dominions resented any sort of idea that they were being "run" from London.

As to the proposal that there should be some sort of Imperial Court, of a judicial character, to deal with matters arising out of the constitutional changes made in 1926, he said that the Government were exploring the possibilities of some such tribunal. Having dealt with some of the problems which were likely to be discussed at the Conference, Mr. Thomas said that there never was a time when they called for more serious and impartial consideration. The present state of the country was such that nothing should prevent any individual, or any party,

MEATH HOSPITAL.

LAST YEAR'S GREAT WORK.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S TRIBUTE.

The annual meeting of the Meath Hospital, Dublin, was held yesterday afternoon in the hospital, the Governor-General presiding.

Mr. Robert Dow, Secretary of the hospital, read the report, which stated that the bank overdraft in March, 1930, was £4,399 16s. 5d., as against £3,700 6s. 7d. in the previous year. The total expenditure for the year was £15,651 10s. 8d., compared with £15,182 9s. 3d. in 1928-29. The total income was £14,475 3s. 4d., as against £16,009 12s. 9d. in the previous year; 1,757 patients were treated in the wards during the year; 5,396 accident cases were treated as out-patients, and the dispensary cases were 17,128. The total number, therefore, receiving medical or surgical treatment was 24,281.

A steady increase in the work of the X-ray Department is noted, 1,714 patients being X-rayed this year, compared to 1,599 the previous year.

The classes held by the Linen Guild provided two hundred and twenty articles of clothing, and the Guild has a bank balance of £103 3s. 5d.

The Convalescent Home in Bray carried out excellent work during the year, and received from the hospital 187 patients for periods varying from two to four weeks.

THE HOSPITAL'S WORK.

The adoption of the report was proposed by Mr. W. Collis, Chairman of the Hospital Board.

This year, he said, has been a splendid year of work done; we are increasing the numbers admitted year by year. I would like to draw attention to the manner in which the X-Ray Department has expanded; 115 more patients were X-Rayed than the year before. The department cost over £2,000. The installation is one of the best in Dublin, and is very expensive to keep up. We would wish to give all honour to Dr. Lane, who presides over it.

The out-door work of the hospital has expanded beyond our premises, and we are about to incur a further debt of £7,000. I am going to make a proposal to start a campaign for a hundred thousand half-crowns to pay for the new building and reduce our over-draft. I am prepared to give a hundred of them to start, if nine other people will do the same, and I hope we will get that done this afternoon. Then we will start a regular canvas, and I believe that we will get the money.

OPPOSITION TO SWEEPSTAKES.

Sir John W. Moore seconded the resolution.

We have over-spent our income during the past year by £1,200, he said. That sum ought to be made up by the city of Dublin and the county without recourse to sweepstakes. I here make a public statement, that I am strongly opposed to the support of charitable institutions by such means. If people want the poor to be properly treated in hospitals they should pay honestly for it out of their own pockets, and not hope for any financial benefit out of it.

There is a death-rate of 49 per 1,000 of the people treated in the hospital—only three times the death-rate of a large, healthy population. It is to the devotion of the nurses and their attendance on the sick that we owe this small death-rate. As a member of the medical staff, I tender them my most hearty thanks for the devotion and skill with which they have nursed the patients of the hospital for the past year. For many years one of our best nurses has been at the head of the Convalescent Home at Bray; her name is Sister Nellie, and we are all deeply indebted to her for the splendid finish that she puts to the work done in the Meath Hospital.

THANKS FOR GRANTS.

Mr. Munden proposed, and Mr. Warner seconded, a resolution that the thanks of the meeting were due to the Dublin County Council and the Dublin Corporation for their grants, and to the Distribution Committee of the Dublin Hospital Sunday Fund for their award, and to all the friends who have contributed to the support and efficiency of the hospital.

Dr. Robinson proposed, and Dr. Stokes seconded, a resolution that the large amount of excellent work done by the hospital and the care and economy exercised in its administration are claims on the public for increased liberality.

Alderman O'Connor proposed, and Mr. Warner seconded, a resolution that the best thanks of the meeting be returned to the medical, surgical and nursing staff of the hospital.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

The Governor-General said that it was a very pleasant experience for him to renew his association with the hospital, and to express his sympathy with its excellent work.

"The Meath Hospital," he said, "is not standing still; but, like other old Dublin institutions, is more concerned with the work of to-morrow than with the work of the past. That attitude is not only admirable and useful; it is also both immediately expensive and ultimately thrifty; at any rate, thrifty in the interests of our people. No hospital like this can stand still; it must advance with the advance of medical knowledge, and with the growing appreciation of the efficiency of medical aid.

"This hospital must be run on business lines, with only one qualification—that highly skilled medical aid should be given gratuitously. It deserves more financial support; it receives excellent support from a few of our business concerns, but only a few. I hope that all those concerned, either with social welfare or progressive development, will help this hospital to give ample and efficient public service."

The chair was then taken by Mr. Colles, who called upon Sir John Moore to propose a vote of thanks to the Governor-General for coming to preside at the meeting.

The vote was passed with acclamation.

A CARNEGIE HERO.

LIMEKILN ACCIDENT IN FERMANAGH RECALLED.

The Carnegie Hero Fund trustees, at Dunfermline yesterday made the following Irish award:—

Bernard Gilmurray, limekiln manager, Templeneffrin, Belcoo, Co. Fermanagh, sustained serious injury while rescuing a man from a limekiln at Greenhoe, near Belcoo, on May 17. The workman died next day, and the rescuer is still in hospital. The trustees granted Gilmurray a bronze medallion, their highest award, and a sum of £35.

FORGED DATE STAMPS.

At Donegal Criminal Sessions, at Lifford, yesterday, a young man named James P. O'Mahony, of Stepney, London, a former postal sorting clerk at Lifford, who was returned for trial the previous evening, pleaded guilty to forging a post office date stamp, and endeavouring to obtain money from various firms, with intent to defraud. Judge Gleeson released prisoner on his own recognisance.

from examining anything and everything that might tend to restore our economic position.

Mr. Boothby remarked that it was one of the tragedies of the present day that all our problems were purely economic problems, and it was very desirable that the question of tariffs should not be excluded from consideration at the Conference. Unless the Empire could be brought to form part of one economic unit, there was a danger that this country would be isolated—cut off by America on the one side, and by Europe on the other.

Mr. Lunn, Under-Secretary for the Dominions, in reply to further discussion, said that they were all anxious, if not for Empire free trade, at any rate for freer and more abundant trade between all parts of the Empire, and all that could be done in that connection would have the co-operation and encouragement of the Government. Empire settlement was not in a very satisfactory condition at present, in regard to the numbers leaving this country, but it had been proceeding on much more satisfactory lines. Since the passage of the Empire Settlement Act. The agenda for the coming Imperial Conference, so far as it had been agreed upon, would be laid before the House before the summer adjournment.

The vote was withdrawn.

WOMAN ASSAULTED AT HOLY WELL.

REMARKABLE STORY IN TIPPERARY CASE.

At Tipperary Circuit Court on Wednesday evening, before his Honour Judge Sealy, Mrs. Bridget Egan, a farmer's wife, aged 50, Knockgraffon, Cahir, claimed £100 damages from Daniel Devitt, aged 30, garage proprietor, Cashel, for assault.

Mr. J. J. Walsh, solicitor (representing Mr. T. F. O'Brien, solicitor, Clonmel), appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. J. Walsh (instructed by Mr. R. Connolly, solicitor, Cashel) for the defendant.

Mrs. Egan said that she had been suffering for some time from an ailment, and she came to pray at the well and drink of its waters in order to get cured. She had heard her mother say that it was a holy well, and that her grandfather had come, fifty years ago, before sunrise on the first morning in May for three years in succession and prayed and drank of the water, and his trouble had disappeared. Mrs. Egan said that she had come to the well before daybreak and gone through the ritual of prayer and water-drinking last year and the year before on the morning of 1st of May, and on this occasion she came with similar intent. She was accompanied by Miss Peggy Maher. She brought a cup with her, and she and Miss Maher produced their beads and recited the Rosary, walking round and round the well while doing so.

"I was standing on the second step from the top of the well," said Mrs. Egan, "and Miss Maher was standing near me, when I suddenly saw an alarmed look come over her face and somebody that I could not see grasped my left arm with his two hands and shook me very violently and pulled me off the step. The man, who was a stranger to me then, but whom I now know to be Daniel Devitt, then pulled my rosary beads out of my right hand and broke them. I said to him: 'How dare you break my rosary beads'? and he then threw them back to me and said: 'Now the spell is broken!' He shouted to me to leave the place, and continued to shake me and push me along the street before him."

Mr. Walsh (cross-examining)—When did you get the notion into your head that this was a holy well?—I had this notion for several years.

TERRIBLY FRIGHTENED.

You are a Roman Catholic, and do you not know that Roman Catholics discountenance superstition?—I know nothing about superstition, but I know that religious people go to holy wells and drink the water, and pray at them at any hour they like.

Did you ever hear of "skimming" a well before sunrise on the morning of the first of May?—No.

Did you ever hear of "pishogues"?—I have read of such things, but I do not think that anybody believes in them at the present day.

What is a "pishogue"?—I don't know.

Miss Peggy Maher said she was terribly frightened when Devitt suddenly appeared at the well and seized Mrs. Egan. When Devitt asked what she was doing there, Mrs. Egan replied, "We are saying our prayers." "Then go to the church and say your prayers," cried Devitt, at the same moment seizing her Rosary beads and smashing them. "Now," he shouted, "the spell is broken. Skip it! Spik it! or I'll go to the Civic Guards and have you arrested as vagrants!"

The defendant said he lived almost opposite the well. It was a public well used by people for drinking and domestic purposes.

Mr. Walsh—Did you ever hear of people getting cured of disease by coming at unearthly hours of the morning to this well?—No.

You never heard of any miracles there?—No. No miracles of any kind were ever worked there.

The witness, continuing, said that he was in bed, and, awakened by the noise outside, he went to the window and saw two women parading round the well. It was then five minutes to three, and it struck him as strange that these people should be there at such an hour of the morning. I dressed, said the witness, and came downstairs and out to the well. The movements of the women—parading round the well—were, to me, very suspicious.

"Mrs. Egan had gone down into the well, and I said to her, 'Come up out of the well. You have no business there at this hour.'"

He denied that he laid hands on Mrs. Egan or took her Rosary beads from her.

RIGHTS OF A CITIZEN.

Cross-examined by Mr. Walsh—This is a public well, and what right had you to come there and order these women away?—The right of a citizen and a ratepayer, and of one who draws water from this well for domestic and drinking purposes.

Did you believe at all that any harm could come to you, or any members of your family, by anybody coming before sunrise on the morning of the first of May and visiting this well?—No.

I suggest to you that that was the reason why you were at the well on that morning—that you waited up all night to encounter anybody who came to the well?—No, that is wrong.

Did you, after this occurrence on this May morning, circulate a report that the spell on you and your family was broken?—No, I never did.

What did you think Mrs. Egan was doing at this well at three o'clock in the morning?—That is the question I asked her and that she refused to answer. She said nothing to me about saying prayers. I saw no Rosary beads in her hand. I only saw her and the other woman parading round and round the well, and I came to the conclusion that they were not there for any good purpose.

What purpose did you think they were there for?—Well, seeing them there at such an unreasonable hour of the morning, I thought they might be there for the purpose of polluting the water. I thought they were doing something to the water—that, perhaps, they were poisoning the well.

Mrs. Johanna Hickey said that she "was bred, born and reared at this well, and I never heard of anybody coming there at that hour of the morning to get cured."

His Honour—Is this a holy well?

The Witness (emphatically)—It is not.

Judge Sealy said that these women had a perfect right to come there and pray at the well, which they believed to be a holy well. Whether Devitt, as had been suggested, came to the well to "break the spell" on himself and his family, or whether, as he said himself, he came to prevent the women from polluting the water, was not for His Honour to decide. But Devitt had no right to interfere with the women, who were both respectable people, and not the type of persons who would poison a well. His Honour found that Mrs. Egan had been assaulted, and gave a decree for 30s. damages and £3 witness's expenses.

A NORTHERN MARRIAGE.

THE REV. A. P. ARMSTRONG AND MISS L. E. CLARKE.

The marriage of the Rev. Arthur Patrick Armstrong, son of Mr. Richard Armstrong, and grandson of the late Serjeant Armstrong, Q.C., and Miss Leslie Elizabeth Clarke, only daughter of Mr. S. Colquhoun Clarke, R.M., and Mrs. Clarke, took place on Wednesday at St. John's Church, Newcastle, Co. Down. The church was beautifully decorated with roses and foliage, and the service was fully choral, and Miss Chichester presided at the organ.

The Rev. Chancellor Woodward, M.A., assisted by the Rev. O. E. Clarke, M.A., and the Rev. Canon Pratt, B.D., officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of ivory panne velvet, with seed pearl embroidery, and a train of the same velvet. Her veil of duchess point lace was held in place by two little sprays of pearl lilies of the valley and a rope of pearls. She carried a sheaf of white lilies, and wore a pearl and platinum necklet, the gift of her father. The bridesmaids, Miss Mollie Pringle and Miss Florence Ussher, wore long pink satin costumes, with picture hats and shoes to tone, and carried bouquets of blue sweet peas. The two little train-bearers wore charming frocks of pale blue net, embroidered with pink roses, and carried early Victorian posies of pink and blue blossoms, and their little gold necklets were the gifts of the bridegroom, who was accompanied by Captain A. H. Mathews, who acted as best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Slieve Donard Hotel by the bride's mother, who wore a stone-coloured georgette and lace costume, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. About one hundred guests were present, and gave a great send-off to the bridal pair, who left for Scotland later, the bride wearing a long coat with grey fur, over a black and white silk frock, with hat to match.

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSED FIRM.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.
NEW YORK, Thursday.

The market opened strong, advancing early under the leadership of American Tobacco and American Tobacco "B," which soared 18 and 8 points, respectively, following the overnight announcement of a two for one split-up in the shares, and four dollars extra dividend, then moderately sold off before greater strength developed later. "Bears" found the market at times thoroughly oversold, and prices worked substantially higher under the influence of short-covering, together with reports from commission houses of steadied and unhurried investment buying at current levels. Anaconda Copper rose more than 4 points on short covering, following the reduction of the annual dividend from 7 dollars to 3.50 dollars, which was not as bad as that recenty forecast. Two of the Anaconda Copper subsidiaries, the Greene Canea Copper and Andes Copper, placed their annual dividend basis at 3 dolars and 1.50, as against 8 dollars and 3 dollars, respectively, previously. Call money continued to cheapen. In the late dealings the advance was checked by profit-taking which resulted in widespread irregularity. The close, however, was firm. American Power and Light, Anaconda Copper, Canadian Pacific, Atchison Topeka, American Tobacco "B," Chesapeake and Ohio, Electric Power and Light, New York Central, Houston Oil, American Can, and American Telephone and Telegraph rose 3 to 6 points; and Case Threshing Machine, Worthington Pump, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, and Norfolk and Western advanced 7 to 10 points. Government Bonds dull; Railroad Bonds quiet. The day's sales totalled 2,268,000 shares. Money on call closed easy at 1½ per cent. bid and 1¾ per cent. asked; business done during the day ranged from 1½ to 2 per cent., with 2 per cent. the ruling rate. The last loan was made at 1½ per cent. Prime Mercantile Paper was quoted 3¼ to 3½ per cent. Sterling exchange steady. Silver unchanged at 33⅝.

INDIAN PEACE RUMOURS.

POLICE FIRE ON MADRAS MOB.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
BOMBAY, Thursday.

There has been renewed talk lately about peace negotiations. Although the departure from Bombay yesterday of Pandit Motilal Nehru, Acting President of the Congress, has disappointed expectations in that respect, hopes of early negotiations are maintained.

One hears also from every side the demand for a clearer statement by the Government of India on the aims of the Round Table Conference. The Times of India states that even the most moderate of the Indian leaders feel that, with the Commission's report before them, something more is required than the mere reiteration of absolute freedom at the Conference. "The future Constitution of India," the newspaper says, "must have the support of sufficient people in India to make it function. That is the crucial test of the ultimate decisions of the Conference. Unfortunately, very little spade-work has been done by the leaders of the various communities, on whom rests the onus of adjusting their difficulties. They must seriously devote themselves to that task in the near future, and the best way for the Government to help them is to give them some idea of what they may expect. The Times of India further declares that the people who are waiting for a sign are not men of straw.

FOURTEEN RIOTERS WOUNDED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MADRAS, Thursday.

Following upon the arrest to-day of seven prominent civil disobedience volunteers at Ellore, a crowd of three thousand, carrying sticks, held a demonstration.

They refused to disperse, although repeatedly warned by the Magistrate, and eventually they tried to rush the police, who were obliged to open fire.

Fourteen persons in the crowd were wounded, one of them fatally. None of the police was injured.

The situation is now under control.

LEADER'S RELEASE FROM JAIL.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
AHMEDABAD, Thursday.

On leaving the jail to-day, where he had just served three months' imprisonment, Mr. Vallabhai Patel, the brother of the ex-President of the Legislative Assembly, remarked to the Governor of the jail that he would be returning within a week, and would like his old cell reserved for him.

Addressing a meeting this evening, Mr. Vallabhai Patel said that he was pained to leave the jail. It was no hardship to be there; indeed, supreme happiness could be found there.

WOMEN SENTENCED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
CALCUTTA, Thursday.

Four women—Miss Urmila Devi, sister of the late Mr. C. P. Das; Miss Bimalprativa Devi, Miss Jyotirmayee Gangulyt, and Miss Mohini Devi (aged sixty)—have been sentenced by the Chief Presidency Magistrate to six months' simple imprisonment each on a charge of taking part in demonstrations in connection with the anniversary of the death of Mr. C. P. Das, in defiance of prohibitory orders.

During the trial the court room and compound were besieged by women volunteers.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
KARACHI, Thursday.

Swami Govindanand, President of the Karachi District Congress Committee, was to-day sentenced to one year's rigorous imprisonment by the City Magistrate. He was charged with inciting the people to break the law.

THE ROUND TABLE CONFERENCE.

PREMIER CONSULTS PARTY LEADERS.

The Press Association Lobby Correspondent says:—The Prime Minister received the leaders of the Conservative and Liberal Parties in his room at the House of Commons yesterday, and conferred with them on the subject of India. It is understood that the meeting concerned the procedure to be followed in connection with the forthcoming round-table conference. Those present, in addition to the Prime Minister, were Mr. Wedgwood-Benn, Secretary of State for India; Mr. Stanley Baldwin, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, Mr. Lloyd George and the Marquis of Reading.

OBITUARY.

MAJOR GEORGE GARRETT.

Major George Garrett, of Trinity street, Drogheda, whose death occurred in the Cottage Hospital, Drogheda, yesterday, following a brief illness, at the age of 67, was a familiar figure in Drogheda for several years past.

A Staff officer of the Prince of Wales' Leinster Regiment, (Royal Canadians), he commanded the Royal Meaths when they were stationed at Millmount, Drogheda, for several years before the War, and when war broke out in 1914 he served with the regiment in France. Always a popular officer, he was held in high regard both in military and civil circles. From the disbandment of the regiment in June, 1922, till his death the late Major Garrett lived in Drogheda, and was known there to a wide circle as a keen golfer and sportsman. He was secretary of the County Louth Golf Club for several years, and was also prominently associated with Drogheda Rowing Club. His principal other interest was shooting, and he was always to be seen accompanied by one or two sporting dogs. He suffered a good deal in latter years from sciatica and rheumatism, and became seriously ill about a month ago, when he was taken to the Cottage Hospital.

The remains were removed to St. Peter's, West street, last evening, and were followed by a large concourse of mourners. The funeral will take place to-day to St. Peter's new cemetery.

MR. PATRICK MEADE, CORK.

Ex-Alderman Patrick Meade, for many years a member of Cork Corporation, a former Mayor of Cork and a member of the present Corporation, died last night at his residence in Cork.

DUBLIN COUNCIL OF WOMEN.

CANDIDATES AT COMING ELECTIONS.

A special meeting of the Dublin Council of Women was held at 5 Leinster street on June 26th, to consider what action should be taken to further the return of suitable women candidates in connection with the coming local government elections.

The Council includes the following societies:—Women Citizens' Association; Co-operative Women's Guild, Women's National Health Association, Matrons' Association, Nurses' Union, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom (Irish Section), Girls' Friendly Society, Women Workers' Union, Parents' National Education Union, Saor an leanbh.

It was decided to send a letter to all political parties and to organisations likely to put up candidates, urging them to include a sufficient number of suitable women among their nominees.

It was also decided to ask affiliated societies to put before their members the need to support as individuals the candidature of women who command confidence.

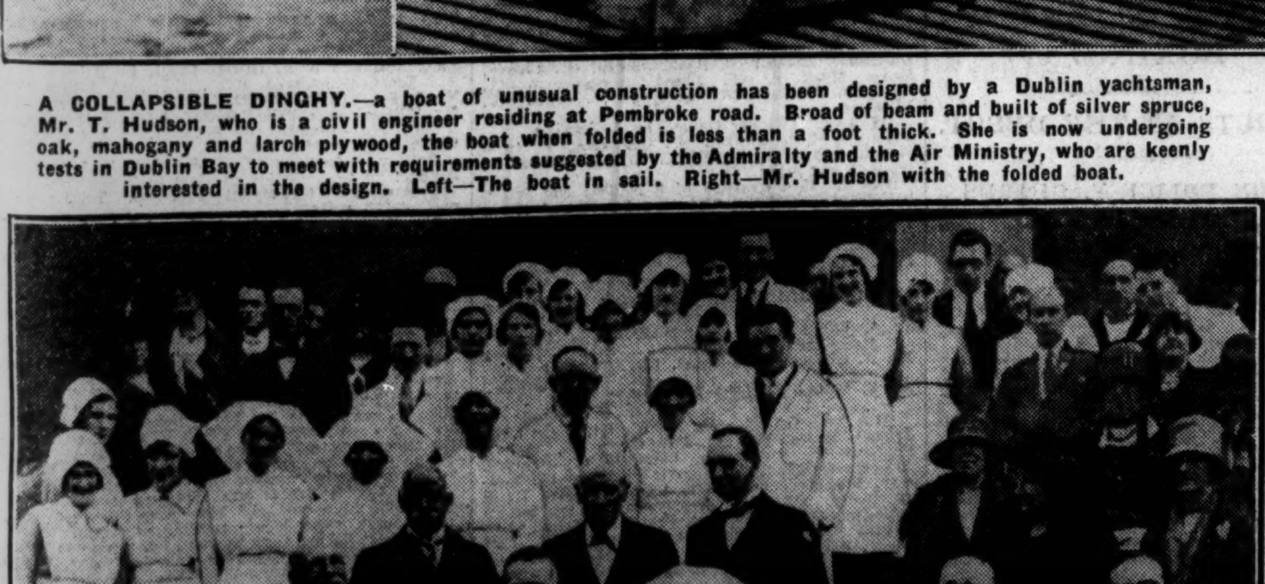
A COLLAPSIBLE DINGHY.—a boat of unusual construction has been designed by a Dublin yachtsman, Mr. T. Hudson, who is a civil engineer residing at Pembroke road. Broad of beam and built of silver spruce, oak, mahogany and larch plywood, the boat when folded is less than a foot thick. She is now undergoing tests in Dublin Bay to meet with requirements suggested by the Admiralty and the Air Ministry, who are keenly interested in the design. Left—The boat in sail. Right—Mr. Hudson with the folded boat.



THE MEATH HOSPITAL.—A photograph taken at the annual general meeting yesterday. Included are:—The Governor-General, the Matron (Miss Gage), Mr. Collis (Chairman), Mr. Warner, Sir John Moore, Mr. P. J. Munden, Dr. O. Robinson, Dr. R. E. Stein, Alderman O'Connor and Dr. Murphy.

STEAMER SINKS OFF THE IRISH COAST.—Last Friday the s.s. Towy, bound from Whitehead with a cargo of coal, ran aground on the rocks at the entrance to Portstewart Harbour, where this photograph was taken. Yesterday the boat, which had been refloated, was being towed to Portrush by a tug, when suddenly and without warning she sank. Her captain and members of the crew were rescued by lifeboat.

PAUL CARET WINS THE CUP.

BUOYANT BACHELOR'S FINE FINISH.

MUSICAL PRINCE AGAIN SECOND.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
NEWBURY, Thursday Night.

Although there was a small field for the Newbury Cup the finish was an exciting one, after Mr. Singer's Paul Caret had appeared to be an easy winner. He did win, and thus atoned for his moderate display in the Manchester Cup, but Mr. Gordon's Buoyant Bachelor produced a rare turn of speed. This game Bachelor's Double horse was under pressure for a long way, and he ran as if he was feeling the hard ground, but he deserved full credit for getting to the winner's head.

I was rather surprised to find Old Orkney doing so well, as the distance was really too short for him, and he pulled out something extra for L. Cordell, and was but a neck behind the second. The disappointment of the race was King's Oven, who looked splendid, but it should be noted that he was carrying 13lb. more than when he won this race twelve months ago.

Three-year-olds do not appeal to me at this time of the year in class handicaps like this, and Noble Star was no exception, and, to make matters less favourable, he had a 5lb. penalty to carry. He did well under the conditions and if he is not asked to do too much in the near future I hope Mr. Nichalls will win a good prize with him in the back-end.

LAWSON'S LUCK.

J. Lawson has had charge of Paul Caret since Mr. Singer bought him for, I think, fifteen hundred guineas after winning a selling race at Newmarket nearly two years ago. Lawson was in better luck to-day, following the second places that Writ and Paradine occupied in their respective races yesterday. Ganga Singh ran well for one that has not been out this year, and the Aga Khan should be credited with a win by this Spion Kop gelding in the future.

This owner ran quite a good sort of colt in Sherab in the Berkshire Foal Plate, and it was thought that he would nearly win, as this company was vastly below what he was meeting at Ascot. He certainly did look like taking this prize until the Prince Galahad—Nectarinia gelding got at him with a furlong to go.

Being backward, and of the gross type, M. Beary wisely did not bring his whip into use, and the race should consequently have done him no harm. St. George was under pressure for most of the way, but he responded very gamely, and Jelliss was able to beat the Nectarinia gelding and Sherab with three-parts of a length to spare.

Sir Lionel Philipps has not been racing for long, but he has been very fortunate with the purchases which Jack Jarvis has made on his behalf. Flamingo and Horus have been good winners for him, and it is a great pity that Horus will not stand training any more.

SHOULD TRAIN ON.

St. George is a sturdy colt, and, being a half-brother to Salmon Trout, he should train on. He was purchased from his breeder, Lord Furness, for 5,000 guineas at Doncaster. Charlwood did not run, as he is slightly amiss, and Martin Hartigan saddled a heavy and backward colt in Manbo instead. This son of Apron requires a lot of time, and, like Heteem, is capable of better things.

Mr. Gant's Merry Orb has bred him several good winners, but I must confess I was disappointed in the Manna colt from this mare. His name is Sordello, and though he was not disgraced in his first appearance, I am afraid he is small and narrow, which does not look like training on into anything out of the way.

Musical Prince is really most unfortunate, and for the third time in succession had to put up with second place. To-day in the Ogbourne Handicap it was Sir Alfred Butt's Lord Marcus who beat him by a head, after he had looked like being the winner.

A GOOD-LOOKING COLT.

Lord Marcus is a really good-looking colt, who won good prizes for his owner last year, and Marcus Marsh turned him out looking as hard as a board. Lord Marcus is, of course, by Beresford, who sires plenty of "good-lookers." The handicappers are still hard on Orbindos, who carried top weight, and it is over two years since he won a race. It is a pity, because the old chap always does his best.

Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen won the All-Aged Selling Plate with Saint Fortunat, who is useful in this class; but he had to go to 600 guineas to retain him. Captain Bell has had numerous seconds, and some of them unlucky; so it is hoped that this win will change his luck.

Redgrave and Woodcraft, who have done well this year, were submitted for sale, but neither made their reserve.

The Apprentices' race was a most exciting affair, when Pentilly, Lesteford and Vanilla came in a line, but Orpenda put up a rare burst of speed in the last fifty yards and beat them all.

SELECTIONS FOR SANDOWN.

At Sandown to-day CEDARWOOD should win the Wellington Handicap if he produces the good form he showed at Ascot, but I fancy there may be a dangerous one in Spagnooleite.

The Claremont Handicap rests between Mallock, Gay Amour and Lulworth Cove, and my choice is GAY AMOUR, who gave such a good display at Bath, when he was backward.

If RAVENSWOOD does not run in the Sandringham Foal Plate my selection is LYNTON.

GALTEE MORE.

SPORTING GOSSIP.

First "Claiming and Selling" Race.

The first "claiming and selling" race is advertised to be run at Newmarket on July 16. This is the Kirtling Claiming and Selling Plate for two-year-olds, and fifteen entries are stipulated for. Horses entered, unless struck out two hours before the time of the race, are liable to be claimed by any person, except the owner, not later than an hour before such time. A claimed horse cannot run in the race. A horse may be claimed for not less than the advertised value of the race, plus the entered selling price. The value of the Kirtling Plate is £200, and the entered selling price the same.

Why Mallock Missed "Pitmen's Derby."

E. Golightly, the trainer of Mallock, states that Mr. E. Gregory's horse missed the Northumberland Plate on Wednesday to run for the Claremont Handicap at Sandown Park to-day, in which race he will be ridden by Gordon Richards.

CURRAGH CONCLUDED.

THREE RACES GO TO THE NORTH.

A HEATH "DOUBLE."

BALLINTOY WINS CHIEF T.Y.O. PRIZE.

The excellent standard of the racing was continued to the end of the meeting, and those English visitors who came across to see the sport cannot but have been impressed with the excellent bill of fare provided for them on all three days. It was generally remarked that the course was in well-nigh perfect condition, and the general arrangements for the comfort and convenience of the big crowd on Derby day could not have been improved upon, all of which reflects credit on Mr. F. Harold Clarke and his able assistants, who look after things at the Irish headquarters of the Turf. The totalisator was again well patronised, and as the outcome of the three days' racing a total of over £8,000 passed through the booths, and it was noted that there was much less confusion and delay over the receiving and drawing of money than was the case at the earlier big meetings, such as Fairyhouse and Punchestown.

Horses from the Heath stable, controlled by Colonel A. J. Blake, took two races—the Tyros Stake and the Curragh Plate. Northern owners had been remarkably successful on the previous two days, and the first success recorded now was also by a sportsman from across the border. This was Mr. C. L. Mackean, whose Ado made short work of the opposition in the Tyros Stakes. Quickly away from the barrier in company with D'Artagnan, he made the earlier running, and, going further away at every stride, won pulling up by eight lengths from Spirituelle, the favourite. He is by Mount Royal out of the Hurry On mare, Flurry, and this was his first race. Later in the day Mr. Mackean scored a further win, when Redglow stalled off the late challenge of Kirkcormac, and won the Curragh Plate. Kirkcormac proved a rare handful for even Joe Canty, and, though given many reminders by the jockey of what was required of him, he ran a sluggish race. Both Mr. Mackean's winners were ridden by E. Quirke.

COL. A. J. BLAKE.

BALLINTOY'S FIRST RACE.

The Waterford Testimonial Stakes, the chief race of the day, was also won by a North of Ireland owner, Major D. Dixon, who, on the opening day, captured two of the chief races with Irish Times and Florence, and, as Mr. Barnett's Bonford also won a race on Tuesday, the success of Northern owners—who really number but a few—was remarkable. Ballintoy's victory was in no small measure due to Joe Canty's riding, the crack jockey having to put forward one of his best efforts to get the better of Song o' My Heart, who carried Count McCormack's colours. Ballintoy, who was bred by Major Dixon, was sent to the Newmarket Sales last year, but was returned without having a bid made for him, and this was his first appearance on a racecourse.

BRISTOL ROCKET DEFIES WEIGHT.

Bristol Rocket proved himself a really good horse when he conceded lumps of weight to Beulah and others in the Summer Plate. Beulah will be remembered as the sensational winner of the Waterford Handicap at the May meeting. For a good part of yesterday's race she looked like repeating this performance, but when John Doyle set Bristol Rocket to tackle her at the turn into the straight, she soon caved in, and thereafter there was no doubt about the result.

That Swift Bird, though he has descended in the equine scale, is yet a force to be reckoned with in a lower class, he proved by beating such as Arlen and others in easy style in the Hamilton Selling Plate. He is now past his best racing days, and when submitted to auction he did not attract a bid. Royal Bazaar and Fairy Flower had a great tussle for the Welter Plate, the former, thanks to the strong riding of T. Burns, just getting home. Details:—

Betting—3 to 1 agst. BALLINTOY, 4 to 1 each Song o' My Heart and Bonus, 6 to 1 each Soluble and Bacchante, 100 to 14 Custodian, 20 to 1 Treminnie, 33 to 1 Broadway Joe, 100 to 1 any other.

Tote (2/- stake)—Win, 4/-; places, 5/-, 3/6, 5/-. Pool totals—Win, 3,408; places, 2,753.

To a good start, Bacchante made the running, in front of Song o' My Heart, Custodian and Soluble, with Treminnie next. At the distance Song o' My Heart drew into the lead, but was challenged by Ballintoy, who retained the lead to win by a neck; three-quarters of a length. Custodian was fourth, Soluble fifth, Broadway Joe sixth, Bonus seventh. Time—62 1-5 secs.

3.45—CURRAGH PLATE of 100 sovs. Second 10 sovs., third 5 sovs. For three years old. 1 m.
Mr. C. L. Mackean's ch. g. REDGLOW, by Soldennis—Roxana, 9-0 ...... E. Quirke 1

Mr. B. M. Slocock's LONG WASTE, 9-0 John Doyle 3
Mr. H. M. Hartigan's Multipoint, 8-10 J. Conlon 0
(Winner trained by Colonel A. J. Blake.)

Betting—7 to 4 on Kirkcormac, 7 to 4 agst. REDGLOW, 20 to 1 Long Waste, 100 to 1 Multipoint.

Tote (2/- stake)—Win, 6/6. Pool total, 1,137.

Redglow led from Multipoint, Long Waste and Kirkcormac, until a couple of furlongs from home, when Kirkcormac took second place, but failed to get on terms with Redglaw, who won by two and a half lengths; same distance separated second and third. Time—1 min. 45 1-5 secs.

4.15—HARRISTOWN (S.) PLATE of 100 sovs. Second 10 sovs., third 5 sovs. Weight for age, etc. 5 f.

Mrs. D. Rogers's Crinoline, 2, 6-9 ...... T. Nash 0
Mr. B. M. Slocock's Vine, 2, 6-9 ......M. Nolan 0
(Winner trained by Owner.)

Betting—5 to 4 agst. SWIFT BIRD, 2 to 1 Arlen, 9 to 2 Battle Bridge, 20 to 1 Ruanbeg, 50 to 1 Vine, 200 to 1 any other.

Tote (2/- stake)—Win, 6/6; places, 3/6, 3/-. Pool totals—Win, 1,687; places, 1,308.

Swift Bird was quickest to begin, with Arlen, Vine, Battle Bridge and Crinoline next, and, coming on from Arlen, Swift Bird won easily by four lengths; one length. Vine was fourth and Ruanbeg fifth. Time—64 2-5 secs.

There was no bid for the winner.

4.45—WELTER HANDICAP of 125 sovs. Second 10 sovs., third 5 sovs. 7 f.

Betting—5 to 4 agst. Fairy Flower, 3 to 1 Puca Orda, 6 to 1 ROYAL BAZAAR, 10 to 1 each Carrick Lass and Over, 33 to 1 Happy Memories, 100 to 1 Yutina.

Tote (2/- stake)—Win, 6/6; places, 3/6, 3/-.

Royal Bazaar made the running from Fairy Flower and Happy Memories, with Over and Yutina next, and, resisting the challenge of Fairy Flower, Royal Bazaar won by a length; three lengths separated second and third. Carrick Lass was fourth and Happy Memories fifth. Time—1 min. 30 3-5 secs.

SANDOWN PARK: PROBABLE STARTERS AND BETTING.

SINGAPORE FANCIED FOR THE FOAL PLATE.

CEDARWOOD'S CHANCE.

The chief event at Sandown Park to-day is the Sandringham Foal Plate, a mile and a quarter race for three-year-olds. With its breeding allowances and penalties it has the appearance of a handicap, and thus we find Walter Raleigh, who has been running in selling plate company, set to give 12lb. to a fancied Manton runner in Lynton. The latter should account for Walter Raleigh, but as he has disappointed in his last two races I shall look elsewhere for the winner. Callonby, the mount of F. Fox, is expected to go close, but I have more fancy for Singapore. Hogg's charge ran unplaced at Ascot behind Christopher Robin, Rustom Pasha and Iliad. He has not the same class to meet here, however, and as he has shown some improvement as a result of his last outing he may be good enough from a speculative point of view.

The Wellington Handicap is likely to prove the most attractive event of the afternoon, and although Teacup is set to give weight away all round I hear that the Whatcombe candidate will not run unbacked. Flute and Pepperminto were winners last time out and are penalised, but, even so, they are not out of it, while the improved Devonie is not a little fancied. Despite the opposition, however, I think Gilpin will supply the winner of this race with Cedarwood, whom most people thought unlucky not to have beaten The Masher in the Granville Stakes at Ascot. He is, I hear, none the worse for that outing, and although I have good accounts of Tetrapodos I look to Cedarwood to confirm the Ascot running with Major Sneyd's horse.

The Claremont Handicap, which commences proceedings, is not the least interesting race. Here I give a confident vote to Brown Tony, who was well backed for the Gold Vase and was very unlucky not to have won.

Claremont Handicap—Brown Tony (nap).
Hampton Selling—Whinnie Brae filly; if absent, Bundaberg.
Sandringham Foal Plate—Singapore.
Wadham Selling—Baldernock.
Wellington Handicap—Cedarwood.
Rookery Maiden—Creme Brulee.

TO-DAY'S DOUBLE.

POLO.

ALL-IRELAND CLUB.

A very one-sided match was played at the All-Ireland Club yesterday, between Wellington and Carnew, the result being a win for the former by 10 goals to nil. The redeeming features were the fine combination of the winners, and the excellent form shown by Mr. Maxwell Arnott, who scored six goals.

They had not long started when Mr. Arnott hit through. He scored a minute later, and early in the second chukkar Mr. Durack put on the third. Then Mr. Arnott scored, and before the change of ponies Herr von Dehn took up a pass from Mr. Arnott and registered the fifth. In the third period Mr. Balding struck the post with a long shot. Before the change Mr. Durack tipped through a good shot by Mr. Balding. They had only just begun the fourth chukkar when Mr. Magee scored and Mr. Arnott put through the eighth. Carnew never pulled well together, and did not look like scoring in this chukkar. In the fifth chukkar Mr. Arnott registered the ninth, which was followed by a goal from Mr. Durack.

Carnew—Mr. M'Grath, Mr. E. S. Slocock, Mr. Howard and Sir Lingard Goulding (alternately) and Captain Winter (back).

Wellington—Herr von Dehn and Mr. Malone (alternately), Mr. Maxwell Arnott and Mr. Magee (alternately), Mr. J. J. Durack, and Mr. Cecil Balding (back).

HAYDOCK PARK.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS

At Haydock Park to-day the Great Central Handicap claims pride of place. Pickering has sent Merton Abbey, and he is fancied to follow up his Doncaster win. Spionella, however, makes most appeal to me, for Peacock's charge is a genuine stayer.

Fiesole should experience no difficulty in winning the June Plate, and Cap-a-Pie may register a nice double for Lord Derby by taking the Lowton Apprentices' Plate.

BIG BOUTS AT THE DEPOT.

LONDON POLICE V. GUARDS TO-NIGHT.

Everything is in readiness at the Guards' Depot, Phœnix Park, for the international tournament which will be held there to-night.

The London Police team arrived yesterday, all fit and well, and the Guards, mindful of the strength of the opposition, have been training assiduously; and are to a man fully tuned up.

Seldom have the Guards, who have been unsparing in their efforts to revive boxing in Ireland, staged such an attractive series of contests as that arranged for this occasion. There will be seven international bouts, and three junior championships of the Force. Titmus, of the London Police, has been described as "the rubber man," but Guard Flanagan carries a very heavy punch, and their meeting should provide a rare set-to. Jackson, a former A.B.A. champion, will meet Guard Murphy, who also held the A.B.A. title, and is the Irish champion, and this should also develop into a rousing affair. In the middles Egan is matched with Guard Chase, and Bone will go into the ring with Guard Cooper.

There is seating accommodation for 8,000, and the first bout is timed for 7.30 sharp.

MOTOR CYCLING.

DONEGAL AND BACK TRIAL.

The annual twenty-four hours' reliability trial of the Dublin and District Motor Cycle and Light Car Club to Donegal and back will start this evening from the Parkgate street Gate of the Phœnix Park at 7 o'clock, when the first of the competitors will be sent away. The others will follow at one minute intervals. The route fixed for the trial is the same as last year, the finishing point being at the Castleknock Gate of the Phœnix Park, where the first of the competitors is due at 9 o'clock on Saturday evening.

Whitsbury cut out the work from Coligny II., Paul Caret, Buoyant Bachelor, Old Orkney, and Ganga Singh, King's Oven being the whipper-in. At the bottom turn Whitsbury was a length in front of Coligny II., who was two lengths ahead of Paul Caret, with Buoyant Bachelor next, three lengths further away, Noble Star and Old Orkney being most conspicuous of the others, of whom King's Oven was still last. Coligny II. headed Whitsbury immediately on turning into the straight, the pair being pursued by Paul Caret and Buoyant Bachelor. Paul Caret dashed to the front a quarter of a mile from the post pressed by Buoyant Bachelor, Old Orkney and Noble Star, and in a great race home Paul Caret held on to his advantage and won by a head; a neck separated second and third. Noble Star was fourth, King's Oven fifth, Ganga Singh sixth, and Whitsbury last. Time—2 mins. 27 4-5 secs.

Draw for places—No. 1 (inside), King's Oven; 2, Paul Caret; 3, Noble Star; 4, Buoyant Bachelor; 5, Ganga Singh; 6, Old Orkney; 7, Whitsbury; 8, Coligny II.

ANGLING.

THE BANN.

The Bann is in fine order. Sea trout are coming in large numbers below the Salmon Leap, on the tideway, and also in the Bay. Rods out did fairly during the spells of cloudy weather. Grilse, too, are coming in and getting up to the middle waters, though still a long way behind normal times. Last Friday night the unusual sight of salmon rolling below Coleraine Bridge was witnessed, nearly fifty fish having been counted. They were grilse resting in the slack water before running upstream. Excellent trout fishing is to be had at Kilrea when the night rise is on. H. Loughrey, a local man, had 20lb. in an evening, and other local rods did well. On the Caronroe water the nets are getting more salmon and grilse, and while they are on the run into the river will be limited. In the small burns of the Bann there has been a deplorable loss of trout, low water giving every facility to poachers and others expert in "ginnling" trout from under the stones.

LOUGH CORRIB.

During the past week, since the change in the weather, the fishing on Lough Corrib has been very good. Previous to that anglers had to resort to trolling, as the conditions were not favourable for dapping. The following catches were made by anglers:— Colonel Galbraith, 4 salmon, weighing 24lb.; Colonel Phillips, 3, weighing 18½lb.; Mr. Cameron, 2, weighing 13½lb.; Mr. Homersham, 1, weighing 6½lb. This has been the best year for peel for a number of years in the Bay. It is expected that, with the rain, there will be a much larger number caught in the coming few weeks. There were also some very good baskets of trout the previous week. The four largest were caught by Mr. Homersham and Mr. Thomson, weighing respectively 10½lb., 9lb., 8lb., and 7½lb.

LAWN TENNIS.

SURPRISES AT WIMBLEDON.

MISS FRY BEATEN BY MME. MATHIEUS.

W. T. TILDEN AND H. TIMMER IN PARTNERSHIP.

At Wimbledon yesterday the championships provided a succession of surprises. One came when Miss E. H. Harvey, the British Wightman Cup player, collapsed in the final set against Mrs. C. G. McIlquham, and had to be assisted off the court by the umpire. Miss Joan Fry and Miss Dorothy Round, Mrs. J. B. Pittman and Miss Gwen Sterry were all defeated, but Great Britain has eight players in the last sixteen in the Women's Singles.

Mme. Mathieu's defeat of Miss Fry by 6-2, 6-1 was further proof that no player stands a chance of going far at Wimbledon unless she possesses a good service. Miss Fry could not win her service games, and the Frenchwoman, who is ranked No. 6 in the world's best ten, hitting the ball hard on the forehand and getting up to the net for the short ones, proceeded to hit the Midlands girl off the court.

Two of the 1929 semi-finalists—Mrs. J. B. Pittman and Miss J. C. Ridley—fought out a testing battle of three vantage sets, and when Miss Ridley walked off a 7-5, 5-7, 7-5 victor, her opponent was almost on the point of collapse.

There were a number of interesting doubles matches, but none furnished a surprise, although Captain Cazalet and J. C. Masterman ran the holders of the American title, J. H. Doeg and G. M. Lott, to fifty games. The new partnership of W. T. Tilden and H. Timmer, the Dutchman, also had a struggle before beating R. Deterding and J. R. Reddall by 6-4, 8-6, 10-8.

AT FITZWILLIAM CLUB.

TOTTENHAM IN FINALS OF THE SINGLES AND DOUBLES.

Good use was made of yesterday's fine weather at Wilton place, and nearly all the events were brought out to the final stage. In the men's championship singles E. A. McGuire and R. E. Tottenham qualified for the final. McGuire lost the first set in the semi-final against T. G. McVeagh, but completely dominating the rest of the play, won the next two sets for the loss of three games. R. E. Tottenham won a long first set against the Irish Davis Cup player, V. Allman Smith, at 10-8, and the latter then retired. V. Allman Smith and R. E. Tottenham qualified to meet D. Plaistowe and T. G. McVeagh in the final of the men's doubles, easily disposing of R. J. Sandys and W. B. E. McCrea. Details:—

ROWING.

TRINITY AT HENLEY.

EXCELLENT TIME RETURNED IN FULL COURSE TRIAL.

Trinity crews did some excellent work on Wednesday and yesterday. Yesterday the eight rowed from start to the barrier with Clare College, Cambridge. Clare got away at the start, but Trinity drew up, and at the Temple had a canvas lead. A strong wind from the Bucks shore upset the Dublin crew and they fell behind again, but spurting well again drew up, and were almost level at the barrier. Both crews then paddled to the 550 mark, from which point they spurted home, the Irishmen winning by a canvas.

Yesterday the eight rowed the full course. Three crews acted as pacers—Sidney Sussex College, Clare College and National Provincial Bank. Trinity went away well and led Sidney by a canvas at the Temple. This advantage they kept, and at the barrier, where Clare College was picked up, Clare went away, but Trinity drew level. Clare, however, again drew away and led half a length at Fawley. Here the National Provincial Bank crew was picked up. The Irishmen were rowing well and continued to get the better of it. At the 550 mark Trinity spurted and held the Bank crew well. In the last few yards a fine dozen by the Dublin crew put them slightly further ahead, and they finished with half a length in hand in excellent time, the best returned by a Trinity crew at Henley for a great number of years.

WATERFORD REGATTA.

Waterford Regatta opened yesterday in favourable weather. Details:—

SUIR CUP (Senior Fours).—1, Cappoquin R.C.; 2, Waterford B.C.; 3, Wexford Harbour. Won by inches.

WATERFORD B.C. CHALLENGE CUP (Junior Fours).—Heat A—1, Wexford Harbour B.C.; 2, Lee R.C. Won by two lengths. Heat B—1, New Ross B.C.; 2, Waterford B.C. A close finish. Final—1, Wexford Harbour B.C.; 2, New Ross B.C. Won by two and a half lengths.

GOFF SHIELD (Maiden Eights)—1, Waterford B.C.; 2, Lee R.C. Won by half a length.

WATERFORD CHALLENGE CUP (Senior Fours)—1, Cork Harbour R.C.; 2, Cork B.C. Won by two lengths.

HARBOUR COMMISSIONERS' CUP (Junior Eights)—1, Lee R.C.; 2, Shandon B.C.

PORTLAIRGE CUP (Maiden Fours)—1, Waterford B.C.; 2, Lee R.C. Won by a canvas.

URBS INTACTA CUP (Senior Eights)—1, Cork B.C.; 2, Wexford Harbour R.C. Won easily by three lengths.

NEW ROSS REGATTA.

[illegible] weather favoured the annual New Ross [illegible] on the Barrow on Wednesday, and excellent sport was enjoyed. There was a [illegible] entry, and close finishes were the rule. The Barrow Cup provided one of the best races of the day. Wexford, from a bad start, made up ground quickly, and taking the lead were never approached. New Ross might have troubled them, but were fouled, and when recovering got into bad water, but put a game struggle to peg back Carrick. Wexford maiden fours were favourites for the Ladies' Challenge Cup, but the result lay between Waterford and Lee. The pair were level coming home, but when Waterford gave them the last dozen Lee cracked up.

An unusual incident marked the close of the proceedings. A race for fishing cots was in progress when one of the boats capsized; one of the crew swam to safety, but the other, R. Brazil, of Tinaranny, who was unable to swim, was drowning when Mr. Sean O'Kennedy, a well-known all-Ireland footballer, jumped in fully clad and rescued the man. Details:—

New Ross B.C. Challenge Cup (senior fours)—Wexford, 1; Cappoquin, 2. Two lengths.

Barrow Challenge Cup (junior fours)—Wexford, 1; New Ross, 2; Carrick-on-Suir, 3; Waterford, 0; Carlow, 0. Three lengths; half a length between second and third.

Ladies' Challenge Cup (maiden fours)—Waterford, 1; Lee, 2; University College, Dublin, 3; Wexford, 0; New Ross, 0; Carrick-on-Suir, 0. Two lengths; four.

Maiden Eights—Waterford, 1; Lee, 2; New Ross, 0. A length and a half.

YACHTING.

THE WATER WAGS.

Coquette ran away with the race for the Captain's Prize on Wednesday, winning in fine style from the second boat, Pansy, and seven others. Pansy, indeed, took a lot of beating; for she hung on to the other all through, and it was only on the last round that Coquette was able to get far enough ahead to feel safe.

The race was sailed over the port course, with the start at 6.38 p.m. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Coquette (winner)—Mr. G. H. Jones	7	34	6
Pansy—Dr. J. H. Stephens	7	36	23
Phyllis—Mr. G. A. Newsom	7	37	51
Mollie—Mr. A. E. Snow	7	41	58

Amyl—Mr. G. Shackleton, jun.	7	43	2
Moosmie—Messrs. Homer and Somerville-Large	7	43	38
Barbara—Dr. J. T. Wigham	7	44	52
Marie Louise—Mr. E. G. Peake	7	45	30

SEAPOINT BOAT CLUB.

This week's evening race for dinghies, for points, was sailed in a puffy westerly breeze over the port course. Five boats were sent away at 7.25 p.m., Cormorant leading Kittiwake, Seamew, Redshank, and Ibis away on a run. Soon afterwards Seamew's mast carried away and put her out of the race. Finish:—

Kittiwake (winner)—Mr. A. McGoogan	8	41	55
Redshank (2nd)—Mr. W. Synnott Glenn	8	44	35
Cormorant (3rd)—Mr. R. S. Baskin	8	45	19
Ibis—Mr. E. G. Peake	8	50	10
Seamew—Mr. W. B. Conyngham	dismasted

HOWTH SAILING CLUB.

Leila followed up her success at the regatta by winning the evening race this week. There were five boats out, amongst the number being Rosemary and Anita, which joined in this series for the first time this season. Zaida got the start, but Mimosa came up upon her, and, although luffed, got through. All the same, Leila took the first mark, and held the lead to the finish, which was timed:—

	H.	M.	S.
Leila (winner)—Mr. W. MacBride	8	15	58
Mimosa (2nd prize)—Mr. R. N. Guinness	8	16	56
Zaida (3rd prize)—Dr. H. H. Poole	8	19	15
Anita—Messrs. Keatinge	8	20	15
Rosemary—Mr. H. D. Pearson	8	20	17

ENTERPRISE BEATS WEETAMOE FOR SECOND TIME.

NEWPORT, RHODE ISLAND, Wednesday.

Enterprise won the Eastern Yacht Club's series of preparatory races for the defence of the America Cup, following up her win yesterday by coming first in the final race to-day. Weetamoe, who won the first of the three races, finished second, and Yankee third. In to-day's race Enterprise, which is the smallest of the four candidates, beat Weetamoe over the 30 miles course by 1 min. 37 secs., and Yankee by 3 mins. 15 secs. Vanitie, Whirlwind, and Resolute finished in the order named.

CRICKET.

LANCS LED BY WORCESTER.

PARKER AGAIN TAKES EIGHT WICKETS.

OXFORD'S BIG SCORE.

The features of yesterday's English cricket were the fine batting displays given by the Universities. Against Notts at Trent Bridge, Oxford, scoring at the rate of nearly 90 runs an hour, led the champions by 296 runs, with an innings completed by both. Moore and Pataudi put on 120 for the second wicket.

Cambridge replied well to the big Surrey total, making 376 for 6, so that with 4 wickets in hand, they require only 40 runs to save the follow-on.

Yorkshire, at Bradford, gained a hollow victory over Somerset, Holmes, Mitchell and Leyland indulging in some very free hitting.

Gloucester defeated Middlesex by eight wickets at Cheltenham, another fine bowling performance by Parker bringing about the result. Parker took 8 wickets for 60, and, altogether in the match had 16 for 109.

Worcestershire led Lancashire on the first innings by 93.

GLOUCESTER BEAT MIDDLESEX.

At Cheltenham yesterday Gloucester gained an eight wickets victory over Middlesex. The Gloucester innings closed for 233, Neale failing to add to his overnight 47. Middlesex in their second innings were dismissed for 142. Parker, who did so well in the first innings, was again to the fore and took eight wickets for 60, making his record for the match 16 for 109. For Middlesex Haig had 6 for 62. Score:—

Middlesex, 134 and 142; Gloucester, 233 and 44 for 2.

BIG WIN FOR YORKSHIRE.

After a game which had provided a long succession of thrills Yorkshire defeated Somerset by 328 runs at Bradford. In an hour no less than 169 runs were scored by Holmes, Mitchell and Leyland, the last-named hitting four 4's off the first over he received, and scoring 69 out of 99 in only thirty-five minutes. He reached 50 in twenty minutes and hit twelve 4's. Holmes and Mitchell made centuries. Holmes scored 102 out of the 219 runs which the first wicket pair added in 145 minutes. He was missed when 88, but made no other mistake, and hit a six and fifteen 4's. Mitchell was unbeaten after batting 3 hours without a mistake, with two 6's and fourteen 4's as chief scoring strokes. In Somerset's second innings Bowes had 5 wickets for 40 and Deans 4 for 16. Score:—

Yorks—186 and 318 for 1, declared (Holmes 102, Mitchell not out 130, Leyland not out 69).

Somerset—43 and 133.

SCHOOLS CUP FINAL.

The final of the Leinster Senior Schools' Cup was continued yesterday at St. Andrew's ground, Stillorgan road. By the good batting of W. Walker and D. Barclay, Masonic School compiled 141 in their first venture, and Sandford Park lost one wicket for 9. Resuming, C. Mellon and G. M. Sterling made a stand. At 45 the latter was bowled by Christie for 18 (2 fours). At 75 Cope fell to a good catch at cover, when 14, and Pilkington went at 92 for 10. Despite bowling changes Mellon continued to score steadily, and sent up the 100 with two boundaries to square leg off Myles. When stumps were drawn, Sandford Park, with 8 wickets down, were only two runs behind, Mellon being not out 51, after a stay of over three hours. Play will be continued this morning at 10.30. GREYHOUND RACING.

HAROLD'S CROSS PARK.

There were exciting finishes last night at Harold's Cross Park, where a most interesting programme was featured by the second heat of the Open Sweepstake. It was won by Coolest, but he had to go all out, and it was only by half a length that he got up to beat Bold Irregular, who was going a fine bat in the straight.

Barney Kilyle, the winner of the Connaught Plate, had only a short head to spare over Irish Joker, while only a head separated Terrible Turk, the winner (and favourite) of the Liffey Plate, from Higher Rocket.

Rathganly proved his consistency by winning the Metropolitan Hurdle, while Keash Hill, the outsider, won the Midland Hurdle. Whatever, with odds laid on, justified his favouritism in the Munster Plate, a race of 600 yards.

OPEN SWEEPSTAKE.—Second Heat—Mr. J. Cooley's f. b. COOLEST (5) (Kilmore Boy—Permanent Wave), 6/1, 1; Mr. J. O'Reilly's BOLD IRREGULAR, 6/1, 2. Also ran:—Jealous Frank (4), 8/1; Skinassey (1), 8/1; Entangler (6), 4/1; Twilight Gossip (2), 5/4. Half a length. 31.48 secs.

ULSTER PLATE.—Mr. P. McMahon's bd. d. WINSOME AND WELL (1) (White Fox—Tourkeel), 3/1, 1; Mr. L. Masterson's POOR TOM (6) 6/1, 2. Also ran:—Black Joker (4), 4/1; Getting Ready (3), 6/4; Monkey Doodle (5), 4/1; Moyfeigher Lass (2), 6/1. Six lengths. 31 secs.

BELFAST ELECTRICITY STATION.

A PROFIT OF £220,876.

The annual report of the Belfast City Electrical Engineer (Mr. F. H. Whysall) was presented yesterday to a special meeting of the Corporation Electricity Committee. The report showed that the year ended 31st March, 1930, with a working profit of £220,876 10s.

The Chairman, Alderman Major Hall Thompson, who presided, said it was the first time in the history of the undertaking that working costs were so low, these being less than a halfpenny per unit. This compared with the foremost electricity undertakings in the kingdom. With reference to the question of coal consumption, Major Hall Thompson stressed the fact that they had now attained the best possible results. In other words, they had reached bedrock.

Last year's increase in output amounted to 15.3 per cent. on the whole undertaking, but when these figures were analysed they discovered the very remarkable increase of 26 per cent. in domestic supplies.

On the question of charges, the Chairman pointed out that the benefits to consumers derived from reductions in tariffs last year represented an aggregate of £17,500 per annum. These and discount concessions were very substantial, and bearing them in mind the net profits of the concern were all the more noteworthy.

It was not proposed to make any changes in the flat rates, which were economically sound and offered very generous terms to the short hour consumer. In the case of other consumers, reductions would be made approximating to a total of £10,000.

DOG SHOW AT FOXROCK.

To-morrow a picnic dog show will be held at Carrickbyrne, Foxrock, by permission of Sir William and Lady de Courcy Wheeler. A strong entry has been received, and an interesting interlude will be a display by Mr. Stanley Porter's famous Alsatian, "Keeper of the Door." There will also be flower and country produce stalls. The show will be open from 11 o'clock to 6 o'clock.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN STAGNATION DEEPENS.

GUINNESS STRONG AGAIN.

There was very marked stagnation on 'Change yesterday, and whole sections of securities were passed over with scarcely an attempt at dealing. Under such circumstances, it is not easy to indicate the tone and trend of prices, but, so far as could be gathered from the limited scope of dealing, local securities were still more or less wanted. The scarcity of supplies prevents business, and orders to purchase often wait weeks or longer to square requirements. The outstanding point of interest at the moment is the sharp upward swing in the market price of Guinness Units, which had recently been banged down under 100s. from 110s., to which the market had been previously lifted on the great increase in local and export trade indicated by published returns. Forced English and American sales of Courtauld Shares continue to disturb the market. Government National Loans were firm all day, and British Funds closed steady. Banking securities closed rather harder, in a limited market. The Distillers' final dividend statement shows increased earnings, without disturbing the already satisfactory dividend paid, and naturally reserves, etc., benefit. British and Irish Steam Pref. are marked ex the July dividend payment. Rail Ord. improved, but Great Southern Debs. were a full point lower, and the 7 per cent. Debs. were sold at 95 x.d. Cork Electric Supply Debs. moved up a further four points. Courtaulds fell on forced selling to 40s. 9d. Dunlops and Chemicals were dull. Irish Times Pref. and Lever Bros. Pref. were lower, but Unilevers were much firmer.

LONDON GENERALLY FIRM.

BRITISH FUNDS ADVANCE.

Principal attention in the London Stock Markets yesterday was directed to the final adjustment of the settlement, and this gave markets a busy appearance during the early hours. The volume of actual business transacted, however, was on the small side, but the general tendency was favourable, under the influence of the better tone manifest on Wall street overnight. British Funds met a moderate request, and this was reflected in values, the few movements recorded being in the upward direction. Foreign Government stocks remained in a neglected condition, but, apart from Peruvian Corporation Ordinary, which lost a point to 7, the closing rates were much the same as previously. Despite the unfavourable traffic returns announced on Wednesday, Home Rails displayed a decidedly firmer front, and several of the leaders closed at an advance. Colonial and Foreign Rails were also in better fettle. San Paulo Ordinary, however, provided a dull feature, finishing 3 points lower to 169½. Dealings in the Industrial sections, in common with other departments, remained on a rather restricted scale, but firmer conditions were apparent, and at the close some appreciable improvements were scored. The International descriptions provided one of the best markets, following the late rally in Wall street overnight.

DUBLIN BUSINESS DONE.

OIL PRODUCTION.

Service Petroleum Company.—Production from the company's oil wells at Gura Ocnitzei, Ceptura, and Moreni for the week ended 22nd inst., 28,378 barrels.

INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

GENERAL TENDENCY UNDECIDED.

WARING AND GILLOWS RALLY.

Although a rather better feeling developed in the Industrial market yesterday, a certain amount of hesitation was still noticeable in places. Trans-Atlantic issues were swayed by Wall street tendencies, finishing firm in the late "street" dealings. Brazilian Traction Common were finally 42 after 40⅞, Hydro-Electrics gained 1¾ at 39½, and Radio Corporation 1½ at 37½, the last-named after dipping at one time to 35½.

Columbia Graphophones gathered fresh strength, the final quote of 3 15/16 leaving them 1/16 to the good. H.M.V.'s were just the turn harder at 3 1/16.

Cables and Wireless stocks continued on the dull side, the "A" Ord. closing at 36 and the "B" at 16. Canadian Marconis gave way further to 18s. 9d.

Electricals showed little variation, being quietly steady on the whole.

In the Shipping group, White Star Pref. came on offer, following the announcement regarding the half-yearly dividend published yesterday. The shares were sold down to 9s., and finished with a loss of 1s. 9d. at 9s 6d. ex-dividend. The decision with regard to the Royal Mail Pref. dividends caused no surprise, and there was a little alteration in the various issues. The Ord. stock was dealt in at 19, the 5 p.c. Pref. stock at 25, and the 6½ p.c. Pref. stock at 20.

Among Banks, Canadian of Commerce at 60½ and Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking at 104½ were both scaled down a point.

Breweries generally maintained a fairly firm front. Guinness met with further inquiry and finished buyers at 105s. 6d., with Ind Coope Ord. in request at 63s. and Hoare Ord. at 66. Watney Defd. reacted to 63s., Bass Ord. eased to 65s. and Distillers to 66s. 9d. Tobaccos moved within narrow limits.

Waring and Gillows had a steadier appearance and regained 1s. 3d. to 25s. 7½d.

Unilevers had purchasers and recovered 1/16 to 2 11/16, and the new Ordinaries improved to 8s. International Teas put on 3d. to 23s. 9d., with Maypole Deferred the turn lower at 5s. 6d. Scribbans Ordinary attracted attention around 15s. 6d.

Moderate support was forthcoming from the North for some of the Textile issues. English Sewing Cotton recovered 1/16 to 1 11/16, and Patons and Baldwins rallied 1s. to 17s. 3d.; J. and P. Coats steadied to 57s. 6d., ex the bonus, with Bleachers dealt in ex the dividend. Slubbers, however, were a dull spot at 4s. 6d.

Rayons remained out of favour, Courtaulds being on offer around 2 1/16, American Celanese Common at 3¾, and British Celanese Ordinary at 12s. 6d.

United Molasses were in request, and were soon changing hands above the £3 mark, leaving off ⅛ better on balance at 3 1/16, after being 3⅛. Kreuger and Toll partly recovered Wednesday's loss at 26⅞, and Swedish Match strengthened to 14 15/16. Dunlops gained the turn at 11s. 4½d. Inveresks shed 6d. to 4s. 6d.

RECENT ISSUE DEALINGS.

There was very little alteration in this section. Courage and Co. Debs. hardened fractionally to ⅝ prem., and Tate and Lyle Debs. held at 102½.

OIL SHARES QUIET.

Business in Oil shares yesterday remained on a small scale, but, so far as the leading counters were concerned, a satisfactory tendency continued to prevail. The only really weak spot was Trinidad Leaseholds, of which forced liquidation was in progress, and the shares being offered on an unwilling market the price declined. Other Trinidad issues became dull in sympathy. A steady demand existed for Shells, while, among other leading counters, Royal Dutch, Anglo-Persians and Burmahs were all being picked up quietly. The Eagle issues strengthened slightly, although transactions in them were not of much importance. Among Miscellaneous descriptions, a partial recovery was made in Attocks, while there were buyers about of Anglo-Egyptian "B."

RUBBER SHARES QUIET.

Interest remained on a quiet scale in the Rubber Share Market, and, although the higher values reached in the commodity market on the previous day were held, the forward movement noticeable in the share section on Wednesday was not carried on, and for the most part the overnight levels were repeated. In the raw material section spot and July sold 6⅛d. per lb., while September fetched 6¼d. per lb., and October to December 6 7/16d. to 6⅝d. per lb. It is expected that London stocks of the raw material on Monday next will show an increase of some 800 tons, but Liverpool stocks, it is anticipated, will be about the same as on Monday last.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

BELL AND COMPANY.—Interim dividend declared on Ord. Shares of 2½ per cent. (Same.)

BRITISH OXYGEN.—A dividend of 1/3 per share, less tax, making a total of 2/-, or 10 per cent., less tax. (Same.)

COLDSTREAM INVESTMENT.—Interim dividend of 2 per cent. actual, less tax, on Ord. Shares.

CONSOLIDATED AFRICAN SELECTION.—Interim dividend declared of 1/9 per share, against 2/3 per share at this time last year, less tax at 3/6 in the £ in respect of six months ending June 30; also accumulated Dominion income tax relief due in respect of past dividends, Nos. 1-7, to shareholders who received such dividends. Amounts receivable by such shareholders in respect of this relief aggregate approximately to 5½d. per share.

CEYLON UPCOUNTRY TEA ESTATES.—A dividend of 25 per cent. on Ord. Shares, less tax. (Same.)

DOOARS TEA.—A final dividend of 16¼ per cent., making a total distribution of 18¾ per cent. for the year; £20,932 forward. (Last year 10 per cent.)

DISTILLERS CO.—2/6 per share on Ordinary shares, £500,000 to reserve, £20,000 to fire reserve, £4,965 to superannuation, and £269,635 forward. The dividend and reserve allocation was the same a year ago, when £5,000 was available for fire account and £227,990 carried forward.

ECLIPSE SHIPPING.—Dividend of 2½ per cent., less tax, for last financial year. (Same.)

EMPIRE OF INDIA AND CEYLON TEA.—A final dividend of 7½ per cent., making a total distribution of 10 per cent. for year; £28,128 forward. (Last year 18¾ per cent.)

HOARE & CO.—Final dividend of 14 per cent., making 23 per cent. for the year ended 18th April, 1930, subject to audit (against 22 per cent for the previous year).

H. WARE & CO.—Final dividend of 14 per cent., making 23 per cent. for the year ended 18th April, 1930.

ILLINGWORTH, MORRIS & CO.—The directors regret that owing to continued depression in the textile trade and the further fall in value of raw materials during the year, the trading profits of the subsidiary and associated companies are insufficient to allow for the resumption of dividend payments. Dividends on the Preference shares being more than six months in arrear, holders of these shares are entitled to attend and vote at the annual general meeting of shareholders. Profit and loss account shows balance brought forward from previous year £7,400. Dividends, free of tax, have been received from the subsidiary companies amounting to £57,767, making a total of £65,168, from which is to be deducted debenture interest and bank charges £58,702, leaving a credit balance to be carried forward of £6,465. Mr. Robert Moreland, secretary of the company, has been appointed a director, and shareholders will be recommended to confirm his appointment at the forthcoming annual meeting on 4th July.

KENSINGTON AND KNIGHTSBRIDGE ELECTRIC LIGHTING CO.—Interim dividend of 9d. per share, less tax, on the Ordinary Shares. (Same.)

MOUNT AUSTIN (JOHORE) RUBBER.—Dividend of 5 per cent., less tax; £39,585 forward. (Last year 6 per cent.)

MANCHESTER DRY DOCKS.—Ord. dividend of 7½ per cent. (same), and £12,325 carried forward, against £11,887.

MASHONALAND RAILWAY.—Gross revenue of the Mashonaland Railway for the year ended September 30, 1929, amounted to £1,780,732, against £1,692,379 in the previous year, and the surplus was £703,341, compared with £658,952. Net revenue account for the year shows a credit balance of £243,650, which has been placed to reserve account, making the total reserve £578,461. Approximate figures for the first six months of the current year show that gross revenue was £872,867, and the surplus £244,134.

NORTHERN SECURITIES TRUST.—Interim dividend at rate of 6 per cent. per annum on Ord. Stock, less tax. (Same.)

OREGON MORTGAGE CO.—Dividend for half year to 31st May at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, less tax, making 8 per cent for the year.

RHODESIA RAILWAYS.—Gross revenue of the Rhodesia Railways during the year to 30th September last shows an increase of £139,275 over the previous year. This, states the report, was chiefly due to the importation of machinery, plant and stores for the copper mines in Northern Rhodesia and the Belgian Congo. The increased revenue was obtained with an additional expenditure of £4,716, and the net earnings of £1,063,211 were, therefore, £134,559 higher than in 1928. The actual net profit worked out at £560,777, as against £411,626. Under the Railway Act, £196,995 goes to dividend account and £363,782 to reserve, making the latter £954,852. The directors recommend payment of a dividend of £197,000 (less tax), as against £16-,600 for the previous year, when £247,013 was placed to reserve.

RESIDENTIAL PROPERTIES IMPROVEMENT.—Dividend for year ending December 31, 1929, at rate of 3 per cent. on Ord. Shares, against 8 per cent. for 1928.

SECOND CONSOLIDATED TRUST.—Final dividend of 6 per cent. actual, less tax, on Ordinary, making 9 per cent. for the year ended 15th June, 1930.

SOUTH KALGURLI CONSOLIDATED.—A final dividend of 1/6 a share (15 per cent.), less tax, making 25 per cent. (Same.)

STANDARD TRUST.—Dividends of 2¾ per cent. on 5½ per cent. Cum. Pref. Stock and 4 per cent. on Ord. Stock, both less tax.

TIMBANG-DELI (SUMATRA) RUBBER.—A first and final dividend of 2½ per cent., less tax, against 5 per cent. for year ended March 31, 1930.

TIMBER FIREPROOFING.—Dividend of 8 per cent., less tax, against 6¼ per cent., tax free; forward £890.

LONDON "STREET" MARKET.

Quiet conditions prevailed in the "street" last evening. The general tendency was slightly harder. Brazilian Tractions were bid for at 41¾, and Radio Corps. advanced to 36⅝. Nickels were better at 25, and Hydros changed hands around 39¼. Columbias and H.M.V. were steadily maintained.

LONDON MINING MARKET BETTER INCLINED.

TIN SHARES STILL DEPRESSED.

Mines could boast no great improvement in the volume of trading yesterday, but here and there firmer conditions were apparent. As regards Kaffirs, Paris was a buyer of some of its favourites, and the Cape was also supporting one or two specialities, so that on balance the improvements, though far from numerous, outnumbered the declines. In the Rhodesian department the low level to which the Northern issues had declined on the preceding day brought in buyers, and the demand of the early hours induced "bears" to cover. Prices consequently went ahead, but when such demand had been met and fresh inquiries became scarce quotations weakened, though still closing higher on the day. Despite the announcement of the proposed restriction of output, which involves a complete stoppage for two months, the price of tin was depressed, falling £3 5s. to £136 17s. 6d. per ton. The Share market was still very uncertain, and in the almost entire absence of public interest dealers deemed it prudent either to leave the market to itself or to lower quotations fractionally as a precautionary measure. The price of copper advanced 17s. 6d. to £49 8s. 9d. per ton, and the Share market was harder. Elsewhere Burma Corporation were dull on the fall in silver, but one or two of the Mexican were better, and Minerals Separation and Panama Corporation were a harder market. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

SUBSTANTIAL LOSSES TO BE MET ON PAY DAY.

Members of the Stock Exchange met yesterday with the result of the settlement uppermost in their minds. It was pay day, when differences had to be met on speculative transactions, and the account to be settled had run for twenty-one days instead of the normal fourteen days. This, coupled with the depression prevailing in Stock Exchange markets, resulted in relatively heavy losses on stocks and shares, and rumours were current last week that some firms might have difficulty in fulfilling their engagements. In so far as they concerned houses outside the Stock Exchange, these reports of financial trouble persisted in one or two cases, but the Stock Exchange believes that there is little fear of serious trouble coming to light. Speculative activity has recently been much reduced, and those who have made losses have had ample time in which to make the necessary financial arrangements.

NO DIFFICULTIES DISCLOSED.

Pay day passed without any financial difficulties coming to light. As far as the House itself was concerned, this was entirely in accordance with anticipations, but some doubt had been felt as to all outside quarters being able to meet their engagements in view of the heavy decline in prices since the last settlement. Relief that the settlement was out of the way was shown by the generally firmer tendency of prices, which were slightly better in most departments, despite a continued absence of business.

COURTAULDS.

Yesterday business was officially recorded in Courtaulds shares at 40s. 3d., which represents the lowest figure touched since the Ordinary capital was duplicated in 1928. Compared with the best price touched in that year, the market depreciation in these shares is approximately £60,000,000. The recent decline is attributed to liquidation, and to the sale of a large line of shares for the purpose of paying death duties. The weakness naturally accentuates the uncertainty regarding the next interim dividend; for it is doubted whether the previous figure of 4 per cent., tax free, will be maintained. Some operators profess to expect that it be paid less tax on the next occasion, while there was talk yesterday of the dividend being passed. Estimates must be guesswork, and possibly the directors may be influenced by trade indications when the time comes for reaching a decision. Last year the interim dividend was announced on July 12.

FIFE TRAMWAY LIGHT AND POWER COMPANY.

The directors yesterday resolved to call a meeting of shareholders to authorise the repayment of the Preference share capital to holders of the 500,000 6 per Cent. Cumulative Preference shares.

BANK RATE UNCHANGED.

The directors of the Bank of England, at their meeting yesterday, decided to make no change in the Bank rate, which stands at 3 per cent.

LANCASHIRE COTTON CORPORATION.

The Lancashire Cotton Corporation, Ltd., at a meeting yesterday authorised a further increase of capital by £115,800, divided into £107,000 Ordinary Shares and £8,800 in Deferred Shares, for the purpose of absorbing the following three companies when the legal proceedings are complete: Bagley and Wright Manufacturing Company (1919), Ltd., Oldham; Albion Mill, Great Harwood, Ltd., Great Harwood; Thomas Rhodes and Son, Hadfield, Ltd., Hadfield. The shares will be allotted to creditors and shareholders as soon as the liquidators of the several companies have completed their figures. The companies concerned possess 279,664 spindles. Including this increase, the capital of the Corporation consists of 190,619 Preference Shares, 2,834,000 Ordinary Shares, and 10,574,440 Deferred Shares, totalling £3,553,741. The Corporation has opened an office at the Royal Exchange, Manchester, this week, for the purpose of maintaining closer contact with buyers and sellers.

AUSTRALIAN GOLD.

Mr. James Scullin, the Commonwealth Prime Minister, has promised to give the Gold Bonus Delegation's request his consideration. Speakers in support of the bonus included the former Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, Mr. Munsie, an ex-Westralian Minister of Mines, Mr. Stanfield, representative of the Victorian Chamber of Mines, Mr. Baragwanath, representing the Victorian State Government, and Mr. Bolton, representing the Associated Chambers of Manufactures.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE FIGURES.

It is officially stated that the total values of the goods imported into Australia during April, 1930, were £8,907,938. Exports, comprising Australian produce, £9,568,160, and other produce £198,522, were £9,761,682, showing an excess of exports over imports of £853,744.

RUBBER PRODUCTION.

The Rubber Growers' Association announce that at a meeting of the British-Dutch Liaison Committee, held in London yesterday, complete agreement was reached on certain recommendations, which will be immediately submitted to their respective associations.

CONSOLIDATED GOLDFIELDS OF SOUTH AFRICA.

The directors of the Consolidated Goldfields of South Africa, Ltd., and New Consolidated Goldfields, Ltd., announce that owing to pressure of business, necessitating frequent absence from England, Count L. A. G. Dru has resigned his position as a director of both companies, and that Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, M.P., the Hon. M. H. Knatchbull, and Mr. J. H. C. E. Howeson have been appointed directors of both companies. Count Dru retains his seat on the Board of Goldfields American Development Company, Ltd.

COVENTRY CHAIN AND RENOLD.

A provisional agreement has been executed with a view to the co-ordination of the interests of the Coventry Chain Co., Ltd., and Hans Renold, Ltd. Full details of the scheme are to be communicated to the shareholders as soon as possible.

DUFFIELD IRON.

By a resolution of the directors of the Duffield Iron Corporation, passed June 23, a call of 5s. per share was made on all the Preference Shares, payable on July 24 next. The authorised and issued Preference capital is £100,000 in 7½ per Cent. Cumulative Shares of £1 each with 10s. paid, so that the call now made will make the shares 15s. paid, and represents £25,000 new money. There is also £150,000 in 3,000,000 fully-paid Ordinary Shares of 1s. each. The company, which was registered in 1928, was formed to prove and develop commercially the Duffield processes for reduction of ores.

COMMUNICATIONS OF EMPIRE.

Sir Basil Blackett, Chairman of the Imperial and International Communications, Ltd., addressed a private meeting of the Conservative Imperial Affairs Committee, of which Lord Stanley is Chairman, and Captain Peter MacDonald, Secretary, at the House of Commons yesterday evening. Mr. A. A. Somerville presided over about twenty members. Sir Basil emphasised the imperial character of the company, and insisted on the importance of treating it and its associates as a single organisation working in co-operation with the Governments of the Empire to secure for the Empire as a whole the maximum possible facilities at the lowest possible charges, consistent with efficiency and a reasonable return on capital. He mentioned that at present the company pays to various Governments a considerable sum, which was a direct tax on the Communications of the Empire.

METROPOLE INDUSTRIES BOARD.

An important notice has just been issued to the shareholders of Metropole Industries, Ltd., by the managing director. It intimates that requisitions have been received from substantial shareholders requiring the company to call an extraordinary meeting at which new resolutions will be proposed to remove from the board the Marquis of Winchester, Sir Godfrey B. H. Fell, and Mr. H. J. Bruce. The meeting has been called for July 3rd, at 11 a.m., at River Plate House, London.

ILLINGWORTH, MORRIS AND CO.

The directors state that owing to the continued depression in the textile trade and the further fall in the value of raw materials during the year, the trading profits of the subsidiary and associated companies are insufficient to allow for the resumption of dividend payments. A credit balance of £6,466 is carried forward.

PINCHIN, JOHNSON AND TORBAY CO.

It is announced by the directors of the Torbay Paint Company that the directors have been negotiating with Pinchin Johnson and Co. for the sale of all the Ordinary shares of the Torbay Company, which are not at present registered in the names of Pinchin Johnson or its nominees, and an offer has now been received from the latter for the purchase of these shares. For every five Ordinary shares the Torbay Company have been offered six Ordinary shares of 10s. each of Pinchin Johnson, credited as fully paid up. If the total amount of shares to be allotted includes a fraction, payment for the fraction will be made in cash at the rate of £2 2s. 6d. per share of Pinchin Johnson.

YAM SENG RUBBER COMPANY.

THE LOW PRICE OF RUBBER.

Mr. W. S. Hayes presided at the annual meeting of the shareholders in the Yam Seng Rubber Co. yesterday, in their office, Stock Exchange Buildings, Dublin. The other directors present were:—Messrs. Rupert McC. Dillon, J. Hugh Wilson, W. D. Hutchinson and J. G. C. Leech.

The Chairman, moving the adoption of the report for the year ending 31st March, 1930, said that the sales of rubber during the year amounted to £28,956, as compared with £34,401 for the previous year, the reduction being being due to the fall in price. The quantity harvested was 800,000 lb. The cost of upkeep, freight, insurance and sale expenses amounted to £17,156, as against £18,018 during the previous year. There had been a saving of £307 in home-office expenses and directors' fees, and £500 in income tax, thus giving the net result of a profit of £8,144, as against £12,331 for the year ended March 31st, 1929. The capital value of the estate was £82,390, as against £81,260 in the previous year. Stock in hand, on a conservative valuation well under present market price, was returned at £3,075, as against £3,959 last year, and investments had increased from £38,228 to £40,482, all represented by trustee securities, the value of which at the price of the day is substantially in excess of the book value. Sundry debtors were reduced from £3,935 to £1,302, and the cash on hands was £2,497, as against £6,278. There is a reserve fund of £23,077. Adding the sum brought forward from last year's account—£10,348—to the profit of £8,144 this year the total was £18,492, out of which the directors recommended a dividend of 10 per cent., less income tax. There would remain £10,060 to carry forward. The estate of 2,207 acres was being administered economically and well under the management of Mr. Howard.

Mr. Leech seconded the motion, and it was adopted.

Messrs. Wilson and Hutchinson, who retired by [illegible] appointed auditors.

COMPANY MEETINGS.

WHITE, TOMKINS COURAGE, LIMITED.

SUCCESSFUL WORKING DURING DIFFICULT PERIOD.

ANNUAL MEETING IN LONDON.

An encouraging report and financial state ment were presented to the shareholders the thirty-fourth annual general meeting White, Tomkins and Courage, Ltd., at the Cannon Street Hotel, London, yesterday.

The Chairman of the Board, Sir Ernest Meinertzhagen, presided, and the other directors—Mr. Robert Clyde (managing direc General Sir Archibald J. Murray, Reginald Mortimer, Mr. J. Frederick W and Mr Cutler A. Jones were present.

The directors recommended the payment a dividend of ten per cent. per annum income tax) on the Ordinary shares, and carrying forward of £33,161.

Moving the adoption of the report statement of accounts, Sir Ernest Meiner hagen observed that, although the net pro were lower by some £2,600, the direc had again been able to recommend a ten p cent. dividend, and slightly increase amount to be carried forward. He recall the reference he made last year to the di culties they had to contend with in con quence of the erratic state of the m market, and the fact that prices had b maintained at an abnormally high le throughout most of that year.

"The outstanding feature of the followi year—that covered by this report," contin Sir Ernest, "has been the almost unpreceden decline in prices in the grain mark amounting in the case of maize to a drop more than forty per cent. When it is membered that we have to maintain consid able stocks of maize, you can imagine h greatly such a state of things added to difficulties, and to the risks attending purchase of maize and the anxieties of th responsible for it." He reminded the shar holders that it had caused at least one gr company to report substantial losses, a that similar difficulties had confronted th in handling other commodities.

"In view of the special difficulties I ha mentioned," he went on, "and the gener depression in the industrial world, I hope will agree that we can congratulate ourselv on the results we are able to show, a that it was only just to those who manag our business that I should refer to what th have had to contend with, and that th rather remarkable achievement for which th are responsible should be recorded a appreciated."

Sir Ernest said there was no doubt tha their policy of not putting all their eggs int one basket had been of assistance in enablin them to set off the good results of one d partment against those of another not successful. He referred to a new line of business—the manufacture of invert suga and said that as the factory had only be working for a few months, the exact resul could not be ascertained, although the out look was bright and hopeful."

"As to the general trading prospects fo the current year," he added, "I should sa it is even more difficult to prophesy tha usual. Uncertainty is the outstandin feature of the present situation, whic is bad for every form of industr but as regards our own company it is dif cult to see how things can be worse tha they have been. Compared with last yea we are now on a much lower level of value so the likelihood of losses through stocks d preciating is greatly minimised.

"The financial position of our company strong, and our policy of manufacturing an supplying nothing but articles of the be quality, and never allowing that quality deteriorate under any circumstances, ha enabled us to hold any markets we hav captured, and has given us a high reput tion for reliability."

The report and accounts were approved.

The meeting closed with a vote of than and appreciation to the directors and sta proposed by Mr. T. Binstead and seconde by Mr. F. J. Holland, of Belfast.

SCRIBBANS & COMPANY.

A SATISFACTORY YEAR—PRODUCTS IN INCREASED DEMAND.

MULTIPLE SHOP MERGERS.

MR. PHILIP E. HILL'S STATEMENT.

The third annual general meeting Scribbans and Company, Ltd., was held ye terday at the Hotel Victoria, London, W.C.

Mr. Philip E. Hill (the Chairman of th company), who presided, said that th profit for the year of £284,410, which i cluded nine months' profit on the investme in the biscuit business and £5,967 net pro on sale of investments, after deducting depr ciation, showed an increase over the previo year of £63,536. It was proposed to writ off the balance of preliminary expense amounting to £92,650, to place £35,000 the credit of development account, and pay final dividends on the Ordinary shar and Deferred shares at the rate of 8 per cen per annum and 22⅝ per cent. per annu bringing the total distribution for the ye to 7 per cent. and 19 1/16 per cent. respectivel carrying forward £17,894. The new works Ireland had been completed, and the busine showed a satisfactory return, and the ne biscuit works of the subsidiary would be full working order before the end of the yea

Considerable cuts in the prices charged the multiple shop companies, to enable the successfully to combat competition, had r duced the profits of the company from th section of the business. The Board had, ho ever, increased the number of the compan lines, and had opened a large number of n accounts, and, being satisfied that an incre ing demand for their products existed, h decided to extend the present factory a plant. The biscuit business was also p gressing satisfactorily, and undoubtedly p sessed scope for expansion.

The allocation of the profits proposed in cated that, as against a dividend distribut of £124,666, the sum of £109,264 was be retained in the business, and he might m tion that during the past three years the s of £185,000 had been written off in respect preliminary expenses, in addition to creati the development account of £35,000 alread referred to.

Generally the business was in a muc sounder condition to-day than a year ag the linking of cakes and biscuits had prove a wise policy, and the decision to increa the number of the company's products shoul add additional strength. While the outlo was difficult, their business for the prese year had so far been well maintained. Pr fitable expansion appeared possible, and, the company supplied the public with che and excellent food commodities, it was onl reasonable to assume that they would do well as most, if not better than other peopl

On the question of possible future merg of multiple shop firms and the possible eff on their business, he would say that the pr at which they were supplying the multi shops was a very cut one. He doubted those companies who were working their o cakes and biscuits would find on investigati that they were producing the same quali article at a price equal to Scribbans, and was hopeful that if the proposed merge materialised it might be possible for the co pany to make contracts for supply. Assum ing that the acid test of such an agreeme was quality and price, he did not fear th issue.

The report and accounts were unanimousl adopted.

Mr. L. A. Byrne has been appointed junio Treasury counsel at the Old Bailey. vacancy in the list of Treasury counsel been caused by the death of Mr. H [illegible], one of the seniors on the list. [illegible] admitted a member of the B April, 1915.

BANK OF ENGLAND RETURN.

The extent of the market's borrowing from Bank of England is revealed in this ek's Bank return by a rise of £8,800,370 in counts and advances, which stand at 5,899,161, as compared with £26,987,712 at corresponding period in 1929. Govern- nt securities have risen by £2,380,000 to 8,855,547, but other securities have fallen £1,500,422 to £15,340,231. Public de- sits at £21,504,850 show a rise on the week £4,927,240, a movement which is probably to an excess of Treasury bill payments er maturities.

As a result of the preparations for the blication of the half-yearly balance sheets, nkers' deposits have advanced by £5,444,688 £63,776,222. Private deposits stand at 6,113,767, as compared with £35,687,252 t week. Consequent upon a reduction of 15,332 in the active note circulation and increase of £283,763 in the total gold lding, which now stands at £157,773,290, against £160,207,077 last year, the reserve £999,095 higher on the week at 9,241,413 and £1,767,221 higher than at corresponding period last year. Owing the large increase in deposits the propor- n of reserve to liabilities is 3.9 per cent. er at 48.7 per cent.

FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

Dublin—Cattle slack depressed trade; Sheep barely steady; Dairy Cattle fairly active; Pig trade disappointing. York—Good show Irish and slow trade at late rates. Bristol—Slow trade for Stores. Butter at Copenhagen 5/5 dearer. Rubber steady. Fall in Tin. Copper dearer.

CATTLE.

DUBLIN (METROPOLITAN).—Cattle were rather more numerously marketed here this week, but trade was again slack and depressed, currencies being a full 1s. to 2s. per cwt. worse on top of last Thursday's drop. In point of quality and finish, cattle on the whole were a useful gathering. There were one or two extra cross-Channel buyers in evidence. One, a prominent buyer from London, who has been absent for some time, bought a few waggon loads of really well-finished bullocks around 45s. per cwt.; but, from all accounts, the prospects for beef during the coming months are not rosy owing to the short time being worked in both Yorkshire and Lancashire.

	Numbers on sale this week compared with last.	Corresponding weeks of 1928.	1929.
Sheep & lambs...	11,152 inc. 918	9,978	10,648
Veal calves	11 inc. 5	12	10

Altogether, cattle proved a slow and depressed sale, but big half-meated bullocks suffered in a greater degree in this respect than most other beasts. There was, however, a ready trade for both small and heavy-weight cattle of quality and finish, which, owing to comparative scarcity, realised near last week's returns. A fair all-round clearance was ultimately effected, although the market ran into a late hour of the day in an effort to clear the unsuitable beasts. After some early selections by leading Dublin victuallers of choice handy-weights, business virtually lapsed into a lifeless state for handy-weighted cattle. Terms averaged 45s. to 48s. per cwt., and for one very choice draft a little more. Secondary classes of useful meated character figured 40s. to 44s. Commoner grades difficult to quote for in stagnant state of trade. Choice young fat beef cows were readily cashed, but at a reduction of, say, 1s. to 2s. on last returns, namely, 30s. to 36s. Old and wasty sorts were irregular at 24s. to 29s.

SHEEP trade just about steady for nice-quality aged wethers and hoggets, heavy and coarse sorts especially. Ewes dull and irregular. Lamb trade experienced a sharp check from last Thursday's sales, and proved harder to effect at a reduction of, say, 1s. to 2s. and 3s. per head in some cases; but then there was an unusually big number, and full market to be dealt with, and shippers were insistent on securing requirements on safer basis of values. Mutton, per lb., best, 11d. to 11½d.; other classes anywhere from 7d. to 10d. Lambs, best, per head, 47s. to 55s., with an odd 56s. for a small lot; others from 30s. to 46s. Ewes, per head, 40s. to 58s.; hoggets, 50s. to 65s., very exceptional 70s.; wethers, 60s. to 72s. 6d., with an odd 75s. for a small lot of very choice quality. Flockmasters and farmers should particularly note that all consignments of ovine stock next and subsequent weeks must be accompanied with papers of dipping certificates; otherwise they cannot be received or dealt with on market.

DAIRY COWS.—There was a larger offering of milch cows — namely, 401 head—on market. Trade again proved fairly active for suitable classes, but others a slow, dragging trade, with last week's top prices paid for exhibits of outstanding merit, but ordinary and plain descriptions were a shade easier at, best, £24 to £27 and £28, others anywhere from £12 to £23.

PIGS.—Supply of swine 103 less than last gathering—viz., 548. Trade proved disappointing, especially for heavy weights of swine, owing to bad slaughter weather. Values more or less depressed, and back a good 2s. to 4s. per cwt., with a late finish. Prime bacon pigs, cwt., 70s. to 75s.; porkers, 76s. to 80s. Sows scarce at 50s. to 55s., in an odd case a little more. Slips and bonhams anywhere from 25s. to 50s. and 65s.

YORK.—Good show of Irish beasts for so late in season, but no English. Trade very slow, though later rates were maintained, and majority of beasts were of younger type. Highest price was about £22. Very light offer of calving and milk cows, and trade was fairly brisk up to £30 for best. Nice show of sheep, principally Mashams.

BRISTOL.—Moderate supply of beef. Best quality 95/- to 98/- per cwt., dead-weight. Mutton —Average quantities, 1/2 to 1/3 per lb. Lamb, 1/4 to 1/5 per lb. About 500 store cattle on offer, for which there was a slow trade. Milch cows, £25 to £28, up to £34 for extras.

BIRMINGHAM PIG.—Moderate supply, and trade quiet to fair, with values steady. Quotations: Sizeable bacons, 14/- to 14/6; cutters, 14/6 to 15/-; and sows, 10/6 to 11/- per score, dead-weight.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON—This market generally continues quiet, Danish being exceptionally in moderate request and prices in some cases again easier, American long clear being reduced to 84/- to 91/- and bellies 81/- to 83/- per cwt. HAMS remain firm and in good demand at further enhanced prices; short cut raised to 102/- to 108/- and long cut to 103/- to 112/- per cwt. Shoulders scarce and nominal. LARD on the spot quietly steady, with American refined moving moderately into consumption at late rates. CHEESE quiet and holders offering more freely on easier terms, though no actual decline in values reported. BUTTER firm, with a fair demand at generally higher prices. Danish new 147/6 to 151/-, Irish creameries 137/- to 141/-, Australian 135/- to 139/-, and Swedish 138/- to 142/- per cwt. EGGS again dearer; extra selected Irish hen held at 11/6 to 12/-, selected 10/6 to 10/9, medium 9/- to 9/6, and duck 9/3 to 9/9 per 120. WHEAT—American and Argentine markets finished better than expected, and forward deliveries of wheat here improved to a liberal extent during early trading under a natural reaction from the recent heavy decline, then fluctuated according to the offerings, the market finishing under best, with late afternoon cables discouraging, though making a fair advance on the day. C.i.f. parcels wheat neglected, but nominally 3d. per quarter dearer. C.i.f. parcels maize River Plate, May-June, sold at 23/6, June-July 22/6, July-August 23/-, and Galatz Foxanian afloat 24/3 per quarter. Wheat on the spot firm and dearer. MAIZE—Spot parcels firm and River Plate dearer at 5/7 per cental. FLOUR steady at late rates. Graded wheat futures opened ¼d. to ½d. per cental dearer, further improved until 1½d. advance had been paid, but closed steady at ½d. to ¾d. advance on the day.

BRISTOL.—BACON—There has been a good consumptive demand, and a firm tone has been maintained, with quotations generally moving in sellers' favour. Gammons and fores have moved particularly well, although some other classes have had only a moderate sale. HAMS have experienced a rather improved inquiry, and prices are on a higher level than a week ago, with expectations of further advances. LARD has been less steady, with supplies moving slowly into consumption, and the tendency of prices has been easier. CHEESE—New Zealand descriptions have been selling at rather lower prices, but, with small stocks, Canadian has been well sought at firm levels. BUTTER has met a good demand at firm prices for Colonial grades.

CARDIFF.—A firmer tone has developed during the past week, especially in the butter market, prices in that section being considerably higher. Wholesale quotations, delivered in the Cardiff district:—BACON—Irish baled, 106/- to 110/-; Danish, 103/- to 107/-; American not offered; Canadian Wiltshires not offered. HAMS—Irish not offered; American, 102/- to 118/-; shoulders, 76/- to 88/-. BUTTER—Irish creameries, 139/- to 143/-; separators, 131/- to 137/-; factories, 119/- to 129/-; Danish, 148/- to 152/—all per cwt. EGGS—Irish hen, best, 10/9 to 11/6 per 120. POULTRY—Chickens, 11d. to 1/2; hens, 7d. to 10d. per lb.

DUBLIN VEGETABLE.—Good supply. Cabbage a very slow trade, and salad unsaleable. Other arrivals a fair clearance. CORK SUMMER SHOW.

THE CUPS AND SPECIAL AWARDS.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE.

From Our Agricultural Correspondent.

CORK, Thursday.

For the concluding day of the Munster Agricultural Society's annual Summer Show to-day, the sky was clouded and the atmosphere was distinctly cooler. This seemed to affect the attendance up to 3 p.m., when there was a big influx of visitors to witness the jumping competitions. Fortunately, the threatening rain held off, and feminine spectators were able to show off their dresses to advantage. Everyday farmers were strongly in evidence, and in large numbers visited the trade exhibits, where the machinery in motion and agricultural implements of all kinds were effectively displayed.

Other attractions included the educational exhibit made by the Cork County Committee and the Department of Agriculture. This included three typical dual purpose daughters of that excellent dairy cow, Empress, to which I referred yesterday. As another instance of her profit-making propensities, it is worth noting that her bull calf, in 1927, was sold at ten days old for £10; her 1928 bull calf was sold at nine months old for £35; while her white bull calf of 1930 was sold at three days old for £5 10s. A new feature of the potato-growing section was the practical example of good and bad methods of marketing. Much interest was taken in the main crop variety, Golden Wonder, shown for the first time here. This variety holds the same position in the Glasgow market as King Edward does in England, and in point of quality equals the Champion, of which there were also samples, in addition to others. Keen interest was also taken in the bee-keeping display and in the Cork Farmers' Union Abattoir exhibit.

The drivings and penning of sheep by international sheep dogs excited admiration for the sagacity of the dogs and the patience of their trainer.

A pleasing musical programme was provided by the No. 2 Army Band, under Lieutenant A. Duff, Mus.B.

CUPS AND SPECIALS.

During the early part of the day interest centred chiefly around the judging for the challenge cups and specials. While this operation was in progress, and also when the animals were being collected for the parade, large numbers of visitors gathered round the ringside, especially in the section for horses, which was, undoubtedly, the feature of the live-stock display.

HORSES.

The Champion Hunter Cup was carried off by Mr. Eamonn D. Rohan, Carrigtwohill, with a bay five-year-old heavy-weight carrying gelding, of nice style and quality, which also won the Hunters' Improvement Society's Medal. Reserve went to Mr. Edward Walsh, Buttevant, with The Beggar, a five-year-old chestnut gelding, to carry 13st. to 14st., by Rowland.

The Breeders' Challenge Cup, for four-year-old Hunters, bred by exhibitor, was awarded to Mr. John Donegan, Fermoy, for Nelson, a brown gelding, by O'Donoghue, by Orby.

Another Fermoy horseman, Mr. James Barry, Carrin, won the Cup for three-year-old Hunter Geldings with Right Handman, a chestnut, by Iron Hand.

Mr. Richard Barry, Ballyarthur House, Fermoy, won the Bainbridge Cup for three-year-old Hunter Fillies with Fairy Thimble, a chestnut filly, also by Iron Hand and out of Fairy's Prospects. This exhibit also won the Hunters' Improvement Society's Medal for Fillies.

The O'Shea Cup for Yearling or two-year-old Hunters was won by Mr. John Ring, Midleton, County Cork, with a yearling chestnut colt, by Page Three; while the George Barry Memorial Cup, for Hunter Brood Mares, was again won by Mr. Terry O'Brien, Midleton, with his chestnut If Not, by Ben Alder.

CATTLE.

The Farran Cup, for Registered Dairy Cows, was carried off by the donor, Captain T. A. Clarke, with Farran Melody, a white five-year-old, with a milk record of 805 gallons; Mrs. H. C. Scriven's Empress, a 909 gallon rich roan, which has bred some excellent stock, was placed reserve.

Captain Clarke again came to victory in the contest for the Maxwell Gumbleton Cup for the Shorthorn Breed Championship with last year's winner, Straffan Chastity, a nine-year-old dark roan cow, by Albert Chancellor and out of Straffan Edelweiss. She is a typical specimen of the breed, and has a big list of successes to her credit. Mr. D. O'Connor's dark roan yearling bull, Broadhooks Diamond, by Desertereal Captivator, was reserve.

Straffan Chastity also won the Sprayfield Cup for the best Female Champion, the Earl of Dunraven's Adare Lady, a five-year-old, by Farran Hadrian, being reserve.

The Stanley Cup for Dairy Cows was won by Mr. J. S. Quinlan, Mitchelstown, with Ardglare Maude, a 1,040 gallon roan by Cloughduv Revenue. Mrs. Scriven's Empress was placed reserve.

Ardglare Maude also won the Lysaght Cup for Dairy Shorthorn Heifers, in milk, his Ardglare Lily III. being reserve.

The Society's Cup for Best Premium Bull in Munster was won by Mr. D. Barry, Sheepwalk, Fermoy, with Melleray Herald, Mr. Wm. Hennessy, Ballymacoda, being second with Aghmarta Duke.

The Kenmare Cup for one or two-year-old Shorthorn Heifers went to Capt. Clarke's white Farran Muriel, which also won last year, while the same owner's Farran Aquilegia was reserve.

Mr. D. O'Connor's dark roan yearling bull, Broadhooks Diamond, won the Cork Steam Packet Company's Cup for best Shorthorn Bull, Mr. T. O'Sullivan's Goldie Gaffer being reserve.

The breed Championship for Aberdeen Angus, a silver medal presented by the Irish Aberdeen Angus Association, was awarded to the Dublin Champion, Mr. J. O'Leary's yearling heifer Bellgirl of Ballintomb, a very typical member of the Blackbird tribe. Mr. R. C. Williams was reserve with the two-year-old bull, Belamour of Beaton.

The silver medal for Herefords was awarded to Dr. G. H. M. Crofts for the six-year-old bull Randlestown Cinema, Major T. P. Morgan's five-year-old cow Roda being reserve.

In the class for non-pedigree registered Dairy Shorthorn bull calves, recognised progeny, Mr. D. O'Connor was first with Copstown Henry II., Mr. J. S. Quinlan second with Ardglare Atavista, and third with Ardglare Wild 2nd.

NEXT YEAR'S SHOW.

A meeting of the Show Committee of the Munster Agricultural Society was held in the show yard to-day, Capt. T. A. Clarke, President, in the chair. Present:—Messrs. E. J. Clarke, M. Twomey, T. O'Sullivan, A. H. Moore, David Ross, Wm. Roberts, D. O'Connor, W. Desmond, A. Morrison, Hon. Secretary, and J. Byrne, Secretary.

The date of next year's show was fixed for the 24th and 25th June.

It was also decided to recommend the Finance Committee to provide additional box stalls.

CORK DOG SHOW.

The winner in the Limit and Open Class for Collies at the Cork Dog Show on Wednesday was Mr. P. J. Sinnott, Skerries, County Dublin, with Shamrock Girl.

STORE CATTLE SALES.

MESSRS. GAVIN LOW, LTD.

There was again, for the season of the year, a large show of cattle at yesterday's store sale, which included a very good display of Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford crosses, also shorthorns. Buyers, both home and cross-Channel were numerous, and all useful lots met keen competition, making around late rates. There was likewise a better demand for younger and secondary sorts, and a complete clearance was effected. Quotations:—Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford crosses made £21, £20, £19 2/6, £18 7/6, £18, £17 15/-, £17 12/6, £17, £16 5/-, £15 10/-, £15, £13 5/-, £12 10/-, etc., or from 52/- to 45/- per cwt. live-weight. Horned bullocks and heifers £20, £19 7/6, £19 2/6, £18 10/-, £18 2/6, £17 10/-, £16 15/-, £16 10/-, £16 5/-, £16, £15 10/-, £15, £14 5/-, £13 10/-, or from 49/- to 39/- per cwt.

MESSRS. GANLY, SONS AND CO.

There was a good entry of cattle for this firm's sale yesterday, the majority of the entrants being Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford crosses, or polled shorthorn, horned bullocks and heifers being only thinly represented. For best-conditioned lots there was a very good demand, and prices were on a still firmer basis than last week. The top price of the sale—namely, 54/6 per cwt, was obtained by Peter Byrne's Aberdeen-Angus heifers. A pen of A.A. heifers, the property of John McS. McCulloch, were 51/- per cwt.; H. P. Coughlan's A.A. bullocks made 50/- per cwt.; J. Howard's Hereford cross bullocks 50/-, and a consignment of very nice Hereford cross heifers from Lawrence Dwyer realised 50/-. Quotations for other lots:—Horned and polly bullocks 41/- to 45/-, shorthorn heifers 44/- to 46/-, Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford crosses 45/- to 49/-. Younger cattle in proportion, but a few lots of inferior quality did not attract buyers.

MESSRS. R. AND J. WILKINSON.

Nice quality store cattle continue in good request at late rates, but plainer animals are more difficult to place than heretofore. The principal prices were:—£21 5/-, £21, £17 12/6 for heifers (46/- to 43/- per cwt.); £17 15/- for Hereford bullocks (46/- per cwt.), Hereford and A.A. cross heifers at £16 7/6 and £13 7/6 (48/- to 46/-), and polled bullocks £18, were 42/- per cwt.

NORTH-WEST SHOW.

CONCLUDING DAY'S AWARDS.

THE SPECIAL PRIZES.

The North-West of Ireland Agricultural Society's annual summer show concluded at the Brandywell Showgrounds, Londonderry, yesterday, when the dairy cattle special prizes were awarded, and judging took place in the sheep and goat sections, while in the afternoon the horse jumping and sports took place. BANBRIDGE SHOW.

THE CUP WINNERS.

The fiftieth annual show promoted by the Banbridge Farming Society was held yesterday in the well-appointed grounds on the Castlewellan road. The total entries showed an increase of fifty-nine as compared with last year, horses, sheep, swine, rabbits, and home industries being responsible for the advance. Cattle and poultry were on a par with 1929, whilst a new feature was the students' cattle-judging competition, for which there were twenty entries. The President of the Society is Mr. T. B. Wallace, and the secretarial duties were efficiently discharged by Mr. A. Quinn.

The quality of the stock generally was of a high standard, and the dog section, which was introduced last year for the first time, attracted 220 entries.

THE VALLEY OF THE BOYNE.

COMBINED RAIL AND 'BUS TOUR.

The Great Northern Railway (Ireland) has arranged a combined rail and 'bus tour through the beautiful valley of the Boyne, but this delightful trip seems to be entirely overlooked by the general public when seeking somewhere to spend the summer days. By train tourists are conveyed to Drogheda, where, after a short period sight-seeing, they board a modern and comfortable 'bus, and are taken through about sixty-five miles of country abounding in lovely scenery.

On Tuesday last, as guests of the company, a large party of Irish journalists went on the tour. They entrained at Amiens street at 9.15 a.m., and were brought to Drogheda. Here some time was spent inspecting the city, and the party afterwards boarded a 'bus, which took them through the Boyne Valley, passing en route through Monasterboice, Mellifont Abbey, Slane, and Navan. On the return journey the 'bus stops at the Hill of Tara, Newgrange, and Dowth.

At Monasterboice, where the first stop is made on the outward journey, ample time is given for the inspection of the monastery founded by St. Buithe a century after St. Patrick's time. An opportunity is also given of climbing to the top of the ninth century round tower. In the old monastery grounds there are two wonderful specimens of Celtic crosses.

The journey is continued to Mellifont Abbey, where stands the old Cistercian monastery, a historical ruin dating back to 1142. It was at Mellifont that Dervorgilla, the beautiful wife of O'Rorke, Prince of Breffni, was buried.

Leaving Mellifont, the party proceeds through King William's Glen, where was fought the battle of the Boyne, which, as a writer has said, "was destined to turn Ireland into Montagues and Capulets for subsequent centuries."

Slane Hill is the next call. On the eve of Easter, 433 A.D., St. Patrick lighted the first Paschal Fire and brought Christianity to Ireland. In the beautiful adjacent country the magnificent Slane Castle, the Marquis Conyngham's demesne, and the beautiful Beaupare are to be seen.

About six miles further on a halt is made at Navan. Here luncheon is served, following which the tourists are conducted through the pretty little town. The Hill of Tara can easily be reached, and from here, as an old guide would say, "you can see fifteen counties."

Newgrange and Dowth, which are described as pyramids of Ireland, are also visited.

The tourist is afforded the opportunity of visiting the delightful Boyne Valley at a cost of 7s. 6d. The train leaves Amiens street at 9.15 a.m., returning to Dublin at 8 p.m. The company caters for tourists from all parts of the country, and will make special arrangements for organised parties.

IRISH WILLS.

Mr. Richard Wilson Booth, of Victoria House, Dalkey, Co. Dublin, founder of Booth Bros., Ltd., machine tool manufacturers, 63 Upper Stephen street, Dublin, one of the original directors of the Dunlop Rubber Company, Ltd., who died on 11th April last, left personal property in England valued at £11,599 15s. 11d. Probate of the will has been granted to his son, Edwin Wilson Booth, of Argyle road, Donnybrook, Co. Dublin.

The testator left £1,000 for distribution among such charities as might be directed in any memorandum left by him, or, in default of such memorandum, to such charities as the executors might determine; and £1,000 to the executors for distribution among such members of the staff of Booth Bros. (Dublin), Ltd., of not less than five years' service as they may think fit.

His residence, Victoria House, and his interest in all property at Dalkey, were left to his son, Robert Cecil Booth; and he stated: "Whereas, property known as Greenfields, being real estate, and having been made over to my wife in her lifetime, passes to our eldest son as her heir-at-law, now I hereby request my son, Edwin Wilson Booth, to transfer and make over the said property, Greenfields, to my son, Robert Cecil Booth." The residue of the property he left to his children, Edwin Wilson Booth, Robert Cecil Booth and Norah Matilda Forrester, as tenants in common.

Mrs. Ray Thomson, of The Rectory, Bellarena, Co. Londonderry, who died on the 31st December last, left personal property in Great Britain and Northern Ireland, valued at £2,124 7s. 10d., and probate of the will, dated 7th September, 1928, has been granted to Dr. Robert John McFeeters, M.D., and her daughter, Mrs. Maud McFeeters, both of Foxley Lodge, Lymm, Cheshire. The testatrix left £500 to her daughter, Maud McFeeters; £1,000 to her son-in-law, Dr. Robert McFeeters; £100 to her son, the Rev. Thomas Albert Thomson; £50 to her granddaughter, Muriel Ray M. Johnston, and £50 to the Rector and Select Vestry of Aghadoe Parish Church, "of which my late husband was rector," the income to be used for the grave "in which my late husband, the Rev. Thomas Hurst Thomson, LL.D., is buried," any surplus being used for the repair of the church. The residue of the property she left to her daughter, Maud McFeeters.

ROOTING OF STRAWBERRY RUNNERS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

The best way, undoubtedly, for early rooting of Strawberry Runners is by using the wee waterproof paper pots, which are now so cheap, and stocked by all seedsmen. Failing that, the runners can be pegged down on sods placed close up to the parent plants, grass-side down. In the case of pots they will be filled with some fresh, fibry loam, one runner being pegged in each, and the only question then is that of watering—possibly twice a day during heat and drought—pots being placed closely together to facilitate watering by the can and rose, the youngsters, so soon as rooted, being cut off from the parent, kept well watered, and making ready for permanent planting ere August is out.

POULTRY, CAGE BIRDS, DAIRY.

COOPS, HOUSES AND RUNS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

All these should be sufficiently large to keep the birds in health and vigour. The coops into which the chickens are first put should be large enough to hold them when they are six or eight weeks old. As they are taken from the coops small houses should be provided, but these should be much larger than sufficient to hold the birds placed in them. Many forget that the brids are growing, and, if a lot are squeezed into a house to its full capacity, in a few weeks there is sure to be overcrowding. The space in the runs also should be large enough. Of course, on a farm where they have unrestricted liberty there is not this difficulty, but if at all confined the space should be as large as possible. The ground becomes stale and foul, and if there are small grass plots they become very dangerous, the grass being poisoned with the droppings. All such grass plots should be swept every evening with a stiff yard broom, and well sprinkled afterwards if the weather is dry. Permanganate of potash in a weak solution is a very good thing to sprinkle over the grass occasionally. Earth runs should be cleaned up every day. At this time of the year it may be noticed that chicks often get mopey, lose much of their vigour and appetite. This may be caused by being overcrowded in a confined space. Try to let them out into a fresh plot if possible, and if this cannot be done divide up the space into two or three parts, letting them out into each alternately, and in each part give them some different food of green vegetables.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE OF CHARITABLE BEQUESTS.

MARY ANNE USHER, Deceased.

Take notice that the above-named, late of Ardnagrena, Rathgar, in the County of Dublin, widow, deceased, by her will dated 31st day of October, 1924, bequeathed the following legacies:—

To the Trustees of the Merrion Hall, for the maintenance of said Hall, and in aid of the services carried on therein or charitable work connected therewith, £300.

To the Treasurer for the time being of the Medical Mission, Blackhall Place, Dublin, for the benefit of that charity, £100.

Said Will provided that if her estate realised a sum more than sufficient to provide for all the legacies therein mentioned, then the surplus should be applied in augmenting the legacies pro rata according to the amount thereof. But if her estate should not be sufficient to pay same in full, then the legacies should all be proportionately reduced.

The Testatrix died on the 23rd day of December, 1929, and Probate of said Will was granted on the 20th day of May, 1930, forth of the Principal Registry, High Court of Justice, Saorstat Eireann, to Robert Usher, of Meadow Bank, Bushy Park road, Terenure, and Middleton Evans Perry, of 7 Rostrevor terrace, Rathgar, the Executors named in said Will.
